Student Council Supports Koramante Recommendations

The student council has overwhelmingly supported the recommendations that have been presented by the Society of Koramante to President Weaver. At the same meeting, totaling $8450, were approved.

The admission of 300 black students that has been asked for was intrinsically connected with the availability of funds for CUNY. It was pointed out that there is not one single avenue of funds for which the council is available. The admission of Mr. Anthony replied that the Baruch College must make its own self to apply to itself to actively recruit students from predominantly black high schools in New York City. The 300 students should enter Baruch this September whether through the SEEK program or through new normal channels according to Mr. Anthony.

The six point plan presented by the Society of Koramante includes:
1) an immediate recruitment of black instructors
2) the admission of at least 300 black students for the September semester
3) the development of a program in Afro-American and African studies leading to a degree in the field
4) that a greater emphasis be given to the experience of black americans in accordance to the instruction of the students in society departments in the Baruch

IRISH DEMANDS PRESENTED TO QUEENS COLLEGE ADMINISTRAT.

All dorm residents and students are getting into the present excitement. Recent days have seen the rise of student demands for the recognition of the Irish Studies "Building," and the selection of marshalls or honor guards, who will probably speak; the first graduating class of notables to be invited, among them, of course, honor guards, who will probably speak; the first graduating class of notables to be invited, among them, of course, Mrs. Baruch. The decision to hold the Prom caused a storm of protest, and immediate acceptance of 200 demands to the college, then, in all likelihood, this year, exact arrangements are to be made. The decision to hold the Prom was arrived at after interviewing underprivileged and grateful Irish students. Prof. Zimering, head of the ceremonial occasions committee, hope to have the "eminent" person scheduled as the formal head of the ceremonial occasions committee. Any Seniors who are interested in a "rom" are invited to participate.

The chairman of the Senior Prom Committee is quoted as saying that he had "not been faced with such a complex problem."

Senior Rings

Dear Classmates,

The installation of the formal class ring, for the Class of 1970, is an event which occurs only once. This ring will be worn on the other. This model will be the official senior ring until the designs for a new seal, and Pegaset are ready. This is expected some time during the next school year.

If you would like delivery of your ring this term, you will be able to order the Bauer model on Wednesday, March 12 and Thursday, March 13 in the Student Center lobby. Those orders must be accompanied by a 100 DOLLAR DEPOSIT. The prices listed below apply only to these two days and do not include the 5% sales tax.

AFTER MARCH 18TH YOU WILL AGAIN BE ABLE TO PURCHASE YOUR RING IN THE BOOKSTORE. HOWEVER, YOU WILL BE CHARGED AN ADDITIONAL THREE DOLLARS PREMIUM FOR EACH RING OR KEY PURCHASED IN THE BOOKSTORE.

As our class officers, we urge you to place your order on these two special days, March 12th and 13th, to insure receipt of your senior ring this semester.

Letters To The Editor

Mr. E. White

Ode To A Friend

Dear Sir,

I was recently reminded of a line from Thomas Gray's 'Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard':

"When I consider how my light is spent

Ere now the world seen better time,

ICXeother and sacrifice with thee -

To make me a Pilgrim and a Stranger in the world."

Yours sincerely,

E. White

On Preferential Treatment

by Max Minton

The recent controversy over preferential treatment raises several important questions. On one hand, there are those who argue that such practices create inequalities and perpetuate disparities. On the other hand, there are advocates who believe that preferential treatment is necessary to address historical injustices and promote equity.

For this reason, I propose a balanced approach that acknowledges the need for transparency and accountability while also recognizing the value of diversity and inclusion. This approach would involve a careful assessment of individual circumstances and a commitment to fairness and equality.

Sincerely,

Max Minton

The Budget

As the academic year comes to a close, we take a moment to reflect on the budgetary challenges facing our institution. The financial landscape is ever-evolving, and we must remain vigilant to ensure the sustainability of our programs and services.

In light of these considerations, I urge all departments to review their budgets with a focus on efficiency and effectiveness. We must work together to identify areas for improvement and prioritize our expenditures accordingly.

Thank you for your continued dedication and support.

Sincerely,

The past Thursday, the Philharmonic Woodwind Quintet gave an exceptionally versatile concert in the Oak Lounge. The performance was recent that received accolades from both students and faculty. The musical experience was one of the finest that has been heard in a long time. The woodwind quintet, consisting of four students and a professor, provided a program of contemporary music as well as classical works.

The performance was well-received by the audience, who were visibly impressed by the skill and precision of the performers. The program included a variety of works ranging from the classical to the modern, showcasing the versatility of the woodwind instruments. The audience was enthralled by the music, and the Quintet was so thrilled over the enthusiasm of the students, they promised to return some time in the future.

The concert was brought to the Oak Lounge by the Contemporary "Summer Music" program. From 12 to 2 P.M. on March 6th, the Oak & Marble Lounges will host a special performance featuring the Philharmonic Woodwind Quintet.

Scalp 'Em

By LARRY BROOKS

There is a new sport in town. It is played at all places, Madison Square Garden. There is only one rule to this game and it is that it is of great interest to business students: profit. The game is-called scalping and if the way the game is played isn't familiar here is a rap-up.

Scalper (we'll call him cheat) goes to Madison Square Garden two months before an event (Knicks or Ranger game). If he really wants to reach the top of the class he prepares before the season. Upon arrival at the Garden, Cheat heads directly to the advance sale window. He buys a dozen or so tickets to the event. In order that the man behind the window does not become overly suspicious, he then joins the next line and does the very same thing. The size of Cheat's prospective business dictates the amount of trips he makes to the area.

When game-night arrives, The Garden is sold out. Sports fans in this city are crazy; they will pay almost anything to see a big game. Cheat stands on Seventh Avenue between 31 and 33 Street. He keeps the tickets firmly in his hand so that a fellow thief is unable to pilfer them. He walks about, and in a normal speaking voice blurt "Who needs tickets?" When thirty-nine people run up he starts his wheeling and dealing. He sells $3.50 tickets for ten bucks. He sells two $5 seats for $25. And he sells them to the guy who has been shut out at the ticket window. And why has he been turned away? Because the scalpers have purchased enough tickets to fill ten sections of the Mezzanine.

With playoffs fast approaching, the game is bound to become even more popular. There is no worry in this game that expansion will dilute the talent. There is no worry in this game that expansion will dilute the talent. There is no worry in this game that expansion will dilute the talent. HOW TO BEAT THE SCALPERS: If a Knick game beber, the scalper keeps with every ticket is sold. He's standing around at game-time, the ducats are yours for the asking. If the New York City Police won't put the scalpers out of business, let the true sports fan do it. You end the scalpers' little game.
