COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course is an examination of the forces that shape women’s lives from the perspective of various disciplines such as psychology, sociology, masculinity theory, and history. It also explores ways in which gender intersects with ethnicity, race, and socio-economic class to form social constructs. We will use theoretical, historical and cross-cultural frameworks to explore cultural representations of women, various aspects of women’s experiences, both with public institutions and personal relationships, as well as ways in which their lives have been shaped by structures of gender inequality. Special attention will be placed on feminism and women as agents of local and global social change.

LEARNING GOALS AND OBJECTIVES
This interdisciplinary and cross-cultural course will foster students’ understanding of women’s studies as an academic discipline in light of concepts and theories proposed by feminist, gender and women’s studies scholars. We will examine their applicability across cultures within the US and among selected societies in Africa, Asia, Australia, the Caribbean, Europe and Latin America. The course is also designed to empower young women and men and allow them to become agents of positive social change.

The course is writing intensive and satisfies the following skills: critical thinking, oral expression, writing skills, library/data base/information literacy.

In this course, you are expected to:
- Learn what the interdisciplinary field of Women’s Studies is.
- Identify key concepts, contexts, events, figures, institutions, movements, processes, organizations, themes, theories and practices in Women’s Studies.
- Compare and contrast experiences of women across cultures in the US and beyond.
- Identify intersections of gender with race, ethnicity, class, nationality, religion, ability, age, sexuality and other identities.
- Learn the historical development of the feminist movement and key topics of feminism.
- Develop critical thinking skills and improve written communication skills, writing to learn.
- Develop an ability to participate actively in class discussions, making informed arguments and treating peers’ contributions both critically and respectfully.

COURSE FORMAT

Lectures, readings, screenings, on-line databases/Blackboard, and class discussions -- drawing on literary/oral traditions, historical, anthropological, philosophical, psychological, sociological, and autobiographical sources -- will be used to elicit new concepts and gain a better understanding of the discipline of Women’s Studies.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Regular class attendance is mandatory. More than four unexcused absences will adversely affect your grade. You are expected to come to class prepared, i.e. having done all assigned readings in advance, to participate in class discussions on the issues raised.

ASSESSMENT

- This is a Writing Intensive Class that entails Sustained Reading/Viewing Responses to Texts/Films, as well as Blog Writing following every course unit.
- Midterm Examination and Final Examination: each covers program materials and topics, and consists of fill-in-the-blank and essay questions.
- Research Project to be defined the first couple of weeks into the semester, in collaboration with my FYI Block colleagues.

A “ZERO TEXTBOOK COST” COURSE

No textbook is required for this class. All course materials are Open Educational Resources (OER) and will be posted on Blackboard for your perusal.

GROUND RULES

Accommodating Disabilities: Lehman College is committed to providing access to all programs and curricula to all students. Students with disabilities who may need classroom accommodations are encouraged to register with the Office of Student Disability Services. For more information, please contact the Office of Student Disability Services, Shuster Hall, Room 238, phone number, 718-960-8441.

The Academic Center for Excellence (ACE) and the Science Learning Center (SLC) are two of the tutoring centers on campus. The ACE provides appointment-based and drop-in tutoring in the humanities, social sciences, and writing, as well as general writing and academic skills workshops. The SLC provides drop-in tutoring for natural science courses. For more information, please visit their websites or call 718-960-8175 (ACE) or 718-960-7707 (SLC).

The Counseling Center (Old Gym Bldg, Rm 114) creates inclusive spaces and fosters open dialogue with students, faculty and staff by providing Counseling, Consultation, Confidential Therapy, Coaching, and Psycho-Educational services. All students are treated with respect and are seen as individuals with unique strength.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism Policy: Academic honesty and integrity are fundamental to the mission of Lehman College and are binding upon all its members. Students are responsible for the honest completion and representation of their work, for the appropriate citation of sources and for respect of others’ academic endeavors. Included among the most rigorous sanctions for student academic misconduct is a lowered overall course grade, a failing grade in the course, disciplinary probation, and/or expulsion from the College. For more information on the academic integrity policy, please refer to the relevant College website.

Attendance/Absence/Lateness: If you are going to be absent due to an emergency, please email me to let me know but remember it is your responsibility to get the lesson notes and/or assignments from one of your classmates. It is imperative that you get contact information for at least three (3) of your classmates to ensure that you keep up to date with course material. Students who are consistently late tend to not do as well as students who arrive on time. So be punctual! Excessive absence and/or lateness will affect your participation grade.

Assignments: With the exception of examinations, your assignments must be typed double spaced in 12 point Times New Roman font, contain one-inch margins, and be free of spelling and grammatical errors. Assignments are due at the start of class on their due date.

Blackboard is an excellent course tool that we will be using primarily for announcements, assignments, documents, links, and discussion boards. To have access to Blackboard, you need to activate your Lehman College e-address immediately at the IT Center located in the plaza level of Carman Hall or call # 718 960 1111.

Cell Phones et al: Please turn your cell phones on silent before class starts. Everyone can hear your phone on vibrate! Please do not answer your phone and do not text during class. If you must use your phone because of an emergency, discreetly and politely walk out to the hall. Excessive attention to your phone during class will affect your participation grade.
