To the Class of 1970:

Warmest congratulations to each of you on having reached another milestone in your educational career. Your name on this roster of graduates is clear evidence of your intellectual capacity, your steadfastness of purpose, and your desire to succeed.

You are indeed fortunate to graduate at a period of history in which unlimited opportunities are available to capable and well-prepared young people in a wide range of occupations and professions. Moreover, new fields are opening constantly, and it is almost impossible to predict the shape of the future in our dynamic economy. In any case, it is certain that you will have the opportunity to contribute your talents to the solution of a wide variety of social problems.

Although much progress has been made, much still remains to be done to redeem the promise of American life. Such problems as racial discrimination, environmental pollution, the population explosion, control of nuclear weapons—all challenges to our survival—are just some of the urgent tasks confronting all of us. It is my hope that each of you will give the best that is in him to help solve these and other serious problems during the remainder of this century.

Many of you will continue your studies, and some of you will even go on to graduate school. Others will go immediately into business and industry, government, and the social and healing professions. But whatever you decide to do, I feel it is important for you to continue to learn and to grow both on your job and as responsible citizens of a democratic society. It has been our aim at BCC to enable you to embark upon a program of lifelong self-study and personal fulfillment.

You may be sure that our hopes, our prayers, and our best wishes for your continued success will accompany you throughout your future career.

Sincerely yours,

James A. Colston
President

A Campus Grows in the Bronx

"Four score and seven years ago" the City University promised Bronx Community College a new campus. Originally promised for 1968 the new campus has finally entered into the first stages of construction.

The plans for the new campus have been changed several times during the relatively short life of the college. Apparently dependent on the amounts of money allocated for construction, buildings have come and gone from the plans.

Construction has finally started with Governor Nelson Rockefeller turning the first shovelful this past winter.

Within the next few months and years new students at BCC will not have to deal with the problems of getting from one building to another by bus, train or car during the ten minutes between classes. The treks through the winter cold and snow to the Concourse center, the JAC building, the Fordham Center and the long wait for the number 12 bus to the Nursing Center for an English class will soon be a thing of the past.

BCC is a place for growth and BCC is growing. The awkward pains of "adolescence" will soon be gone, replaced by the cohesiveness of "maturity".
An early design plan for the new BCC.

It’s been a long and interesting year. It’s been a year of action, involvement, learning and growth. It has held challenges for the student body, the faculty, the administration and the individuals in each of these groups.

It has been a special challenge for me and the yearbook staff. In late December 1969, there was no yearbook staff, no yearbook editors, and it looked like for the first time in the history of Bronx Community College there would be no yearbook.

With no organization, no preparation, and no trained personnel we sat down as a staff and started to produce GENESIS 1970. Altruism is always questionable as a motivation for most actions of this non-involved genre so I feel that an explanation is in order.

Bronx Community College is my school. It has been a source of education and intellectual expansion for everyone on the staff as well as for all students who attended. It has provided on another level a framing environment for individual growth through the awesome unfolding of the close inter-personal relations experienced both on campus and in the community at large. We have all benefited from the school and the environment.

It then behooves us as responsible members of the college community to strive to maintain that community for the benefit of others.

Therefore our acts are not based on altruism, but rather on gratitude. We are grateful to those who before us have established the setting and the mechanisms for our advancement. We have decided to give something to the continuity of that process and maintain the tradition of an annual senior yearbook.

For my staff, there is little that can be said for their efforts. Naming names here may seem meaningless since many people will recognize none, but I feel credit should be given where it is due.

Assistant Editor Susan Miller, with whom I have worked closely on this book, has earned my gratitude. Her efforts were always appropriate for the needs of the book and the staff. Her organizing capabilities are in part largely responsible for this yearbook being what it is.

Chris DiLisdiilte, who performed the double task of acting as Copy Editor and section coordinator, was invaluable. Although he has had no previous experience he has done a marvelous job in helping to give this book an almost professional touch.

The Photography Editor, Bob Morales, also did a coordinating job which wasn’t actually within his assigned duties. It is easy to see the range of photographic excellence throughout this year’s GENESIS.

Other names are very important to me, and I don’t think I’ll ever forget them. Among the staff there were such great people as Peter Nicoforas, Nelson Eng, Maryanne Skankiewicz, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Student Newsletter Stu Cohen.

The faculty members who guided us we could never have done without. Professor Stergianopoulos, Mr. Hoberman, Mr. Woolfson, Dr. Thompson, and Mr. Ciofalo were invaluable in their generous giving of assistance and advice from their years of experience.

BCC Assoc., Inc., with its generosity, has made this publication financially feasible. True, a little bit more giving might have made the going easier, but when one is doing something for one’s school one really can’t complain.

Lastly, I would like to thank you, my fellow BCCers for being you. For being wonderful, and giving and warm and free and open. If I were to rate the student body as a whole I would have to rate it as very high.

CATHY STUTTIG
