ROBERTA KOCH
DEDICATION

Our yearbook this year is dedicated to a truly beautiful person. The "ingredients" needed for this person are: creativity, imagination, ambition, and devotion. These ingredients can be hard to find, but they are all found in Roberta Koch.

Roberta's acceptance of the students on an informal level and the friendly atmosphere which she generates in the Student Activities office in the Main Building are examples of her fine character.

Roberta can be characterized as a woman who really tries to understand all people who pass through the door of room 2-29.

The world of Roberta Koch is not limited to her duties in the Student Activities office. A great part of her world is shared with her much beloved husband Bill. Her many interests and varied way of life have brightened the hearts of many of us at Bronx Community College. We in room 2-29 refer to Roberta as our "den mother" because just like a mother she will go out of her way to help anybody and give them the tender loving care that they need.

Because she has shown us a never-ending need to help and guide us, we dedicate our love and devotion to someone who has been indispensable to our lives.

Though we leave Bronx Community College, we leave with the beautiful experience of having known Roberta Koch.
To the Class of 1971:

First of all, I wish to extend my warmest congratulations to each of you on your graduation from Bronx Community College. You deserve high praise for your achievement, and I am certain you will receive it in ample measure from your families and friends.

As I reflect upon the time we have spent together at the College, it occurs to me that we have shared many joys but also some sorrows. Often the sorrows came to us because, time and again, events in the big world outside the campus sent shock waves throughout the land. And the impact of these events was felt with particular force in our colleges and universities.

It is my hope that our shared experience at Bronx Community College has kindled in you the desire and the determination to contribute to the solution of the urgent tasks confronting all of us. Although scientific progress has brought many material benefits, it has also created new problems that threaten to overwhelm us. As educated men and women, it is your responsibility to join the ranks of those who labor to solve pressing social problems and to redeem the promise of the American dream.

As you leave BCC, a part of us goes with you. We wish you well in your future endeavors, and we would want you to go as far as you can. You may be sure that whatever you may do, wherever you may be, our hopes, our prayers, and our fondest wishes for your success will accompany you.

Sincerely yours,

James A. Colston

Let's talk of many things
And walk through many dreams
together
Sharing things with one another
Learning things about each other forever

So many things to think about to dream about to learn about now for tomorrow
There will be so many other things.

Man Made God

Man made God
as he is evil
as he is good

Devils don't burn
in pits of fire
Angels are reflections of dreams and desires

Heaven and hell
can be found on earth inside us all
from our time of birth

We are all we can ever be a past and present
a future yet to see.
Guilty; Thus Condemned

"I stand accused" should be your theme
Your self-image properly
Represented of little esteem
What use this life energy?

Competent advice is needed
For passive playing roles
Self-ingratitation heeded
What grain this human soul?

Society is not analysis
Man has and will go on in synthesis.

A Thanksgiving Poem

Gracious Lord, we truly thank thee for:

the American flag,
this great government,
the public school system
our racial discontent.

the renewed food stamps,
the welfare lines,
the strung out youths,
our hungry whines.

the broken homes,
the unjust crimes,
the unclothed flesh,
our slavery times.

the Asian deaths,
the late Otis Redding,
the constant tail,
our knack for forgetting.

the cracking walls,
the slum landlords,
the cold pipes in winter,
all these rewards.

Amen.

Miro

Miro las aves que van volando.
Miro las nubes que van pasando.
Siento mi cara entre tus manos.
Siento tu aliento cerca de mí.

Huelo el perfume de tantas flores.
Huelo tu aroma hasta en el viento.
Veo sonrisas en muchos labios.
Veo tu imagen tan ideal.

Oigo las olas al estrellarse.
Oigo los barcos al acercarse.
Miro tus ojos tan excitantes.
Miro tu estampa tan sin igual.

Solos En El Mundo

Solos en este mundo, tú y yo eternamente.
Sin nada ni nadie que nos pueda separar.
Tú siempre a mi lado. Yo siempre junto a tí.
Qué gran felicidad podríamos encontrar solos en el mundo.
Solos en este mundo, tú y yo eternamente.
Sin nada ni nadie que nos pueda separar.
Todo sería armonía. Reinaría la alegría.
¡Oh! cuánta éxtasis habría entre los dos.
Viviríamos de tu amor y mi amor.

How Lucky we are to be able to see the sun

Patience

Wishing, hoping, praying
For a true love.
Time standing still Suspended animation.
World moving around you.

Have faith in God.
He will find a way.
Patience is a virtue.
For those who wait,
Great things shall come.

Flor de Primavera

Delicada flor de primavera
Que nos ofrenda la naturaleza,
Tierna y suave entre mis manos
Y su perfume me embelesa.

Bellisima flor de primavera
Cuánta esperanza das al amor;
Cuántos suspiros en mi pecho alientas;
Cómo das fuerzas a mi corazón.

Deslumbrante flor de primavera
Que llenas mi alma de emociones;
Dame valor y dame paciencia
Para alcanzar mis ilusiones.

Flor de Otoño

Flor de otoño que brindas
la última esperanza,
Que prometes un futuro más;
Flor de otoño que ofrece tu experiencia,
Que regalas todo el corazón,
Ayúdame a olvidar y ayúdame,
Ayúdame hasta mi amor llegar.

Flor de otoño que nada
esperas recibir,
Que nada sueles tú pedir;
Flor de otoño que vives del amor,
Que muestras tu resplandente faz,
Ayúdame a olvidar y ayúdame,
Ayúdame hasta mi amor llegar.

Spring Flower

Delicate spring flower that nature offers to us, it’s tender and soft in my hands and its perfume fascinates me.

Most beautiful spring flower how many hopes to love you give; how many sighs in my breast you inspire; how you give strength to my heart.

Dazzling spring flower that fills my soul with emotions; give me valor and give me patience so I may reach my dreams.

Autumn Flower

Autumn flower that offers a last hope, That promises another future; Autumn flower that offers its experience; That gives away its heart, help me to forget, help me, help me reach the one I love.

Autumn flower that expects to receive nothing, That is used to asking for nothing; Autumn flower that lives off love, that shows its radiant face help me to forget, help me, help me, help me reach the one I love.

“Winter Calls”

Hazy morning, skies are dark,
Sprinkling rain in Central Park,
It’s late September and leaves are falling Autumn’s here and winter’s calling.
Raindrops tingle and dance in joy,
Children laugh and play with toys,
Lovers love and make romance,
Drifting leaves slowly dance.

Stop and here the water splash,
Thunder sparks a lovely flash,
Then it pours like a turned on shower,
I sit and gaze at chilled up flowers,
Time keeps rolling and very soon,
I see the rush of workday’s noon,
People enter rich cafes,
Others crowd the street’s subways,
Traffic moves and lights turn on,
Soon the hour of lunch is gone.

The rain still falls then turns to a drizzle,
Then I spot a real slight fizzle,
Suddenly the sun breaks through,
And soon the skies start turning blue,
Then I hear the sounds of horns,
Of muddy streets that splash and scorn.
But I have seen a day in fall,
And in the city . . . “Winter Calls”.

Americanism

I am an American,
Where is my country?
Laos, Cambodia, Vietnam?
I am young and want to be free

I am an American
Where is my voice?
Must I be forced to whisper my thoughts in the silence
of the underground?

I am an American
Where is my heart?
I have not the thoughts
of my hard-hatted brother
Is my faith any less?

I am an American
Where is democracy?
Justice, in my courts have turned their back to my rights

Am I an American?
Alienated, alone, reading understanding into actions of those who refuse to understand me.

REMEMBERING

AIMING IN PAIN
I CATCH A LAST YEAR’S MEMORY.
A DEEP ONE —
BUT NOW IT’S PEACEFUL,
real, overcome
COMPARED TO THE PAIN
I RECEIVE NOW.

Togetherness

Together we will climb the highest mountain and touch the soft, gentle clouds.

We will float with happiness among them and shout our joy so that others may hear that,

LOVE IS WONDERFUL!

HAPPINESS IS GRAND!

TOGETHER IS MARVELOUS!

Seeing the future and working towards it together,

Is something not many people can achieve.

We, my love, will succeed!

For, with us, there is no past,

We live for the present and the future.

Togetherness is, I think, an unexplainable word.

What is there to explain?

When you love and are loved,

You give of your very being.

Yes, togetherness is marvelous.

There may be some rain in our lives,

But, rain comes seldom, when the sun continuously shines.

Joy is ours, but must not be mishandled.

We'll take things as they come,

For, without togetherness, what is there?

The lesson of Bronx Community College is being ready. Once you leave B. C. C. it is fair to say that you are equipped to cope with any of life's problems. In other words, "you're as ready as you're ever gonna be." Many years from now when you sit back and reflect upon your life, undoubtedly B. C. C. will mark a significant point in it.

There have been many experiences good and bad, but each has a common denominator—learning. I think that whether it happened in the classrooms, in student lounges, at rallies, on the stoop of the main building, or in one of the local restaurants, each was an experience from which we profited. Whether or not we choose to recognize the true lesson, that of acknowledging the reality of our experiences and being ready to face them, is up to us.

Many of us will continue our higher education, others will pursue careers, but most important, we will never stop learning no matter what our situation. I think that whatever we do after we have left B. C. C., when someone says "some folks just ain't ready", remember that you learned it here and hopefully it's not true of you.

Sincerely,

A Sonata Of Dreams

The time has come to read and remember things of the past, and to dream of things that were. We are the music-makers of dreams, as the movers, losers, shakers and for-sakers of the world. But as the days come and go, the hands of memory weave dreams. Man is poor without his dreams and looks toward that far land of dreams where every man is his own architect. Dreams may deceive, and along their wavering vista, we find the ages of the world, each one a dream or one coming to birth. But it is only the dream that in the end will last, since in some distant day when the world is too much with us, our dream will live on.

Now we must carefully select doors to open and beyond which to explore. We cannot allow anyone to tell us how to achieve this. Our purpose in life is to select, not arbitrarily, but carefully, the world in which we want ourselves and our children to grow. What is most important is that we communicate our ideals throughout the world.

To close this movement in the Sonata on the dreams of life, we shall someday look back thankfully and say, “Behold it is here the cup which thou didst fill for me at the beginning.” With these words we thank those that helped us to fill the cup of life, and to write our own Sonata of Dreams.
The worst is not
So long as we can say
"This is the worst."

—W. Shakespeare
