GOING PLACING
I don't know what I expected when I first came to BCC...
There were some surprises . . . new things to discover including myself

Where was I going?
Over the years
BCC has given me
the chance to reach out
to find my potential
Moving ahead ...
Dedication

Each and every one of us has been touched by the financial hard times which have fallen upon BCC. Some of our best faculty and staff have been lost to us through layoffs. Those who have remained have had to shoulder greater workloads and longer hours during a difficult year.

To our friends and colleagues who have gone; to those who remain and carry on, we respectfully dedicate this book.
When the semester first began, I spent a lot of time going to classes, getting to know the teachers, seeing my counselor, settling in . . .
With a little help, I soon got to know the campus pretty well . . .
... and found that BCC was more than just books and studies
Here my imagination can soar, playfully . . . seriously . . .

Hang in There, Baby
Semesters pass quickly, like the seasons
Then suddenly, it's time for exams . . .
Graduation looms near.
Each of us looks towards a different future . . .
Leaving some things behind.
But knowing, each end brings a new beginning...
Each semester BCC is different things to different people . . .

LET ME SAY THIS
BEFORE RAIN BECOMES A UTILITY
THAT THEY CAN PLAN AND DISTRIBUTE FOR MONEY.
BY “THEY” I MEAN THE PEOPLE
WHO CANNOT UNDERSTAND THAT RAIN
IS A FESTIVAL, WHO DO NOT APPRECIATE ITS GRATUITY, WHO THINK THAT WHAT HAS NO PRICE
HAS NO VALUE, THAT WHAT CANNOT BE SOLD IS NOT REAL,
SO THAT THE ONLY
WAY TO MAKE SOMETHING
ACTUAL IS TO PLACE IT ON THE MARKET.
THE TIME WILL COME
WHEN THEY WILL SELL YOU EVEN
THE RAIN. AT THE MOMENT
IT IS STILL FREE, AND I AM IN IT.
I CELEBRATE ITS GRATUITY AND MEANINGLESSNESS.

During the Spring, we may have changed, a budget crisis may have prevented the Center being what we wanted it to be. Some of us are gone. So, remember the Center for what it was, not what it may be. Remember it for the things above.

FINALE

Like sundown of a warm day's quiet close;
Like withered petals dropping softly from the rose;
Like the bee's fading drone... so drowsily,
Like that I want my end to be.

One giant wave against a jagged shore;
Like a storm, or a volcano's roar;
I want either one fierce final test,
Or I want to doze off to peaceful rest.
