HARVEY, AS PATRIOT, BLOCKS COLLEGE FUND

Brooklyn Students Unworthy of Aid After Anti-War Strike, He Says After Board Vote

In protest against what he termed the "unpatriotic" sentiments recently expressed by students of Brooklyn College in anti-war demonstrations, George U. Harvey, Borough President of Queens, cast his vote in the Board of Estimate yesterday against a $20,000 appropriation for an architect's services in planning Brooklyn College furniture.

The resolution, calling for employing Randolph Evans and Corbett, Harrison & MacMurray to prepare drawings and supervise installation of equipment in the new college plant in Flatbush, was blocked for at least one week, since Aldermanic President William F. Brunner and Borough President Samuel Levy of Manhattan also voted against it.

Although the remaining members of the board cast ten affirmative votes, twelve are required under the board rules to pass a resolution on its first appearance on the calendar. A simple majority is sufficient for enactment the next time the question comes before the board. Approval is desired so the college project can be completed in time for the opening of the Fall term.

"Young people who take that attitude do not deserve higher education at the taxpayers' expense," Mr. Harvey said later in explaining his vote.

"While the anti-war actions of students in the city colleges have been disgraceful, the fault lies not so much with the students as with the teachers who put subversive ideas into their heads and the administrative officers who permit them to do unpatriotic things."

Mr. Brunner said he voted against the resolution mainly because he did not approve of the city's employing "outside architects when there are plenty of architects on the civil service lists well qualified to do the city's work." Mr. Levy was not reached to explain his opposition.
