2-6-2017

There is proof diversity makes colleges better.

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!
Follow this and additional works at: https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs
Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
Romero, A. 2017. There is proof diversity makes colleges better. The Edwardsville Intelligencer 6 February 2017, p. 3.
has now adapted these views in order to encourage diversity.

Other studies have shown that, among other things, diversity can help reduce racial bias and help organizations better understand the needs of their market.

There is evidence that diversity makes colleges better. Since the time of the Civil Rights movement the issue of diversity has been widely discussed in American society. A diverse environment in which all students have different capabilities is more likely to foster creativity and innovation. The more diverse those toolboxes, the more likely you are to find solutions that you never would have thought of on your own. For example, if you have a team that has different backgrounds and experiences and different tools in their rear ends, you're more likely to find a solution than if you have a team that all have the same background.

The more diverse those toolboxes, the more likely you are to find solutions that you never would have thought of on your own. For example, if you have a team that has different backgrounds and experiences and different tools in their rear ends, you’re more likely to find a solution than if you have a team that all have the same background.

The more diverse those toolboxes, the more likely you are to find solutions that you never would have thought of on your own. For example, if you have a team that has different backgrounds and experiences and different tools in their rear ends, you’re more likely to find a solution than if you have a team that all have the same background.