Female administrators face discrimination in ed.

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

3-6-2017

Recommended Citation
Female administrators face discrimination in ed

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr. Letters from Academia

In past articles of this column we have reported that shows that women in general find barriers to their male counterparts in getting into academic institutions. Female, female deans, professors earn on average 10 percent less in salaries than their male colleagues. If you are a woman in academia and aspire to an administrative job it is important to realize you will find more pay than her male, and more often than not you are not

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr.

In past articles of this column we have reported that shows that women in general find barriers to their male counterparts in getting into academic institutions. Female, female deans, professors earn on average 10 percent less in salaries than their male colleagues. If you are a woman in academia and aspire to an administrative job it is important to realize you will find more pay than her male, and more often than not you are not

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr.

In past articles of this column we have reported that shows that women in general find barriers to their male counterparts in getting into academic institutions. Female, female deans, professors earn on average 10 percent less in salaries than their male colleagues. If you are a woman in academia and aspire to an administrative job it is important to realize you will find more pay than her male, and more often than not you are not

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr.

In past articles of this column we have reported that shows that women in general find barriers to their male counterparts in getting into academic institutions. Female, female deans, professors earn on average 10 percent less in salaries than their male colleagues. If you are a woman in academia and aspire to an administrative job it is important to realize you will find more pay than her male, and more often than not you are not

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr.

In past articles of this column we have reported that shows that women in general find barriers to their male counterparts in getting into academic institutions. Female, female deans, professors earn on average 10 percent less in salaries than their male colleagues. If you are a woman in academia and aspire to an administrative job it is important to realize you will find more pay than her male, and more often than not you are not

Dr. Aldemaro Romero Jr.