

BROOKLYN'S CITY COLLEGE OPENED WITHOUT RITES

Ceremony Informal in Re- spect to Guider — Strong Faculty

Because of the death of Borough President Joseph A. Guider, there will be no formal exercises at the opening this morning of Brooklyn City College. The students will come quietly to the Willoughby Building, Willoughby and Bridge Streets, where the college is at present, and take up their studies as though the institution had long been in existence. Formal opening exercises will come at a later date.

The Board of Higher Education, created at the last session of the State Legislature with the support of The World, to create a separate free educational institution in Brooklyn, had only three weeks to prepare the building for pupils, as the structure was turned over to them only Sept. 2.

The Chairman of the Committee on Brooklyn Facilities is Ralph Jonas, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. The other members are Mrs. William H. Good, Arthur W. Howe, Judge Charles J. McDermott, Judge John G. Dyer, Dr. Harry P. Swift and Miss Ruth Levinson.

This committee, acting through the Provost of the Board of Higher Education, Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, Acting President of City College, and George S. Davis, President of Hunter College, created the following staff for the new Brooklyn College:

Acting Dean, Dr. Adelbert G. Fraidenburgh, many years at Adelphi College and seven years director of Brooklyn Centre, City College.

Art department, Prof. J. Reddign Kelly, assisted by Alfred N. Appleby; biology department, Prof. Earl A. Martin; chemistry department, Prof. F. E. Briethut; classical languages, Dr. Marlo E. Cosenza and Dr. George V. Edwards; economics, Prof. William H. Steiner and Edwin H. Spangler; German, Prof. John Whyte and

Dr. Mark Waldman; government, Prof. William J. Carnathan; history, Dr. Jesse D. Clarkson and Arnold Broggi; English, Prof. Harry Krowl, Dr. Joseph F. Wickham, Ralph Gordon and Frederick Ewen; mathematics, Prof. Maximilian Philip, Prof. George M. Hayes, Edward Fleischer, Oscar W. Irvin; physics, Prof. Charles A. Corcoran, Theodor S. Smits; public speaking, Joseph H. Kelly and Nathan Beraliffi; romance languages, Prof. A. M. N. Camera, Prof. Max A. Luria, Auguste Saldien and Herbert E. Ketcham.

In the opinion of Provost Robinson the staff is strong and well balanced and will be able to conduct the work of the freshman and sophomore years in a most satisfactory manner.

"It is fortunate," he said, "that the new college in Brooklyn can have available immediately a faculty of this high calibre. Most new college organizations require many years to build up a staff of superior merit."
