Notes from the Editor

By Derek Stadler

I are very pleased to welcome you to the first issue of the 25th volume of Urban Library Journal.

Although this issue is not themed, it covers current topics that affect urban librarianship. “Keeping the Equity, Inclusion, and Diversity Conversations Going” highlights the work of a committee whose goals are to maintain equity, inclusion, and diversity on a college campus. “Book Format Preferences of Community College and Four-Year College Students: Results from Two Urban Campuses” touches on the debate between the print and electronic book. Using the results of a study that compared the preferences of community college and four-year college students, the authors suggest that their findings can help inform collection development decisions. Lastly, “Remixing an Open Educational Resource: A Case Study of the Uncommon ‘R’” examines how a cohort of librarians altered and localized an open educational resource for a college-level course at an urban institution.

Enjoy!
