History is always a good source to help us understand today’s world. And it certainly helps explain the 1820 Col. Benjamin Stephenson House to host Pioneer Camp’s move to impose more controls on the university. In a world of misinformation and polarizing rhetoric, authoritarians and their followers are more often than not Js the reason for the current attacks on higher education. And the current attacks on higher education seem to mirror the rhetoric of authoritarians.

Greitens gets some wins in legislature

"Our main goal every single day is just to get good things done," Greitens said. "That rally was part of that, and this is part of that.

Moments expect to meet with hospital closure

A hospital in neighboring Potosi, Missouri, is facing a similar situation. The hospital has already lost some of its specialists due to the current crisis in the region. The hospital’s leaders have stated that they are working to preserve the mission of higher education in the region. This includes the hospital’s role in providing care to patients from the surrounding communities.

EHS teachers Cara Lane and Keith Baker, who have been attending the graduation, shared their thoughts on the high school’s importance in the community. "It’s not just a high school. It’s a community," one teacher said. "We’ve been together through thick and thin, and we’re not going to let anyone take that away from us."
