NEW YEAR TO BRING NEW LOOK, NEW PRICE

The Winter 1977 issue of the Women's Studies Newsletter will mark an exciting new phase in its history. With the addition of Feminist Press Art Director Susan Trowbridge, the Newsletter has gained not only a new staff member, but also a brand-new look. Watch your mail carefully or you won’t recognize your Winter ‘77 Newsletter when it arrives!

The new year will also bring a modest price increase. New look notwithstanding, the price change has become a real necessity (see editorial). We’ve tried to keep the price hike as low as possible in this time of tight budgets: individual domestic subscriptions will be $7, institutional domestic subscriptions $12; individual foreign subscriptions will be $10, institutional foreign subscriptions $15. We look forward to your continued support.

ATTENTION ELEMENTARY TEACHERS

The Feminist Press is currently seeking for publication nonsexist curricular materials which have been developed by elementary teachers (K-6) and used successfully with their students. Our research has shown that recent federal legislation (Title IX) has underscored the need for supplemental material to offset the blatant sexism in existing texts. A volume of nonsexist elementary curricular materials would be invaluable in filling the void in this area. You, the elementary teacher, are the best source for this material; by your day-to-day contact with the children, you know what works best. Your knowledge should be shared with others.
