4. Subcommittee on Elective Courses. The omnibus motion to approve the proposed course, The Family, was carried. Yes - 16, No - 2, Abstentions - 1.

Catalog Description. This course is an introduction to the study of the family as a social institution. The evolution of the form and functions of the family will be discussed, showing how the structure of the family is shaped by a variety of forces in the society. There will be a particular emphasis on the form of the contemporary American family. Among the other topics to be considered in the course will be the significance of the family as a socialization agent, courtship and the romantic love complex, women's role and the changing family structure, minority culture families in American society (with particular emphasis on the Puerto Rican and Black family), and a consideration of the future of the family. The prerequisite is Sociology 11. 3 hours -- 3 credits.

5. Chairperson Levey thanked the members of the Committee for their faithfulness and diligence in the performance of their responsibilities. A vote of confidence was given to Professor Levey and Dean G. Hobbs for their outstanding work as chairperson and secretary, respectively.
6. Adjournment. The meeting was adjourned at 3:55 P. M. The next meeting will take place on Tuesday, September 18, 1973, at which time there will be election of officers.

Respectfully submitted,

Gloria L. Hobbs
