WOMAN'S WORTH
Sexual Economics and the World of Women
Lisa Leghorn & Katherine Parker

"The term 'economics' will never ring the same again after reading Leghorn and Parker's book. The truths about women and labor have been buried at least as deep as the truths of our sexuality. The meaning of 'woman's work' becomes beautifully and staggeringly concrete in this multi-racial, multi-ethnic view, which reveals uncompromisingly who are the true proletariat of the world." — ADRIENNE RICH

"This isn't the economics you were taught? Read this book and reteach yourself." — ALICE WALKER

GIRLS GROWING UP IN LATE VICTORIAN AND EDWARDIAN ENGLAND
Carol Dyhouse

A book for social historians, educators and feminists, Girls Growing Up ... discusses the socialization of middle- and working-class girls in late Victorian and early Edwardian England. The emphasis is on the ways in which schooling at all social levels tended to reinforce lessons in the sexual division of labor and patterns of authority between men and women which girls had already learned at home. The emergence of a social psychology of adolescent girlhood in the early twentieth century and its educational implications is examined as well as the relationship between feminism and girls' education. $20 cloth only.

FRESH PERSPECTIVES, NEW UNDERSTANDINGS

FULLNESS OF LIFE
Historical Foundations for a New Asceticism
by Margaret R. Miles

Exploring Christianity's understandings of the human body in the past and presenting new concepts for the future, Margaret Miles leads the way to a greater appreciation of the body as the focus of life and of salvation. She examines scholarly neglect of the subject, historically stereotyped ideas of the body, and the concerns of contemporary theologies—and offers surprising conclusions that historic Christian authors, far from viewing the body in a negative way, have been overwhelmingly affirmative. Paper, $11.95

GROWTH IN PARTNERSHIP
by Letty M. Russell

Accomplished educator and author Letty Russell continues the theme begun in her earlier and widely-acclaimed book, The Future of Partnership. Through biblical exposition, theological reflection, and accounts of personal work experience, she considers the concept of partnership with God, humanity, and creation in terms of a new relationship that sets persons free for others. All the Women Are White, All the Blacks Are Men, But Some of Us Are Brave

Political theory, literary, social and historical essays, bibliographies, syllabi—here for the first time are the materials needed to develop courses and course units on the lives of black women.

"Everything that human beings participate in is ultimately subjective and biased, and there is nothing inherently wrong with that. The bias of black women's studies must consider as primary the knowledge that will save black women's lives."

—from the introduction

But Some of Us Are Brave includes notes on studying slavery, representative issues in the social sciences, black women's health, black women in higher education, black women and the church, black women novelists, poets, playwrights and composers, plus the politics of black women's studies, black feminism, racism in the women's movement, and much more!

Black Women's Studies

"Exciting! Affirmations and the beginning of a new era, where the 'women' in women's studies will no longer mean 'white.'" —Audre Lorde

"This is 'necessary bread' for women of all colors. The essays contain not only fact and durable resources, but some of the best writing I've seen around."

—Adrienne Rich

"A clear statement about black women. Congratulations to the editors for compiling such a fine interdisciplinary volume."

—Geraldine K. Brookins, Ph.D., Jackson State University

How-to for Ages 10-14: 20 Complete Lesson Plans Bring Women's Studies to the Middle School

Make your life a little easier. Until now there has been no one set of materials addressed specifically to the needs of girls and boys in an important transitional period, 10-14 year olds.

Eileen Abrams' practical book tells how to develop an entire course or use the activities selectively in different curriculum units. Includes

• displays for the classroom
• contests and story projects
• units on tools and toys
• birthdays of famous women
• how to design an oral history project
• films, photo collections, slide shows
• statements of purpose, descriptions of procedures with teacher's notes and, of course, a complete resource list of print and non-print materials. All activities teacher-developed and field-tested.

"The content is all there; you don't have to look anywhere else."

—Ruth Meyers, Council for Interracial Books for Children

An "Unforgettable Novel"*

Paule Marshall's
Brown Girl, Brownstones

is the book The Feminist Press has been urged most to reprint

The fiercely-told story of the coming of age of Selina Boyce, daughter of Barbadian immigrants in the Depression and World War II, has long been treasured as an important chapter in the pursuit of the American dream.

"[These] people live, and you go with them through their woe and their joy. Here, ah, here is a book with characters in it."

— Dorothy Parker, Esquire

"This is an unforgettable novel written with pride and anger, with rebellion and tears. Rich in content and in cadences of the King's and 'Bajun' English, it is the work of a highly gifted writer."

— Herald Tribune Book Review*

"When Mrs. Marshall writes about those she truly loves, she cannot be resisted. She brings [to her characters] an instinctive understanding, a generosity, and a free humor that combine to form a style remarkable for its courage, its color, and its natural control."
