A NEW VIEW OF A WOMAN'S BODY
by THE FEDERATION OF FEMINIST WOMEN'S HEALTH CENTERS
illustrated by Suzanne Gage

The first completely illustrated feminist health guide. Emphasizing the value of self-examination and the avoidance of unnecessary treatments and routines, A NEW VIEW OF A WOMAN'S BODY integrates informative text and straightforward captions with explicit drawings to present a unique visual guide to all aspects of female anatomy, physiology and medical self-care. In clear detail, the book covers breast examination, women's reproductive anatomy, universal health problems, birth control, self-examination, abortion care, serious problems and surgery; and offers a complete Well-Woman Exam and Self-Help Clinic.

A HOUSE OF GOOD PROPORTION
Images of Women in Literature
edited by MICHELE MURRAY

This collection of poems, stories, and excerpts from novels offers a survey of the many ways in which women have been regarded by some of the finest imaginative writers of the past two centuries. Organized to tell the story of a woman's life from birth to death—from little girl, virgin, wife, mother, to widowhood and old age—this book, with a long introduction and commentaries by poet-novelist Michele Murray, and an extensive bibliography, includes fiction by Kate Chopin, Sarah Orne Jewett, Colette, Djuna Barnes, George Eliot, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Anton Chekhov, William Carlos Williams, Leo Tolstoy and Louisa May Alcott and poems by Anne Sexton, Denise Levertov, Sylvia Plath, Emily Dickinson, Carol Bergé and Diane Wakoski.

ISRAELI WOMEN
The Reality Behind the Myths
by LESLEY HAZLETON

"Hazleton's perception is sharp and sensitive...Her analysis of the discrepancy between ideology and reality is valuable."
—Contemporary Sociology

The images of the young Israeli woman in army uniform and of Golda Meir leading the Knesset have given rise to a conception of the Israeli woman as one of the most liberated in the world. As Lesly Hazleton notes in this important study of women in Israeli society, such images project a myth; the actual status of the Israeli woman is no higher than in many traditional societies.

Women's Studies Quarterly 9:2 (Summer 1981)  47
NEW TITLES

This "long, detailed and readable novel in the Edwardian style"* is a lively and suspenseful roman à clef of the British suffrage movement.

THE CONVERT vividly brings to life Robins' experience and that of her colleagues, Christabel and Emmeline Pankhurst, in the story of Vida Levering, an upper class British woman "converted" to the working-class suffrage movement. In a suspenseful plot, Robins contrasts the witty dialogue of elegant drawing rooms with the rough-and-tumble outdoor meetings of Trafalgar Square, recreating them almost word for word from actual accounts. Ultimately, Vida begins to make her own first speeches and out of the tragic events of her past devises a means of effecting women's political freedom.

Jane Marcus puts this "funny, moving, and beautifully structured novel" in a class with Virginia Woolf's NIGHT AND DAY.

The powerful story, based on historical fact, of how a proud Indian nation struggled to resist acculturation and preserve both their culture and their homeland.

WE ARE MESQUAKIE, WE ARE ONE
Hadley Irwin

For young readers, the author of THE LILITH SUMMER presents the compelling story, based on historical fact, of Hidden Doe, a Mesquakie Indian girl raised in the early 19th century to continue the ways of the Red Earth people. But in a time of turmoil and the burning of villages, white settlers force her tribe onto a reservation in Kansas. There as she grows up watching her people suffer demoralization and disease, Hidden Doe forms a plan to return to Iowa and buy back the Mesquakie lands from the whites—and to find the grandmother who had remained behind.

"This is a story of hope, of spring coming, of new life nourished by the old ways, written in a beautiful way."—Gretchen Bataille, American Indian Studies, Iowa State University.
