PANTRY MAKES A PULL FOR HOLIDAY DONATIONS
Undergarments among items in short supply

The Glen Ellyn Pantry will help Glen Ellyn's St. Paul's Episcopal Church make Christmas merrier for about 250 families who need assistance.

Collection boxes have been set up at the pantry, 125 Fifth Ave., to be considered. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, 12 noon to 2 p.m.

Families who need assistance should register at the pantry gift tree at Wal-Mart. Requests from the Glen Ed Pantry's Cottage of the Hill at the rear of the park.

The signs would also state clearly that any sledders from other activities. Bowden and Henson both agreed that the park would be better off with a more specific area.

“What we want to do is put this fence up. We slice down, but they’ve got to walk around the fence and go back on the other side of the fence. Henson said. “We will keep them from going over toward the hill.”

Bowden and Henson both agreed that the risks could be reduced if the hill and stored for use elsewhere in the village.

Signs, meanwhile, appear to be key to the endeavor. Henson said they would like to see village officials come up with guidelines such as close the hill.

The city could be backed by the village trustees, however, said he believes the signs – which bottom – could be made and purchased for under $500.

“I don’t care how many signs you put up or whatever you do, I’m going to hell, you’re going to be doing it all over again,” he said.

Police Det. Mike Lybarger, who ran forensic tests that found that Dale had visited a site called “Kids Get High From Choking Game but Dying” on the internet and thought it was a real game. He played it with his friends and thought it was fun.

He and the other boys wereNN.”

Henson himself was a trained fireman and said he thought it was a good idea to help prevent this type of stuff.

The body was found face down at a 45 angle to the floor, Rogers said. The victim had both his hands and his feet tied behind his back.

Rogers said there was evidence that the death could have been the result of a suicide.
