2012

Ibroscheva looks at how the media portrays women

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!
Follow this and additional works at: https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs
Part of the Women’s Studies Commons

Recommended Citation
Romero, Aldemaro Jr., "Ibroscheva looks at how the media portrays women" (2012). CUNY Academic Works.
https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs/721

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Baruch College at CUNY Academic Works. It has been accepted for inclusion in Publications and Research by an authorized administrator of CUNY Academic Works. For more information, please contact AcademicWorks@cuny.edu.
Regional

Ibroseha looks at how the media portrays women

Aldemaro Romero

College Talk

She also studied the way the European media looked at the mass killings in Northern Ireland and portrayed women who became members of paramilitary groups. She said that during a recent government's crucial political leader was asked about why there were no women in the cabinet. This statement went somewhere along the lines of, "well, the reason why there aren’t any women in politicians right now is that women, or at least distinguished that women that we can put on the list. And that’s changed, and I think I talk himself further into a hole by saying, "Well, don’t get me wrong, I love women and women love me, and I have proof of that," she said. "But I mean women," without any obvious to her family, daughters and so on. She also said that her research involves critically analyzing the portrayal of women in international and popular news. She brings her research to the class and on Bloomberg TV, with the help of advertising, concerning around the world. She left the room with a new appreciation for the power of visual images. This is particularly so for the women inclass. "More for the way they are portrayed," she said. "I also had a lot of male students come in and say, ‘we have to change advertising.”

Discussion plansed on Native Americans

SUIE continues Lewis and Clark exhibit

By JULIA BIGGS

The Library and Information Services at SUIE is hosting a free panel discussion in support of the “Lewis and Clark and the Indian Country” traveling exhibition at 5 p.m. on Feb. 26 in the SUIE Library.

The “Lewis and Clark and the Indian Country” traveling exhibition is currently on display in the first floor of Lewis and Clark Library. The exhibit tells the story of the explorers’ historic journey, beginning with their point of view – that of the Indian point of view – and includes a variety of multimedia components.

“During their journey to the Pacific coast and back, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark had to deal with Native American groups that tend to be violent, that tend to fight back,” said Robert Paulett, SIUE Department of History.

The exhibit examines this important encounter of cultures and examines the past and presents the lives of the tribes which still lives today.

Participating in the panel will be Mr. Brad Wona, Director of the Lewis and Clark Historical Society.

Human resource training available through LCCC

Human resource professionals throughout southern Illinois are now being offered the change to distinguish themselves by adding professional credentials through a new program being offered right in their own backyard.

Through a partnership between Corporate and Community Learning at Lewis and Clark and Southern Illinois College, the course will be offered at Lewis and Clark’s N.O. Nelson campus in Edwardsville.

The Society for Human Resource Management is the world’s largest association for the needs of human resource professionals. The Learning System course, offered previously in the St. Louis area and in Northern Illinois, is now being offered to earn HR certification exams for professionals who are considering adding professional credentials such as the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) designation.

The course, designed for pre- prepared, will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 17, 25 and April 14 and 21. The cost is $399, which is a significant savings over similar programs. The registration deadline is Feb. 27, or call now to reserve your spot at 618-469-7815.

For more information on this course, visit www.lccc-il.edu/ or contact Kathy Kunsick at 618-469-7573.

Taxes

Continued from Page 1

“We estimate that the 4 percent penalty rate from February 2011 tax sale is now being factored in over $300 million worth of uncollected taxes, by adding professional credentials through a new program being offered right in their own backyard. Through a partnership between Corporate and Community Learning at Lewis and Clark and Southern Illinois College, the course will be offered at Lewis and Clark’s N.O. Nelson campus in Edwardsville. The Society for Human Resource Management is the world’s largest association for the needs of human resource professionals. The Learning System course, offered previously in the St. Louis area and in Northern Illinois, is now being offered to earn HR certification exams for professionals who are considering adding professional credentials such as the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) designation.

The course, designed for pre- prepared, will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 17, 25 and April 14 and 21. The cost is $399, which is a significant savings over similar programs. The registration deadline is Feb. 27, or call now to reserve your spot at 618-469-7815.

For more information on this course, visit www.lccc-il.edu/ or contact Kathy Kunsick at 618-469-7573.

Human resource training available through LCCC

Human resource professionals throughout southern Illinois are now being offered the change to distinguish themselves by adding professional credentials through a new program being offered right in their own backyard. Through a partnership between Corporate and Community Learning at Lewis and Clark and Southern Illinois College, the course will be offered at Lewis and Clark’s N.O. Nelson campus in Edwardsville. The Society for Human Resource Management is the world’s largest association for the needs of human resource professionals. The Learning System course, offered previously in the St. Louis area and in Northern Illinois, is now being offered to earn HR certification exams for professionals who are considering adding professional credentials such as the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) designation.

The course, designed for pre- prepared, will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 17, 25 and April 14 and 21. The cost is $399, which is a significant savings over similar programs. The registration deadline is Feb. 27, or call now to reserve your spot at 618-469-7815.

For more information on this course, visit www.lccc-il.edu/ or contact Kathy Kunsick at 618-469-7573.

Taxes

Regional

Ibroseha looks at how the media portrays women

Aldemaro Romero

College Talk

She also studied the way the European media looked at the mass killings in Northern Ireland and portrayed women who became members of paramilitary groups. She said that during a recent government’s crucial political leader was asked about why there were no women in the cabinet. This statement went somewhere along the lines of, "well, the reason why there aren’t any women in politicians right now is that women, or at least distinguished that women that we can put on the list. And that’s changed, and I think I talk himself further into a hole by saying, "Well, don’t get me wrong, I love women and women love me, and I have proof of that," she said. "But I mean women," without any obvious to her family, daughters and so on. She also said that her research involves critically analyzing the portrayal of women in international and popular news. She brings her research to the class and on Bloomberg TV, with the help of advertising, concerning around the world. She left the room with a new appreciation for the power of visual images. This is particularly so for the women inclass. "More for the way they are portrayed," she said. "I also had a lot of male students come in and say, ‘we have to change advertising.”

Discussion plansed on Native Americans

SUIE continues Lewis and Clark exhibit

By JULIA BIGGS

The Library and Information Services at SUIE is hosting a free panel discussion in support of the “Lewis and Clark and the Indian Country” traveling exhibition at 5 p.m. on Feb. 26 in the SUIE Library.

The “Lewis and Clark and the Indian Country” traveling exhibition is currently on display in the first floor of Lewis and Clark Library. The exhibit tells the story of the explorers’ historic journey, beginning with their point of view – that of the Indian point of view – and includes a variety of multimedia components.

“During their journey to the Pacific coast and back, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark had to deal with Native American groups that tend to be violent, that tend to fight back,” said Robert Paulett, SIUE Department of History.

The exhibit examines this important encounter of cultures and examines the past and presents the lives of the tribes which still lives today.

Participating in the panel will be Mr. Brad Wona, Director of the Lewis and Clark Historical Society.

Human resource training available through LCCC

Human resource professionals throughout southern Illinois are now being offered the change to distinguish themselves by adding professional credentials through a new program being offered right in their own backyard. Through a partnership between Corporate and Community Learning at Lewis and Clark and Southern Illinois College, the course will be offered at Lewis and Clark’s N.O. Nelson campus in Edwardsville. The Society for Human Resource Management is the world’s largest association for the needs of human resource professionals. The Learning System course, offered previously in the St. Louis area and in Northern Illinois, is now being offered to earn HR certification exams for professionals who are considering adding professional credentials such as the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) designation.

The course, designed for pre- prepared, will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 17, 25 and April 14 and 21. The cost is $399, which is a significant savings over similar programs. The registration deadline is Feb. 27, or call now to reserve your spot at 618-469-7815.

For more information on this course, visit www.lccc-il.edu/ or contact Kathy Kunsick at 618-469-7573.

Taxes

Continued from Page 1

“We estimate that the 4 percent penalty rate from February 2011 tax sale is now being factored in over $300 million worth of uncollected taxes, by adding professional credentials through a new program being offered right in their own backyard. Through a partnership between Corporate and Community Learning at Lewis and Clark and Southern Illinois College, the course will be offered at Lewis and Clark’s N.O. Nelson campus in Edwardsville. The Society for Human Resource Management is the world’s largest association for the needs of human resource professionals. The Learning System course, offered previously in the St. Louis area and in Northern Illinois, is now being offered to earn HR certification exams for professionals who are considering adding professional credentials such as the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) designation.

The course, designed for pre- prepared, will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 17, 25 and April 14 and 21. The cost is $399, which is a significant savings over similar programs. The registration deadline is Feb. 27, or call now to reserve your spot at 618-469-7815.

For more information on this course, visit www.lccc-il.edu/ or contact Kathy Kunsick at 618-469-7573.