Cocuzza teaches students how to be actors

Aldemaro Romero Jr.

CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

Recommended Citation

Romero, Aldemaro Jr., "Cocuzza teaches students how to be actors" (2012). CUNY Academic Works. https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs/742
MUD

Continued from Page 1

"Even if you're not playing, we invite the public to come out and see the mud splatter," said Jim Helfman.

"It's pure fun and if you're playing it probably the cheapest mud bath you'll get to take," said Helfman.

To date the tournament has raised over $1,400 for the Main Street Community Center with the money earned going toward paramount center regulars and a student from the "talent" group.

"We would like to thank the Edwardsville Moose Lodge for their continued support of this program," Helfman said.

Anyone interested in registering can do so at City Hall in the Parks and Recreation office at www.cityofedwardsville.com or by calling 692-7000.

"We're always very serious about this," said Laurie Bonk, mother of the group's 15 members.

"It's been really awesome," said Cooper. "I'm not sure what we'd do without the support of the table. EDGE Co-Principal Stacy Lenz, in charge of the tournament, said these are challenging economic times for Edwardsville bands and they are very thankful for the support they have received.

"It's been very difficult times and there is a number of comic premises and we are struggling to produce," Cooper said. "Obviously we all have things we need to work on."

"It's a good thing we're playing the ambivalent attitude so we don't feel like we have to go anywhere," said Cooper.

"Sometimes, I need to remind myself why we're doing this, but I love seeing people singing the words," said Cooper. "I hope that we can produce the sound we want and that we can work on.

"I'm very pleased that we were able to come to a fair agreement at the last minute," said Bonk. "We are very pleased that we were able to come to a fair agreement at a fair time."