"We've got an awful lot of stuff from the community every year," said Dan Denny. "This year we got a real flood of items, those old motorcycles, antique postcards, toys, antique furniture, you name it. We've got it all."

All money raised goes back into the running of the house and educational programs provided. "It all goes to the programs," said Denny. "There's a lot of money left over to pay for the house."

This year the Stephenson House is accepting donations of items that can be used for any of the many things for sale at the auction. "It's an incredible collection of items," said Denny. "There are knives, soldiers, guns, antiques to antique furniture, you name it."

Over the past 10 years, the auction has averaged $0,000 to $2,000 after all fees are paid. They have continued with the same fee for the past two years.

"We've got a lot of people who are interested," said Denny. "It's all going to the programs."
