Inequalities have always plagued soci- ety, and some financial resources have made much more of an impact than others. But the financial resources have led to greater opportunities and less opportunity. What people have realized is that it's the culture that has evolved. Maybe we're not the same, but they have learned to take not having health care and still be healthy. They have learned to be healthy despite not having health care and have turned that into a strength.

They do not have to be a frog or toad expert join this free training session at the Zoo. You’ll be asked to help collect data about the calls of the 10 most common frog and toad species found in St. Louis, record their volume and their relative frequency. We need the information and to hear some frog calls, visit www.frogwatchusa.org or www. FrogWatchUSA.org.
