Jug Club Membership Approved At Meeting

Membership in the Jug Club, a portion of the Baruch School blood bank program, was formalized and approved by Student Council by an 18-3-1 vote Wednesday night.

Paul Zarrett '66 presented the motion to Council. The substance of Zarrett's motion was that upon contribution of four pints of blood during his undergraduate years, a fully matriculated student and members of his immediate family, could draw upon the School's deposit with the Red Cross for five years after graduation.

Students holding Jug Club membership prior to December 1965 will derive the benefits—including life membership—that were granted to them before the institution of the new procedure. Time was spent debating an amendment proposed by Danny Baumgarten '64 that Jug Club membership be granted for life. Baumgarten said, "What I am thinking about is not after they (the donors) get out of school, but when they need it." He asserted that the time of greatest need for blood was not the period immediately after graduation, but in the later years of one's life.

Students State BM Machine Location Poor

Protest in tenth floor cafeteria shows student protest.

A unanimous opinion expressed by students interviewed concerns the placement of the computer in the tenth floor cafeteria indicating that it would be of value to the School in general, but that it should have been placed in a better location.

The students were interviewed Wednesday afternoon in the cafeteria.

When given a choice between not having the computer or a better area in the cafeteria, the majority of students expressed the opinion that a computer was worth the inconvenience.

Paul Zarrett

Gary Berkley '65 supported Baumgarten's contention to extend the membership period. He believed that a student who qualified for membership had sacrificed much for the entire student body and ought to be rewarded with life membership.

However, a number of S.C. representatives disagreed with this line of reasoning. Jeff Levitt '64 pointed out that the School might be placing itself in a perilous situation.

BHE Requests Record Budget of 70 Million

The Board of Higher Education approved a record-breaking operating budget request for the next academic year for the City University. Submitted by the board's Committee on Finance and Facilities, the $70,560,943 tentative appropriation is a rise of 16.5 per cent from this year's budget, announced B.H.E. Chairman Gustave Rosenberg.

"The times require us," Dr. Rosenberg declared, "to make a record-breaking educational effort to extend the services of the City University. Current events make all too clear why there is an emergency demand for a great many people of exceptional educational background and with highly trained abilities."

The City College share of the request is $16,820,065. The largest increase included in the proposed budget is for the City University graduate program, which will receive $2,786,188.

The new budget reflects an increase in enrollment of 1,200 students in the day sessions at the four municipal senior colleges. Also, 127 additional day session instructors are provided for in the request.

The City University budget request will be submitted to the city in January. Next June, the board will announce fees and tuition rates where applicable, for the coming school year.

Dr. Gustave G. Rosenberg

These fees will account for 18.8 per cent of the funds for the new budget. New York City tax funds will account for 41.9 per cent and New York State will finance 39.3 per cent of the proposed budget.

"The necessity for developing, at once, the graduate program of the City University needs no argument. The overall total includes $4,567,800 for the graduate program. Four new doctoral offerings are proposed for September, 1963, in history, biology, physics, and engineering," Dr. Rosenberg concluded.

CCNY Alumni Association Fetes 1912, 1937 Classes

The Alumni Association of the City College of New York held its eighty-second annual dinner at the Hotel Astor Tuesday evening. The affair celebrated the golden anniversary of the Class of 1912 and the silver anniversary of the Class of 1937.

Saul J. Lance '20, president of the association, hosted the dinner. He noted that the Alumni Association's goal this year is $796,000, twice the amount that was raised last year. "I have no doubt that the fund will reach its goal this year," he stated.

Mr. Lance stressed that he was proud of the fight of the Alumni Association "to maintain free higher tuition in City College." We are fighting to take away from the Board of Higher Education a power it never wanted, stated the speaker.

We shall continue to fight, he averred, until the mandate of free higher education is restored.

City College President Buell G. Gallagher told the audience that he believes we are in the middle of the most profound revolution in human history—a revolution "in human expectation."

Since 1937, he noted, two billion people have realized "a day of dignity" in their own right. In gation could never be abolished through the courts, but this has proven to be incorrect.

Dr. Gallagher remarked that City College has made great strides in building in the past few years. "Know that we stand on the entrance of great work," the president said.

Blood Bank To be Held December 5

The goal of the semi-annual blood drive of the Baruch School is at least 200 pints, according to Stu Gollin, chairman of Student Council's Blood Drive Committee.

This term the blood drive will be held December 5 between 10:30 and 3 in the Oak and Marble Lounges of the Student Center.

Each student and faculty member is eligible to use the blood in the School's reserve for himself or his immediate family, regardless of whether or not he has donated blood.

"This year we are stressing the need for student awareness," stated Gollin. "Since blood is very perishable, the reserve must be replenished every year."

The process of giving blood is simple and painless. The Red Cross doctor will see that those who give blood meet the physical requirements.

All students over eighteen are eligible to give blood; however, anyone under twenty-one must present a minors' release which is obtainable in either the Student Council or Boosters' office.

The blood drive is coordinated by Student Council with the assistance of Boosters and Alpha Phi Omega. This term, free hamburgers and pens will be given to those who donate blood.

If you, or a member of your immediate family, need blood, contact the Department of Student Life at once, preferably before entrance into a hospital.

Thirty-Nine Baruchians Vying For Student, Class Councils

By Jay Haberman

Jeff Barash '63, currently treasurer of Student Council, and Neil Palomba '63, this semester's vice-president, are running for the post of Council president next semester. The Schoolwide election will be held Wednesday, December 12.

For vice-president, Mark Grant '64, Student Council corresponding secretary, is running against Earle Kaplan '63. Kaplan formerly was a S.C. representative.

Don Glickman '63 and Jules Gelber '63 are opponents for Student Council treasurer. Both are currently representatives.

A trio of students are campaigning for corresponding secretary. They are Steve Eagle '65, Stu Gollin '63, and Jeff Levitt '64. Gary Berkley '65 is opposing Fred Schwartz '65 for the post of S.C. recording secretary.

Kathy Fitzpatrick '63 is the only candidate for Activities Coordination Board chairman. In the other school-wide contest, Dan Baumgarten '64, Vincent J. Flynn '64, and Joe Traum '64 are contest-

In the Class of '63, Joyce Siegel and Alan Silverman are the only ones that took out petitions for Student Council representative.

George Henry and Robert Horn have announced their candidacy in Class of '64 S.C. elections. There are six seats open.

Four students are running for election to Student Council in the Class of '65. They are Ronald Novita, Sandi Schiff, Cathy Vanderman, and Meredith Wilensky.

In the Class of '66, Janet Calabrese, Paul Gersten, Richard Glantz, Susan Manasse, Barbara Dee Scherer, and Paul Zarrett have taken out petitions for Student Council representatives.

Barry Epstein is unopposed for president of the Class of '63. Other candidates are Larry Fleisch for vice-president, Audrey Greifer, and Joe Traum '64 are contest-

Elections

Once again, Student Council and Class Council elections are approaching. They will be held Wednesday, December 12, and we urge all students to take an active part in them, whether running for office or voting.

This semester, for the first time in a long time, Student Council has a full complement of representatives. In addition, all Class Councils except one have full representation.

We urge all students to do their part to maintain this condition. Those students who believe they can serve the School well should run for office, and others, who do not have the time and/or the inclination to hold office, should vote for the students of their choice.

Remember, this is our Student Council and Class Council. They can only be as good as the representatives we elect to them.

Cafeteria

We look with satisfaction on the School's purchase of an I.B.M. computer. There can be no doubt that a school of business cannot function to its fullest capacity without such a machine.

However, the installation of the computer raises familiar problems. A faculty committee decided that the only feasible place to install the machine was in the tenth floor cafeteria, and we cannot dispute their decision. Much as we regret that the computer removed sorely-needed eating space, we can see no other place for the machine.

The importance of the computer, however, should not overshadow the need for a cafeteria for the student body. We cannot agree with members of the faculty who believe that students should eat in nearby restaurants and cafeterias.

Quite apart from the expense entailed in dining outside the School, it is one of the duties of the administration to provide its students with proper eating facilities within the confines of the building.

We urge the administration to appoint a committee to study locations in the School which could be used as a cafeteria. The educational process does not begin and end with a computer—it includes places for dining and contemplation as well.

Blood Drive

The semi-annual blood drive has arrived, and with it has come an opportunity for all members of the student body and faculty to aid both themselves and the remainder of the School.

Each member of the School, whether or not he has contributed, is permitted to draw upon the School's blood reserve for himself and his immediate family. Therefore, while reaping the benefit, all members of the School community should also bear the responsibility; that is, they should each contribute one pint of blood to the drive.

Theatron's 'Stalag 17' Stated for Production

A preview of Theatron's production, "Stalag 17"

"Stalag 17," a comedy melodrama, will be presented by Theatron, the Baruch School's dramatic society, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 in the auditorium. The play was written by Edmund Trzcinski and Donald Bevan.

The plot of "Stalag 17" concerns a group of G. I. prisoners who escape plans are continually being betrayed by a German spy planted among them. In addition, there is tension generated by the prisoners' close confinement under enemy guards, their hunger for food, women, and mail from home.

Comedy situations arise because, even under the conditions of life in a prison camp, American soldiers are attracting and high-spirited.

The cast is all male and includes Michael Bodzomati, Emery Gross, Joel Kaufman, Bob Eisner, and Dennis Neuhaus in starring roles. Other actors are "Pot" Namenworth, "Tex" Landler, Paul Schneider, Steve Gunders, Vic Warsaw, Gene Goldwasser, Alan Gluck, and Michael Weisser. Jerry Arrow is director of the play. He directed "Look Homeward Angel," last semester's Theatron production.

"Stalag 17" was first presented on Broadway in 1951 and ran fifty-nine weeks. Later, it was made into a movie.

Letters

To the Editor of THE TICKER:

The recent untimely passing of John V. Orlando comes a great shock to us. We feel deeply the loss of one whom we were proud to consider a friend. Yet, great as is our loss, we fear that that of City College is even greater.

John Orlando was one of that small group of City College alumni who remained to serve it, and he served it always with a great diligence and dedication. But far more important, he served it with that abiding personal regard for individual human beings, be they student or faculty, which is so much lacking in this day of the great impersonal bureaucracy.

We who knew him well shall miss his companionship and brilliant wit. City College has too soon lost one of its most devoted sons. May we have the good fortune to know more like him.

Veteran Cagers Oppose Upsala in First Contest

A predominantly veteran team will start for City College Saturday as the Beavers open their basketball season against Upsala in Wingate Hall at 8. The freshman teams meet at 6.

The game is played for the benefit of the Stein Fund, which provides medical aid for C.C.N.Y. athletes injured during intercollegiate competition. A one dollar admission is charged; however, all other home games are free.

Coach Dave Polansky plans to start only one sophomore, Steve Golden, a 6-6 center. Probable starters at guards are seniors Jerry Greenberg and Johnny Wyles.

Jump shot ace Don Sidat will start at one forward. Juniors Ray Camisa and Alex Blatt will battle for the other spot.

Upsala, which has not defeated City in four tries, has seven freshmen on its twelve man team. (At Upsala, freshmen are eligible for varsity competition.)

Coach Fred Wiebolt, referring to the freshmen, said, "This is the best bunch of recruits I've had in my six years at Upsala. How well we do this year will depend upon the way these fellows perform in a varsity schedule. Four or five could be in the starting unit."

The Vikings will depend upon three novices, 6-4 Pete Johnson, 6-2 Sheldon Kaplan, and 6-2 Bill Zaranka for rebounding chores.

Upsala's leading rebounder and scorer, Bob Brandes, was graduated. He gave the Beavers plenty of trouble last season.

Only four players are returning from last year's team, which compiled a 7-17 record. They are 6-0 Gene Ekholm, 6-5 Ron Gates, 6-0 Gary Loper, and 6-3 Tom Jackson.

Coach Dave Polansky

City Harriers Get 5th Spot

The Beaver harriers ended their season successfully by tying for fifth place in the "B" division of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America (I.C.A.A.) championship November 20 at Van Cortlandt Park.

City and La Salle had 112 points each. Maine, the winner, scored sixty-seven points.

Mike Dityk (27:34) and Lenny Zane (28:00) paced the Lavender.

Pennsylvania Meets CCNY Fencers

All-American Vito Mannino will lead the City College fencing team into action Saturday in the season's opening match against the University of Pennsylvania at Wingate Hall at 2.

Coach Ed Lucia noted that the team has been working hard in practice, although no definite opinion of its capabilities can be given until the first match is completed.

The Beavers had a 5-4 record last year, playing one of the toughest schedules in the country. Navy, Columbia and N.Y.U., which consistently rank in the top ten, are once again on the slate.

Last season City finished eighth in the National Championships at Ohio State.

Missing from the team are Bernie Eichenbaum and Ray Fields, who were of all-American calibre and had competed in two national championships.

Lucia is fortunate that he has over thirty players trying to break into the starting lineup. The main sources of new material are last year's freshman team and the special fencing physical education class.

Practice is conducted three times a week and all day candidates are constantly looked over by the coach to determine the best prospects. Round-robin tournaments are held weekly to determine the best showing.

Wrestlers Confident Of Winning Year

Despite the loss of Marv Goldlust and Phil Rodman, the Beaver wrestlers are confident of having a successful season.

Goldlust and Rodman were the stars of last year's club, which won four of nine encounters. They competed in the 130- and 147-lb class, respectively.

Two juniors, George Frankle and Marc Miller, will probably replace the standouts. Both have had one year of varsity experience.

The other weight classes will be filled with last year's starting team. Mal Schwartz and Harvey Taylor, this year's co-captains, will compete in the 177- and 137-lb divisions, respectively.

Seniors Mike Bratnick, Alan Fein and Al Leidecker will be the starters in the 123-, 167-, and 157-lb. classes, respectively. Junior Larry Silver will compete in the heavyweight class to round out the starting lineup.

There are many sophomore additions, but it is doubtful that they will see much action.

The grapplers open their schedule against Columbia Saturday in Wingate Hall at 2:30.

Other teams on the card are Montclair, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Yeshiva, Temple, Drexel, Fairleigh Dickinson, Kings Point, Hunter, and New York University.

Newcomers Bolster Swimming Team

City College's swimming team, bolstered by several talented newcomers, has a good chance of improving its season's 3-5 record.

The outstanding new sophomore is Jimmy Steller, who specializes in the breast stroke and stroke. In practice he has broken the C.C.N.Y. 200-yard stroke record set by Sol S. 1957.

Other new additions are Gerber, Dennis Mora and Meken. These prospects have good impressions in practice will make contributions giving the team a winning campaign.

Returning veterans include ris Levine, Girard Pessis, Wohlleber and Jack Youngs and Wohlleber are the tains.

Pessis excels in the breast and distance swimming. Youngs handles the freestyle events.

The only veterans who missed are Ralph Cohen and Ry Shay, who are no longer on the team.

This combination of let and sophomores will give the depth which it has lacked in recent years.

City opens its season Saturday by participating in the Eastern Invitational Relay Carnival at New York University's pool.
