Tuition Fee Charged at Baruch School; Council to Strike Friday Night Meetings

Demonstration Set Against Tuition

Stupid Council, at its Friday night swinging soiree, passed a motion by Harvey Kornplotz '64 (going on '65) to strike its own meetings for the rest of the semester as a demonstration against tuition.

This motion was deemed necessary as the members felt they had to do something and a strike of their own meetings was the only move they could get support for.

Caramba Palamba, dictator of Stupid Council, was visibly upset by the outcome of the vote which passed by an overwhelming 2-1 majority. (The final vote was 2-1-22.) He bawled, "Now I won't have any place to vent my frustrations all week."

The deciding vote was cast by Crazy Vanderheim '65, Palamba's gun moll, who said, "Now Caramba will have to spend money on me by taking me out Friday on dates, instead of making me sit around a table. I had to vote for, or else

I might have become an old maid." Corresponding scribbler Left Heavit '64 claimed that Palamba's downfall came when he began the practice of forcing naughty representatives to sit through the entire soiree with their fingers over their mouth. "The question of tuition didn't matter," he said.

In other business, Stupid Council voted to send a bus up to Albany to demonstrate against mandatory free tuition. Paul Gerhard '66, originator of the motion, said it would fake Governor Rocky out and he might then campaign in favor of the mandate. "I learned all about negative psychology in Dr. John Bowell's class," Gerhard (Continued on Page 4)

Teachers To Pay

The Bored of Higher Education announced yesterday, that commencing tomorrow, all faculty members at the Baruch School must pay a $10,000 tuition fee or they will not be allowed to teach for the remainder of the term. Teachers at the other branches of the City University will not be charged.

Dr. Gussie Rosenbum, chairman of the B. H. E., said that he realizes that students cannot afford to pay tuition, so before the state forces the kids to pay, I want to build up a large working fund. When the faculty at the Baruch School kick in, we can continue free tuition for students indefinitely.

Marvelous Manny Socks, dean of the Baruch School, said "I doubt that any teacher in our College will be forced to drop out, as they are all rich. Unfortunately, the faculty at the other schools cannot afford to pay."

Ridiculous Robots Destroyed With Replacement by Foods

The Department of Stupid Life has announced that commencing in the future at a time that will never be announced, the cafeterias in the College will serve food, believe it or not.

The ridiculous robots, better known as vending machines, will be done away with, as their usage has become too confusing to the faculty, other than those in the Manipulating Department. "You see, it has not been easy for them to figure out how much to put in the robots, and whether or not they should get change."

The downfall of the machines came as a result of a study by the Psychopathic Department. They found out that the extra sugar button on the coffee machine really didn't give extra sugar at all. Instead, an idea was created in the student's mind that he was receiving extra sugar and this, according to the survey, was causing all coffee drinking students to undergo traumas (no pun intended).

Student protests have been received concerning the conversion. One co-ed said that the robots were helping her on her diet. "You see," she stated, "by running out of food during key hours, the machines were preventing me from eating too much."

An undertaking by the Business Antics Department revealed that a suit will soon be received by the Department of Stupid Life served by the other eating places around the College. Laraddins has claimed that they will be forced to load (Continued on Page 4)

Sock's 23?

Stinkle Report Supersedes Cocktail

The Stinkle Report, prepared by Dr. Casey Stinkle, a famous educationalist, has superseded the Cocktail Report for consideration by the faculty, announced Cool Buell, president of City College. The latter report, prepared by Dr. Donald P. Cocktail, was found lacking as compared to Dr. Stinkle's effort.

The first recommendation of the new offering is that the name of the Baruch School be changed to Sock's Twenty-Third Street, in honor of Marvelous Manny Socks, current dean at the College. The reasoning behind this move is simple, stated Casey. "Marvelous Manny," he said, "is the only dean in the nation whose chewing gum keeps its flavor on the bedpost overnight."

The coolest proposal advanced by Dr. Stinkle is that entrance requirements at the Socks' School be lowered to allow all those above the moronic level to gain acceptance.

"Then," Casey pointed out, "Even some of my amazin' Mets can get an education."

Casey also called for an increase in the number of specializations. "That way, more people will get confused, drop out of school, and be as dumb as me. Yeah, yeah."

When notified of the apparent contradiction in these two suggestions, Dr. Stinkle said, "I suppose that when the time comes for me to bring my data up to the realization stage for comparison with the timeless element in our society, I will forsake all obstacles."

Cool Buell, who was present when Casey made the statement, faints.

Dr. Stinkle declared that the current degree of Bachelor of Business Antics should be maintained, because "what girl goes to the college who doesn't expect to get herself a bachelor?"

"The site of the College should not be changed," Casey maintained. "As it stands now, the central location of the school makes it easy for Stupid Council to picket anywhere in the City with no travel hindrance," he said.

Dr. Stinkle also made a special mention to THE TRAUMA for being the greatest college newspaper in the world. In addition, he thanked his ghost writer, Joe Trauma (the most important editor in chief of this great tabloid).

The last point made by Casey was that there should be a re-emphasis on athletics at the School. He closed with a ringing cry of "Bring back the dumpsters!"

Faculty-Tough Darts

Ha, ha! The faculty will pay. Now, big men, aren't you sorry that you scheduled midterms on the day that Stupid Council wanted to hold a strike?

But really, we have a tradition of mandatory free tuition for students. Nobody ever told anybody else that the same tradition held true for the teachers.

I'll never finish this editorial unless Babbling Brooks stops tickling me. Ha, ha!

We Love You Council

Stupid Council has done it again. They have really gone out on a limb this time and will never be able to recover. We can't imagine how they could do a dumber thing like they did. But they did it.

THE TRAUMA warned them. We said they should refrain from doing it. But they were too smart. They wouldn't listen. And look what happened to them.

Students - let's unite and stamp out Stupid Council for its deed, and never again let them do a thing like that. What did they do, you ask? I don't know. But they always do something stupid enough to merit this type of editorial. Or else, why would they be called Stupid Council? Ha, ha! (That Brooks is back again.)

Crazy and Mixed Up

THE TRAUMA is a very fortunate paper. Its history will be one day of irresponsible idiocy. So those who write letters don't have to be responsible in order that their letters be printed. But, of course, we don't have to print them, because we aren't responsible.

The other day we heard a displeasing sound. Some students were singing "Manny is our leader, he must be removed!" Really! You would think they would be polite and use Emanuel.

We have the perfect solution for the finals schedule. Give all exams before registration. Then nobody will complain when they are given, as nobody will know what to study or even what courses they are taking.

We feel that "Choo Choo" Coleman of the New York Mets should marry "Cha Cha" O'Brien of that weekly television show. Then, when they went to sleep at night, she would say "Good night, 'Choo Choo'" and he would say "Good night, 'Cha Cha'."

Brooks is through here. Now he's going downstairs to tickle Dean Wutherford Wrong.

April Fool's to You

Happy April Fools Day to one and all. We hope you had fun reading this issue, and if you think we were sober when we wrote it, no comment.

Letters to THE TRAUMA

Call Me Irresponsible

To the superb Editor of THE TRAUMA:

I have had it. Every time I write a letter to THE TICKER, it is never published the way I write it. They call me irresponsible and say I call names. How dare those rotten miserably incompetents say I call names. I feel I am going to cry.

It all started when some dumb girl named Flossie did a really crazy thing. I mean something only psychopathic fools do - she said murderers should be killed. (She shouldn't be allowed to say that. Otherwise, my whole family will be obliterated.)

I hope THE TRAUMA is cool enough to print this because I am a psychology major, and if you print it, I will give a free analysis to all the editors (and even Flossie, whose head I will be glad to shrink).

Get out your crying towels. Tomorrow, THE TICKER, an inferior publication to THE TRAUMA, will be back at the old stand.

He Babbles

To the superb Editor of THE TRAUMA:

They tried to hush it up. I said they tried. But succeed they did not. They failed. Ha! Ha! They failed. Now the truth shall prevail, for as Alfred Newman said in 1959, "The truth is false when it is not true." I shall never forget this quote for it has had a profound effect on my life, surmounting the problems caused by my poor toilet training. The connection? I read it while sitting on the you know what.

Local gossip via the grapevine has it that Marvellous Manny Socks and Wutherford Wrong have been seen in the swank parts of town together and that cuddling seems to indicate marriage plans in the near future.

The picture was condemned by many organizations because of a scene taken in the pool. The censors acted quickly.

Wish I Said That: "A dead man can't blink his eyes." Rumor has it that that swingout between Dr. Lovely Israel and Professor Maury Benowitz was quite a beaut. Izzy walked away with two black eyes and was crying from the ears, while Maury complained that his tummy hurt him.

Wish I Said That: All Chinese look alike. They all have cavities in their teeth.

It is a far better thing I do ending this letter than I have ever done before.

Merry Christmas. Babbling Brooks

To the superb Editor of THE TRAUMA:

I definitely do not agree with statement that "a girl in slacks may be very distracting to a professor or fellow student."

This statement could not be further from the truth. Have you ever noticed that a female in slacks shows less expanse of flesh than one of the short skirts that are now the vogue of our coeds. How many times have you been distracted by a lovely coed showing a lot of amount of her legs, namely about her knees. This is definitely more stimulating than a girl in slacks. The proof of the matter is that many of the older faculty members purposely seat the girls in his classroom directly in front of him. Need more be said?

Stupid Life Dean's Position Captured by Thursday Welt

By Boy Waddadish

In conjunction with the new Stupid Life administration's "moving forward looking behind" policy, Madame Thursday Welt '37-21-95 has been named the new dean in charge of students' activities.

Madame Welt is replacing Dean Wutherford Wrong, and will work side-by-side with Dean Fig Newton in many of the affairs that he has planned for the coming semester, both day and evening session.

Marvelous Manny Socks, dean of the Baruch School, searched high and low for a successor, but no one displayed more experience than Madame Welt. "Her knowledge of extra-curricular activity is exhilarating," rejoiced the dean.

Madame Welt first gained fame at a meeting of Stupid Council when her picture was passed around by the male representatives. The boys claimed they wanted to examine her clothes. (This, it turns out, couldn't have been true, because she wasn't wearing any.)

Upon being informed of her appointment, Madame Welt said "Tee hee, isn't that sweet. I just adore soothing student problems."

In a completely off-the-record interview with THE TRAUMA, Dean Fig Newton exclaimed, muf-fling his tears, "I've been breaking my back working for the school for the past twenty-eight years and she, a girl with no background, gets the job. What does Marvellous Manny see in her; all I see is—blah."

Later in the day, the dean took Tickets are now on sale for the Rick Zegory one-man spectacular to be held Saturday night, April 31. Zany Clown-farten '21, president of Non-Maternity Club, emphasized, however, "that students must show up at the Baruch School auditorium one week prior to the scheduled date of performance."

Elevator Shafts Unlikely To Happen Ever Again

By an Almost Cool Person

Newly appointed Elevator Captain, Yanush Slobovnik, has announced major revisions in the ways and means of elevating students to the plateaus of higher education.

These operational changes, effective September 1, 1967, include: installation of facilities (forklifts, according to one reliable source) for placing students aboard atop one another; a crossover network, whereby cars one and two utilize shaft, three on the return trip down; and a special code, now being devised by the tenth floor I.B.M. computer.

"This secret code," stated Slobovnik, "will enable the car operators to distinguish between the buzzes of administrators and those of students, thereby eliminating all unnecessary stops."

A suggestion made by many Baruch School students has been ignored by the powers that be. Hundreds of letters were received by Slobovnik, each with the same sickening plea: "Bring Back Harry!"

"Finally," he stated, "we are anticipating City Planning Commission approval of the purchase of rope ladders which would be hung on the Lexington Avenue side of the building."

"It is interesting to note," he added, "that the technique of loading students aboard atop each other came about through the cooperation of two members of the Business Antics Department and an instructor of Hell Education."

"Called together at the administration's request, the instructors, each an expert in his own field (packaging, materials handling, etc.) had spent many months engaged in research and development. The result is a carload of students, each in a position somewhat akin to the prenatal position," added Mr. Slobovnik.

"Finally," he stated, "we are anticipating City Planning Commission approval of the purchase of rope ladders which would be hung on the Lexington Avenue side of the building."

Will Zegory Make Scene? We'll Soon Learn Answer

Tickets are now on sale for the Rick Zegory one-man spectacular to be held Saturday night, April 31. Zany Clown-farten '21, president of Non-Maternity Club, emphasized, however, "that students must show up at the Baruch School auditorium one week prior to the scheduled date of performance."

"This," announced Mr. Clown-farten, "is merely a precautionary measure. In this way, if Mr. Zegory's agent, Alfred E. Neuman, commits any 'terrors,' Rick can show any of the nights between April 21 and April 31 during which he appears."

We have contacted all three Audio theaters in the New York Metropolitan area. Zany confirmed, and they are under constant surveillance.

Mr. Zegory is a well known comedian who has appeared at such exclusive clubs as the Cosmos Club and the Metropolitan Clubs in Washington D.F.K. was refused admittance; the Kool Klub of Karlovia; the New Arts And Crafts Palace; and numerous other urban retreats.

Mr. Zegory is the author of many books in the social science field. Among them: "Experiences in a Chicago Playboy Club When the Lights are Down Low," "The Whites," "The Blacks," "Teach Your White Friends How to Talk," and "How to Sit On a Barstool Smoking a Cigarette While Telling Jokes While Sipping A Scotch on the Rocks While Crossing Your Legs and Squinting Because You Have to go to the Mens' Room, but Can't Leave."

Come here little flunkie And tell me your trouble, 'Cause whatever you've got, I've got it double. You've flunked Bio. 5 and Math 150?

Well I've failed them twice. How's that for nifty?

You can't tell a log From a hole in the ground? Well, neither can I, And I've been around. You've got Mr. EX for 152? Now I have had him, And Professor Y too. Now it's your last chance To stay in this College. Oh, go out and work; Don't waste all that knowledge! Your course is it Math? I know it '35 tough.

But what can be said, Except that it's tough. You've failed again; Now it's not funny, But what's there to say I've taken your money. There's one thing I've learned From that damned math: Smoking a Cigarette While Telling Jokes While Sipping A Scotch on the Rocks While Crossing Your Legs and Squinting Because You Have to go to the Mens' Room, but Can't Leave."

But whatever I do My grades turn out cruddy. I've had it with math; I'm tired, I'm tired; But, I'll be damned, This course is required.

Piston Bottles Syrup In Heavyweight Bout

"Busted" Yustin Syrup

Funny Piston

Funny Piston, heavyweight champ of the world, announced today that he will defend his title against "Busted" Yustin Syrup.

Syrup was informed of the forthcoming bout by a reporter of THE TRAUMA. After he was revived, "Busted" Yustin fearlessly predicted "Piston must fall in six."

Further questioning determined that the "six" he referred to was six seconds. "You see," the boxer stuttered, "six seconds after he kills me with one punch, he will collapse from remorse."

Syrup has had an illustrious ring career. He is the only person ever to defeat Callous Clay, a heavyweight contender. The fight, as all remember, took place in 1949, when Callous was six years old.

Maxie "Axie" Zoomering, a member of the Manipulating Department, will manage "Busted" in his challenge. "Axie" has demanded that as part of the contract to manage, he be given in addition the job of auditor of Syrup's estate, if such a position becomes available.

Syrup declared he was overwhelmed by Zoomering's confidence.

The terms of the fight are as follows: Piston's hands and feet must be bound, his eyes must be blindfolded, and prior to the first round, he must consume three quarts of assorted liquors. This, according to ring experts, should equalize the fighters.

A crowd of one hundred spectators is expected at the match, to be held on the bridge to the Student Center. Among them will be ten doctors and seven first aid experts.

The betting odds show that Piston is a slight 100,000 to one favorite to win by a knockout in the first round. Syrup told THE TRAUMA that he will bet half his life savings on himself to win.

"The other half," he said, "I will use to bet on the New York Mets to win the national league pennant."

Elevators Too Much For 1620 Computer

The computer which was installed in the tenth floor snack bar last December is no longer operating. It suffered a complete breakdown on Friday after tackling the problem of congestion on the Baruch School elevators.

After the machine was fed all relevant data, it hummed smoothly into operation, and several minutes later came up with a suggestion to stagger class hours. The plan would have different classes starting every ten minutes instead of all classes commencing on the hour. However, the computer quickly rejected its own plan realizing that bells would be ringing all day.

After laboring with the figures for several more hours, the machine began to show disturbing signs. Coded tape began pouring out of the computer with wholly unintelligible symbols typed on it. Soon the whole machine began shaking violently, and before grinding to a dead halt it came up with a last-ditch message which read "Bring back Harry!"

Dr. John Bowell of the Psychopathic Department attributed the breakdown to sexual frustration common to computers isolated from their companions. He stated that the only solution was to purchase a sister computer. He added that this was not to be considered a blanket endorsement of incest however. If buying a second computer were not possible, Dr. Bowell suggested that they remove the broken-down computer from the snack bar and serve food. Dr. Bowell was asked whether he was presently writing a book to be titled "Interpretation of Computer Dreams." Before walking away, he smiled and muttered "Freud forbid."

prices and thus only slightly annoy the student body. Nedicks said they will have to change their name to "The Orange Room" in order to trick wealthy students and businessmen into their confines.

The faculty at the School gave the impression that they couldn't care less. One teacher, who preferred to remain anonymous, said "The only one of us who goes into the madhouse, er, cafeteria, is one from the Manipulating Department, and he doesn't eat anyway. All he does is lead community singing of some 'Sinking Fund Song.'"

SPORT SPURTS

Do you know that referees get $25 each to officiate at basketball games? Many fans, unhappy over the refs' calls, feel that paying the money is an act of charity? —giving to the blind.

City College students were overjoyed recently when they learned that the Beaver five made the N.C.A.A. playoffs. The fans drank it up and danced in the streets (especially on Eighth Avenue in front of Madison Square Garden).

But then somebody had to be a kill-joy. He told the vociferous thousands, "Yes, the Beavers are in the N.C.A.A. tourney, but they're Beavers from Oregon State, not C.C.N.Y." What would Steve Allen say to this?

On April 1, 1960, Beaver booter Bob Berkson was given honorable mention on the all-American born, living in Queens, red-headed, Baruch School psychology major soccer team. Berkson was the only player on the team. None of the other candidates had the talent, although they qualified.

Today Berkson is married and no longer participates in outdoor sports. He has also developed an interest in foreign films. Bob recently bought a new (or is it nude) supply from France.

City College's five recently finished their season undefeated in league play. The team also captured a major invitational tournament. Included among the team's victims were Fordham, Hofstra, St. John's, and N.Y.U. Oh!, by the way, this City College five is not the basketball team, it is the rifle squad.

Barry Saymore, star of a local college's basketball team, will transfer to C.C.N.Y. next season. When Jerry "Shotgun" Benberg was informed of the impending transfer, he humbly said, "The team can use Saymore. Since I'm graduating, somebody will have to take my place as leading scorer. I hope he can fill my shoes. They're size fourteen."

The 1964 C.C.N.Y. football schedule was announced yesterday. Included among the opponents are U.C.L.A., Army, Navy, Air Force (or is it Fair Farce), Marines (just to be fair to the other military schools), Penn State, Pittsburgh, Miami, Ohio State, and Illinois. The schedule was limited to leave room for a post-season bowl bid.

The following request for petty cash was submitted by a TRAUMA sports reporter. He will cover the N.C.A.A. fencing tournament at Colorado Springs this weekend. It included: 1) Transportation—$200, 2) Meals—50 cents, 3) Hotel—$555 for two nights (we don't sleep in flop-houses), 4) Call girl—$50 (but we don't care who we sleep with), 5) Present for Dean Socks .0000000012, 6) Admission to tournament—$1. The reporter received the entire amount less $1 for admission. This was considered an unnecessary expense.

Carolyn's Guard

Carolyn's Guard has set a record for the most pledges ever recruited by a Baruch School organization. This is because they finally introduced Carolyn to the student body.

Michael Mitzer, a representative of the organization, claimed that next term, the name of the group will be Thursday's Guard, in honor of the new dean of Stupid Life.

The leader of the teacher underground, Dr. Robert Stranahand said the faculty will hold a referendum tomorrow to determine whether or not to hold a strike against the tuition charge. announced. A rider to the motion stated that if this doesn't work, the student would then line up and all stick their tongues out at the governor. Later in the evening attendance roll call was taken for the twenty eighth time. This established an all time record. The previous mark was set last year when a lecture was being held next door to S. C. meeting room on "Pre-marital Sex." At that time, many Council members received twenty-seven absences.

"However," claimed Marcus Grun '64, vice-dictator, "we are still in favor of unlimited cutting in classrooms."

The meeting ended at 12, with former Stupid Council dictator Babbling Brooks, reciting the benediction.
