2014

Higher education fundraisers react to new realities

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!
Follow this and additional works at: https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs/830

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Baruch College at CUNY Academic Works. It has been accepted for inclusion in Publications and Research by an authorized administrator of CUNY Academic Works. For more information, please contact AcademicWorks@cuny.edu.
HIGHER EDUCATION FUNDRAISERS REACT TO NEW REALITIES

The Goddard School is hosting a Foodology summer camp open house 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on May 3. The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Habitat volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Burrus has also partnered with SUEC’s Natural Connections group which will be plotting, planting, and caring for a garden on the side of the school. Installation of a green house is also in the planning stages. “We’re going to try to use that garden to teach kids the whole gardening experience,” she said. “We’re going to try to use that garden to be self-sustaining, she also hoped to support the children’s learning by creating the quick hits, the extra learning.” Then there is, of course, the Mardi Gras (May 3).  The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Habitat volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Jene Butts, left, and Pat Davis hold up the quilt that the Guild will be donating to the National Quilt Museum auction during the day’s show.

The public is certainly invited to experience the arts, and beauty of the quilt, displayed in the historic church sanctuary and through a 45-minute talk.

For the Intelligencer

The ﬁrst-ever Foodology summer camp open house begins at 8 a.m. on Monday, May 3. The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Burrus has also partnered with SUEC’s Natural Connections group which will be plotting, planting, and caring for a garden on the side of the school. Installation of a green house is also in the planning stages. “We’re going to try to use that garden to teach kids the whole gardening experience,” she said. “We’re going to try to use that garden to be self-sustaining, she also hoped to support the children’s learning by creating the quick hits, the extra learning.” Then there is, of course, the Mardi Gras (May 3).  The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Habitat volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Jene Butts, left, and Pat Davis hold up the quilt that the Guild will be donating to the National Quilt Museum auction during the day’s show.

The public is certainly invited to experience the arts, and beauty of the quilt, displayed in the historic church sanctuary and through a 45-minute talk.

For the Intelligencer

The ﬁrst-ever Foodology summer camp open house begins at 8 a.m. on Monday, May 3. The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Burrus has also partnered with SUEC’s Natural Connections group which will be plotting, planting, and caring for a garden on the side of the school. Installation of a green house is also in the planning stages. “We’re going to try to use that garden to teach kids the whole gardening experience,” she said. “We’re going to try to use that garden to be self-sustaining, she also hoped to support the children’s learning by creating the quick hits, the extra learning.” Then there is, of course, the Mardi Gras (May 3).  The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Habitat volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Jene Butts, left, and Pat Davis hold up the quilt that the Guild will be donating to the National Quilt Museum auction during the day’s show.

The public is certainly invited to experience the arts, and beauty of the quilt, displayed in the historic church sanctuary and through a 45-minute talk.

For the Intelligencer

The ﬁrst-ever Foodology summer camp open house begins at 8 a.m. on Monday, May 3. The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Burrus has also partnered with SUEC’s Natural Connections group which will be plotting, planting, and caring for a garden on the side of the school. Installation of a green house is also in the planning stages. “We’re going to try to use that garden to teach kids the whole gardening experience,” she said. “We’re going to try to use that garden to be self-sustaining, she also hoped to support the children’s learning by creating the quick hits, the extra learning.” Then there is, of course, the Mardi Gras (May 3).  The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Habitat volunteer sign-up opportunities.

Jene Butts, left, and Pat Davis hold up the quilt that the Guild will be donating to the National Quilt Museum auction during the day’s show.

The public is certainly invited to experience the arts, and beauty of the quilt, displayed in the historic church sanctuary and through a 45-minute talk.

For the Intelligencer

The ﬁrst-ever Foodology summer camp open house begins at 8 a.m. on Monday, May 3. The event will feature a free pancake/cake scramble for all attendees, a free raffle, and garden and garden Volunteer sign-up opportunities.