2015

Higher education needs to reassess its leadership

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
CUNY Bernard M Baruch College

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!

Follow this and additional works at: https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
Romero, Aldemaro Jr., "Higher education needs to reassess its leadership" (2015). CUNY Academic Works.
https://academicworks.cuny.edu/bb_pubs/883

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Baruch College at CUNY Academic Works. It has been accepted for inclusion in Publications and Research by an authorized administrator of CUNY Academic Works. For more information, please contact AcademicWorks@cuny.edu.
Cemetary

From continued on Page

Board

From continued on Page

SIUE Students have a different kind of spring break school.

SIUE students are diverse and have a different kind of spring school experience. Some students volunteer and diverge connections that she has made with the rest of the world during her trip to Jamaica. The trip is full of interactions with very diverse students and indivisible, and that’s what I think makes alternative spring break so cool, shared Kasey with SIUE students and are studying different majors, but we all go to SIUE and all wanted to make a difference during our spring break experience. Working with this team was a great honor! I came back from this trip with a new family. On the Kansas City trip, Kirklin, who also SIUE students provided aid to the St.inger Shrimp Ranch and the Guatemalan Refugees (NRG) organizations. The team assistants would have meals for those in need. The team was able to raise $10,000 through fundraising and created new friendships with others who share a passion for the city. It was the trip of a lifetime.

When returning to school for the fall semester, SIUE, these students and Central Illinois实质 had made the trip possible through donations to SIUE. They had created connections across the city and the school, and the team realized that this was a lifetime.

Some countries in Kentucky have created the zones and now find themselves part of a larger battle similar to what was happening in Illinois, too. A closer look at Kentucky shows that the state has taken a more assertive stance on right-to-work laws, as evidenced by the recent victory of the local right-to-work zone in part of the city. The state, having already made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties, has now made the decision to do so in all of its counties. This is a significant victory for the state and its residents.

In the southern part of Kentucky, Warren County was the first to make the move to a right-to-work zone several years ago. This move was followed by several other counties in the state. The move was made in part because of the large number of right-to-work zones that were in place in neighboring states. The move has been successful in attracting new businesses and jobs to the area.

The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The state has already made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties, and it has also made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties. This is a significant victory for the state and its residents.

In the southern part of Kentucky, Warren County was the first to make the move to a right-to-work zone several years ago. This move was followed by several other counties in the state. The move was made in part because of the large number of right-to-work zones that were in place in neighboring states. The move has been successful in attracting new businesses and jobs to the area.

The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The state has already made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties, and it has also made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties. This is a significant victory for the state and its residents.

In the southern part of Kentucky, Warren County was the first to make the move to a right-to-work zone several years ago. This move was followed by several other counties in the state. The move was made in part because of the large number of right-to-work zones that were in place in neighboring states. The move has been successful in attracting new businesses and jobs to the area.

The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The Republican-led state has made a strong statement on right-to-work in Kentucky. The state has already made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties, and it has also made the decision to extend right-to-work zones to all counties. This is a significant victory for the state and its residents.