One of the books that impressed me the most as a teenager was the novel “Nineteen Eighty-Four” (or “1984” for short). Written by George Orwell in 1949, this dystopian novel is a chilling portrait of a futureorld where individualism is outlawed and people are controlled by a totalitarian government. Orwell’s vision of a degraded society in which truth is twisted to suit the needs of power and the manipulation of language as a tool of control has resonated with many readers over the years.

For their efforts, the Madison-Monroe-St. Clair Master Gardeners unit was rewarded with a trip to The Gardens at SIUE. Mueller said that last year two of the Master Gardener members took the trip and said it was one of the highlights of their year. “This group is interested in things like prairie systems, river-lands, wetlands, birds, butterflies, and wetlands,” Mueller said. “For their efforts, the Madison-Monroe-St. Clair Master Gardeners unit was rewarded with a trip to The Gardens at SIUE.”
