Let’s never forget: Extinction is forever

Aldemaro Romero Jr.
Edwardsville Art Fair participating artists

by Leslie Renken

PEOILDA, (AP) — A memorial garden beside St. Ann Church in Urbana is one of 66,000 similar gardens in the U.S. today. This one was started by a group of volunteers who gathered there with a kickback which was used to purchase a variety of flowers, ground cover, and a fence. The garden is maintained by OSF HealthCare System.

Garden seen as community asset

By LESLIE RENKEN

For the Intelligencer

Garden seen as community asset

Edwardsville Art Fair participating artists

For the Intelligencer

by Leslie Renken

Summer is coming to a close for a pair of art and music festivals. The Garden of Illinois is coming to a close after last week's festival, something that is winding down with just two weekends left: Aug. 20 and Aug. 27.

One of the greatest hits is free and are conducted at 8 p.m. at Lane Place, 1210 W. Main St.

The pool is open on a weekends-only schedule, roughly through August 27.

By Leslie Renken

PARK

Summer is coming to a close for a pair of art and music festivals. The Garden of Illinois is coming to a close after last week's festival, something that is winding down with just two weekends left: Aug. 20 and Aug. 27.

One of the greatest hits is free and are conducted at 8 p.m. at Lane Place, 1210 W. Main St.

The pool is open on a weekends-only schedule, roughly through August 27.