Cafeteria Dishes up New Owners

by Rosemary Serno

If you think you have seen new faces behind the cafeteria counters in Sony and the main building, you’re right; they are new. As a matter of fact, everyone including the vendor is new. As of September 3, Automatique has been in charge of satisfying our appetites.

When old vendors vied, La Morte lost due to financial and other difficulties, bids went out to the vendors. The sub-committee composed of three students (Sally Lawson, Anna Maria Brown, and three faculty members (Dean Brown, Prof. Ernest Manahel, and Susan Steinberg) went to go the different vendor sites and inspect their facilities. The sub-committee tasted their food, observed the service, inspected the sanitary conditions, and asked a lot of questions. Automatique, presenting excellent standards and innovative ideas, moved the sub-committee to vote unanimously in recommending them to the full committee. Again, the vote was unanimous -- Automatique.

Automatique is here on a one-year contract and must comply with standards as far as quantity of food, reasonable prices, and clean conditions. They are also subject to approval of the Cafeteria Committee for any changes including prices. Reasons must be cited before the committee can act or disprove the price change. If the committee agrees a price change will occur one week after the approval. If the committee disagrees, the reasons, Automatique cannot change its prices.

Automatique is actively involved in providing good food and service to the LaGuardia community. A five-day menu is available and now with these three cafeterias plans are in the works to improve the structure and service of both cafeterias. However, Automatique is facing many problems in the supply of electrical power and space. The problems will be rectified and we are sure that our new friends, Automatique, will be with us in correcting the problems and keeping our stomachs happy.

CHANGE-OF-PROGRAM; A DISASTER SCENE

by Gene Cafaro

Waiting forty-five minutes to an hour in a check-out line can be almost as disappointing as waiting for a plane to arrive during an emergency. But, that is the way things were during Change-of-Program at LaGuardia College. The Great Hall was virtually inundated with a varied array of new and unsuspecting students with hardly enough staff to service them; some staff had been drafted to the task knowing little of what was expected of them, and subsequently had to cope with the onslaught of people who were, as a result, victimized by the whole affair.

Many people, after standing on one line for 45 minutes or more, discovered much to their dismay that the college had run out of ready's and another line was needed. Oftentimes this was on another line for some insignificant minor detail; and, all this inconvenience, indignity, tired feet, and short tempers seemed enough to discourage even the most ethereal personality. Consequently, expletives, confusion and chaos were apparently the order of the day. Notwithstanding having to stand on line for an hour or more, in the final analysis it was not uncommon to find the courses that students registered for after all this time, had been closed out...here we go again.

One student after having registered for nine credits, was first notified that two of the courses were dropped due to the lack of student enrollment; and said student once again registered for two more courses; only to find that once again one had been dropped. What to do?

After all, it is the job of the student advisor whose duties include helping the club set up certain activities, informing them of certain rules, regulations, and deadlines, and lastly, relating any information to Student Council and the Human Development Center. Organization and effective management are the goals; and these new ideas are some of the steps to the ladder in achieving them. Along with these “steps” cooperation from the students and their faculty advisors is greatly needed in reaching for this success. All these points, steps, and goals are very important in breaking down the walls of furthers; but it takes time...

what to do? This student must of necessity carry at least nine credits to maintain matriculated status, and eligibility for a BEOG grant. In the interim, a letter had been received from the Financial Aid Office warning that if said student does not register for at least seven credits she will not only be ineligible for the grant but, said student will also lose matriculated status.

All that wasn’t enough, the aftermath of this episode was as interesting—and frustrating—as was the action in the Great Hall. For instance, two classes having similar names, (Voices of Women, and Images of Women), had their days mixed, ergo when the students showed up for class the teacher wasn’t there and vice versa. With a little ingenuity, students from both classes were notified to report to room SB45 to resolve the confusion. Roberta Mattheus and Sarah Barber were, without a doubt, the unsung heroes as teachers in this borderline calamity, having successfully ironed out the wrinkles. Ms. Barber wound up with a class of only six students, and although there was considerable juggling to distribute the course the class was ultimately canceled. Guess who received a letter of cancellation from the Registrar’s office? You guessed it, our hard-scratton friend who had spent the first week or two registering, and re-registering for classes that were canceled for various and sundry reasons.

Finally, the ‘piece de resistance’ a group of about eight or ten students walking, apparently lost and obviously disoriented, through the halls of the new building. Giving various people directions to room 127; and the final indignity after watching people running up and down the hallways trying to help was—there is no room 127.

NOTICE

The Extended Day students who anticipate graduating at the end of the Fall term will be receiving a C.U.N.Y. transfer application and written information. For those students who may need help with the application or who seek additional assistance, please attend the transfer workshop on October 19 at 10:00 a.m. in Room LB-3
EDITORIAL

The Big Lie

The accusations written in THE CRISIS about LaGuardia Community College and the Fiorello’s Flute are erroneous and uncalled for. The charges cannot be substantiated and should be regarded in the eyes of our staff and the community as THE BIG LIE.

The Flute lives, and it is doing fine, and expects to do better in the future. The Flute is not a scandal newspaper and was never intended to be one; it’s a college newspaper that everyone can be proud of. We report news that will be beneficial to the community, and we are thankful to everyone, including faculty, staff and our previous editors, who wholeheartedly participated in its continuing publication.

As the student body increases, the faculty will increase and so will our newspaper. In the future, we can look forward to a larger newspaper, and the reports of the Flute dying are greatly exaggerated.

The radio station has had a few bad experiences in the past, but things are shaping up and this year it will be operating in the SONY Building with new programming and a better arrangement of music for your listening pleasure. However, there is a shortage of disc jockeys, so if you know anything about airing good music and programming, come in for an interview. Ask for Poppa Bae or Eileen in SB-55 of the SONY Building lounge.

The Middle College students say that they feel fine and are happy and contented here at LaGuardia. They say that they are overjoyed with their new-found freedom in a mature atmosphere. I am sure that they will be needing our help from time to time, so why not lend a helping hand.

Lack Of Spiritual Guidance

The summer issue of The Calendar of Events, has advertised that Father McDonald would be available for spiritual guidance in the Sony Building on Wednesdays from 8-12 noon. I wanted to interview him, so I went to visit him on Wednesday, at the schedule according to the sheet. He was not in, so I left a message telling him that I would meet him next week. The following week he was not only not in, but his door was locked. I then proceeded to ask the guard at the desk in the Sony Building as to when the priest would be available. He in turn insisted that he never saw Priest McDonald in the Sony Building at any time. Finally, before jumping to any conclusions, I contacted the Humanist office in turn told me that the priest is not available this quarter but will be once the fall quarter commences.

Conclusion: the people who write for Calendar of Events should be more aware about what services are available and what aren’t.

EXTENDED DAY NEWS & VIEWS

The Extended Day Session recently initiated classes on Friday evenings, Saturday afternoons, and Sundays. This historical beginning of a weekend program allows the students greater flexibility in course offerings. The seven day operation began formally on October 4, 1974, although the Extended Day Staff has been preparing since the ‘73 Spring term. The College had hoped to serve the potential student population who may be working during the weekday which would prevent them from attending during the 8:00 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. courses. The total population includes approximately 250 working men and women, many of the students are veterans.

The Fall term contains many holidays. All students are encouraged to review the academic calendar on page 4 of the 74-75 College Bulletin or the Extended Day Handbook, page 2. The calendar also notes that the last day to drop officially from courses is October 26. If you find it necessary to drop courses, contact your counselor before October 26.

CCNY GUARD SHOT - Sgt. Harry Murray, 42, of the Wackenhut Security Corp, shot three times in the head by bandits attempting to rob the cafeteria at Shepard Hall. It was reported that the same three men had been thrown out of the building the day before. Murray got off 5 shots. He is in critical condition at Logan Memorial Hospital. He has a wife and two teenage daughters.
Faculty Member Runs For Assembly

by Gene Cefaro

"They sold the interests of the Blacks and Puerto Rican out, to save the money," said Bonaparte, a Bonaparte of certain city officials. Bonaparte, who is also a full time member of the LaGuardia Community College faculty, has been campaigning in the 79th Assembly District of Manhattan for election to the State Legislature in November.

The district, located in the south Bronx covers an area from Sound View Avenue and south to Fox Street. Bonaparte said he has no long term aspirations for political life and further stated that it was at the insistence of many residents of the community that he had consented to run. "I'm running for office at LaGuardia," he admitted. "I enjoy working here."

Attributes apathy to Watergate

Furthermore, Bonaparte concluded confidently that although there would be some conflict because the Assembly meets during January, February, and March of each year, while his vacation is scheduled for 3 months during the summer, his contribution capability to both would certainly justify working out some kind of agreement. "I am an enrolled Democrat, but I'm running on a Republican ticket," said Bonaparte, because he believes the Puerto Rican and Black community have never had the opportunity to make choices in the 79th Assembly District. Republicans have virtually given up campaigning for the Black and Puerto Rican community as a direct result of his election, Bonaparte emphasized. "I am concerned in housing and unemployment, and would like to see the State, Federal, and City agencies declare the 9th district a disaster area. While Nye conversely wants buildings torn down and the lots cleared for high-rise apartments, Bonaparte, on the other hand, suggested redeveloping the present housing using the unemployed on a work-study program, because the people occupying the low and moderate income rental units, incumbent with high-rise apartments."

"I'd work day and night..."

When asked what contribution he expected to make to the Black and Puerto Rican community as a direct result of his election, Bonaparte emphasized concern in housing and unemployment, and would like to see the State, Federal, and City agencies declare the 9th district a disaster area. While Nye conversely wants buildings torn down and the lots cleared for high-rise apartments, Bonaparte, on the other hand, suggested redeveloping the present housing using the unemployed on a work-study program, because the people occupying the low and moderate income rental units, incumbent with high-rise apartments.

Inflation Stalls Phase 2 Construction

by Gene Cefaro

President Joseph Shenker, and Campus Facilities officer David Henken both agreed in recent interviews that inflation is the major culprit in the delay of the Phase 2 renovation originally scheduled to begin in May of this year. "The major culprit is inflation. It is a whole series of events," said Shenker, who relates inflation to building. "It affects us in the CUNY, the city University Construction Fund, and the Dormitory Authority of N.Y.C., determining the bids for construction contracts."

As of 1970, when the budget for renovations was allocated to City University, the appropriation was approximately 9 million dollars. Nevertheless, delays in negotiations, and the usual red tape incumbent in establishing a dialogue with the city bureaucracies took its toll in inflated costs. Henken said that "theoretically" construction should begin next month; he went on to point out the various aspects of the problem. "Legally construction can start as soon as the contract is signed, but practically," he continued, "the contractor will try to get tools assembled, hire a work force, and make arrangements. Henken stated that "it will take about a month to get a building."

Notwithstanding, President Shenker's estimated starting date to be in December, Henken on the other hand, said as of October 9 a letter had been received from the Dormitory Authority to award contracts as per the most recent negotiations. "It was observed that after CUNY negotiations with city authorities for a budget to renovate, the project is then bid upon by interested construction companies for the job. Accordingly, there are two separate contracts: one for the construction of a new gym facility in the area presently occupied by the parking lot, behind the Administration building; and the second, a separate contract, is for work in the building. The first orientation meeting is scheduled for the week beginning October 14."

One of the main problems Henken cited will be vacating the building and relocating in other facilities. One lease, recently approved by the Board of Estimate, allows for several departments to occupy the 2nd and 3rd floors of L & P Electric at 47-01 Van Dam Street, effective Monday, October 14.

One of the main problems Henken cited will be vacating the building and relocating in other facilities. One lease, recently approved by the Board of Estimate, allows for several departments to occupy the 2nd and 3rd floors of L & P Electric at 47-01 Van Dam Street, effective Monday, October 14. Also, negotiations are underway to rent approximately 80,000 feet of space in the Executive building. Executone's executive offices on the third floor will be replaced by 12 classrooms, and alternate office space to be used by the administration of L & G. Henken pointed out that negotiating is extremely frustrating because of delays and rhetoric. Subsequently, the new bids made in two parts as a further effort to maintain costs under the protected budget, were returnable on separate dates; the first as of August 28, for building renovation, and the second as of September 4. Although, both men agreed that inflation was the primary cause of the delay, Henken went on to cite the Energy Crisis, and inflation's affect on industry as causal reasons why related fields and companies tended to be in short supply. As a direct result, contractors with prior commitments dependent on delivery of certain items, were not getting delivery; hence, the threat continued on page 7

Television Talk

Rhoda: M.T.M. Success

This year's new season brings us twenty-five new shows and twenty-seven returnees. About half of the new shows are actioners in the police genre. The others are situation comedies and a few new dramas ala The Waltons hominess. This column will be occupied with reviewing the exceptionally good and some of the bad shows, as well as discussing some of the returnees.

Valerie Harper made such a hit as Rhoda Morgenstern in the Mary Tyler Moore Show that its producers gave her a show of her own. She handled the transition of featured player to star easily. The Mary Tyler Moore production company seems to have a formula for hit shows, this being number 3 and two others which are not yet reviewed also new this season. With Bob Newhart and Mary's own show, Rhoda is in good company.

The locale is New York, Rhoda's hometown and away from Mary's shadow. In supportive roles are Julie Kavner, the overweight sister which seems similar to how Miss Harper's Rhoda began in M.T.M.'s show. Another is Nancy Walker, familiar to most from Bounty commercials and MacMillian & Wife's maid Mildred. As Rhoda's mother, the over-protective stereotype, her knowledge and comedic experience is a definite asset. David Groh finishes the regular cast as Rhoda's romantic interest, Joe. It was the lead-off episode in which they met hence her decision to stay in New York.

Julie Kavner and David Groh are newcomers to TV and add well to the shows comedy. They work well opposite the seasoned pros, Valerie Harper and Nancy Walker. This shows insured success through an excellent production crew will also make the Emmys more difficult to decide. This being one of five M.T.M. enterprise shows.

Manhunter

A Bounty Hunter is not exactly a new premise on television. The leader was Wanted: Dead or Alive with Steve McQueen which is now in syndicated re-runs. The second was the Outcasts, two partners, one white and the other black. This show dealt with the black man in the west. The Manhunter is set in 1930's, the Bonnie and Clyde era, which supplies the show with a bevy of plots being a time when gangsterism flourished.

The shows star Ken Howard, a very striking figure, which may overshadow any ability. The show is very much action oriented and is filmed on location in the beautiful mid-west countryside. If they allow some character development on Howard's part the show could become a hit for CBS.

MOVIES!

Longest Yard

The savoir-faire that is Burt Reynolds' trademark makes this film a most enjoyable one. Teamed with Eddie Albert as his major antagonist, the uncouth, cruel-hearted warden of the prison, Reynolds' as Paul Crewe, ex-football star is put into a difficult situation by Albert. He is told to improve the team of the guards, a semi-pro ball club. Reynolds just wants to serve his time and leave. The wardens pressure forces him to create a team of inmates to play the guards.

Burt Reynolds

The major portion of the film involves the actual football game. The game could be considered Roller Derby without skates. It's the roughest dragout, knockdown football game that has ever been put on the screen. Some of the guards are portrayed by true pros, Ray Nitzche for one. The team of inmates is called the Mean Machine. A collection of the meanest, strongest and ugliest convicts ever.

Eddie Albert

Eddie Albert's megolomaniac warden has an air implying political satire, the extreme preoccupation with football. His secretary is beautifully played by Bernadette Peters. With blonde hair piled high and heavy makeup stereotypes the dumb secretary. She manages to get her hands on Reynolds in a very humorous seduction scene.

With football the drawing element of this movie, it comes to the best possible time-autumn. Along with the Reynolds billing the film is sure to be good box office.

Born Losers

This is a warning to the gullible. It is being billed and advertised as one of the Billy Jack films. Mr. Laughlin has taken ads out in the trade publications in protest to this situation. He has finished the sequel to Billy Jack, The Trail of Billy Jack which is due for general release in early November.

The Born Losers was released originally in 1967. It is a typical motorcycle film of that decade. It was also Tom Laughlin's debut in films. The character he portrays is a half-breed Vietnam vet who must transcend society laws to protect it. The character's nature is quite similar to "Billy Jack's," it was an early model.

Billy Jack

The Laughlins admit that the roles are similar, but are angered with Warner Bros. in an already ongoing battle. This misadvertising, by American International, according to them, is just another affront in their attempt to develop total honest message film. The studio, Warner Bros., thought Billy Jack a bad commercial risk and were ready to shelve it. Laughlin proved them wrong, the film grossed over $12 million in three re-releases. The sequel looks even more promising.

Free Classes In Breast Self-Examination

Women's Services at the Center for Reproductive and Sexual Health announces free Tuesday evening classes in breast self-examination. During the one-hour class women will have an opportunity to practice the technique on a life-size model.

Because of the recent publicity regarding Mrs. Ford's operation, many women are calling clinics for help and waiting periods have developed. Reverend Howard Moody, Chairman of the Board of the Center, said, "A woman should not have to wait long periods for an appointment or pay a high fee if she is properly instructed in self-examination. The first step in early detection is for a woman to know what and how to look for herself."

The Center, located at 424 East 62nd Street, is a New York State licensed health center which offers a wide range of women's health services. For further information, call 758-7310 Monday through Saturday between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

SENATE NEWS

The Senate held its last meeting on August 7. The membership of five committees was approved at the meeting. These committees are: Committee on Elections, Committee on Evaluation of Program Effectiveness, Academic Standing Committee, Committee on Students, and Curriculum Committee.

The Senate needs more students to participate in the committees. If interested, please see Dean of Students and submit an application.

Phase 2 Construction

The Senate also approved a policy at that meeting stating that Advanced Standing students from other accredited institutions would be admitte to the college with six or more credits.

The next two Senate meetings will be on Nov. 6 at 5:30 P.M. and Nov. 13. All college students and staff are welcome to attend these meetings.

GET IN SHAPE

rear of great hall

By Kenneth Wynofsky

If sun sign astrology were valid, we could divide the world's population into twelve "pure" types that would coincide with the twelve signs of the zodiac. Before I go on, I should state that sun sign astrology is: the daily astronomical reading one finds in the newspapers and magazines, and also the popular astrology books one finds in book stores. These readings are based on the sign the sun is in when one is born, but they do not consider the many other astrological factors which are part of a person's horoscope. Besides the sun, there are nine planets and the rising sign (ascendant), twelve horoscope houses, and ten major aspects. The least possible number of different combinations resulting from these four groups of astrological factors is: 5,990,707 x 10^8; this is infinitely greater than all the atoms in the universe.

If we go around the zodiac we will see the many diverse personalities born under the same sign. Born under Gemini were John F. Kennedy, Che Guevara, and Bill Gates. Born under the sign of Leo were Fidel Castro, Carl Jung, and Benito Mussolini. Under the sign of Virgo were Einstein, Ted Kennedy, and Harry Belafonte. Under the sign of Libra, the "wishy washy sign" were Einstein, Ted Kennedy, and Harry Belafonte.

Electrical switches will be simplified.

In an effort to offset the inflated construction costs, structural changes were made which include the following:

Much of the wacting was eliminated.

Construction of the theatre was postponed indefinitely.

The air conditioning system was changed.

The exterior surface of the building will be changed from the original plan.

Electrical switches will be simplified.

The projected saving from these alterations is estimated at from 2 1/2 to 3 million dollars, in order to come under budget. And, even with the new cutbacks, a saving is expected to be at least half a million dollars over the budget.

TWO YEAR'S PUSH TO FOUR

The state's community college funding formula is forcing students from two-year career programs into four-year baccalaureate courses, according to Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee of the City University of New York.

While technical courses cost the two-year colleges more than liberal arts subjects (because of more class hours, smaller class sizes and higher equipment costs in career curriculum offerings) the squeeze of the state formula, according to the CUNY Chancellor, will generate long-range higher costs for the state.

Pointing out that the eight community colleges within the City University system must operate this year with a $9.5 million shortfall in state aid, Dr. Kibbee said that community college administrators are being "forced to put students where they cost least: in the liberal arts rather than the technical curriculums."

The consequence, he charged, "leaves the community college graduate no viable option other than going on to a four-year baccalaureate program."

Dr. Kibbee said that CUNY would next January ask the Legislature to gain pass legislation, vetoed this year by Governor Wilson, which would give the New York City Board of Higher Education de jure as de facto control of the eight community colleges within the City University system.

National Student Lobby In DC

Throughout the fall the National Student Lobby, a four year old federation of individual students and student governments headquartered in Washington, D.C., will fight for adoption of Congressional legislation insuring a national air transportation policy that will benefit students.

Arthur Rodbell, Executive Director of the National Student Lobby, announced that NSL's lobbying strategy will center around the passage of two bills by Congress. Both bills appear to have excellent chances of passage before Congress adjourns for the November elections.

One of these bills, S.2651, would overturn a decision made two years ago by the Civil Aeronautics Board prohibiting the scheduled airlines from offering the so-called "youth fares." Due to NSL's massive lobbying effort, S.2651 was unanimously passed by the Senate in November of 1973, and is due to come up for hearings before the House Subcommittee on Transportation and Aeronautics as the Subcommittee's next order of business. S.2651 would reinstate discount fares on a stand-by basis for youth under 22, senior citizens over 65, and handicapped persons. Letters are needed now from students who care about the prohibitive cost of air travel. Write your Representative (c/o House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515) expressing your support for the passage of S.2651.

CLEARWATER PUMPKIN SAIL/SALE CELEBRATES SEASON

The Clearwater, a replica of a 19th-century Hudson River sailing sloop, will return to New York City for the third annual Pumpkin Sail/Sale. Again this year, thousands of pumpkins will be sold from the deck to help celebrate the season. The sloop will be docked at Roberto Clemente State Park (formerly Harlem River State Park), near Tremont Avenue and the Harlem River, the Bronx on Friday, October 25 from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday, October 26 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and at South Street Seaport, Fulton Street and the East River, Lower Manhattan, on Sunday, October 27 and Monday, October 28, both days from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Scheduled events include parades, theater, games, dancing and sing-alongs with the Clearwater crew. At various times throughout the weekend, entertainment will be provided by El Grupo, Brother Frederick Kirkpatrick, Pete Seeger, The New Harmony Sisterhood, David Amram, Raun McKinnon, and many others. For the youngest, there will be an Eco-mask contest for which children are asked to create homemade masks from recycled egg cartons, tin cans, etc. Children should bring their entries to the festival and prize pumpkins will be awarded to the winners. The events are sponsored by Clearwater Friends of New York City, the regional chapter of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration. Admission to all activities is free.

Also on hand for the weekend festivities will be an array of mime artists, jugglers, jazz and steel drum musicians, madrigalists, gospel and bluegrass singers. Local clubs and organizations will be represented. Any group wishing to participate in the Bronx should call (212) 299-8750, and (212) 349-4310 for Manhattan.

Since 1969 the Clearwater has been sailing the Hudson River in an effort to alert the community of the need for ecological awareness. This non-profit organization has held educational seminars for local school children and adults in the communities which they have visited. Everyone is welcomed aboard and members of the crew will be available to give talks about the history of the Clearwater and its work in cleaning up the Hudson.

During last year's Pumpkin Sail/Sale more than 10 tons of pumpkins were carried aboard the sloop from Kingston, New York and sold at various points along the way to recreate the traditional role of sloops carrying cargo to ports along the river. Throughout the weekend baked goods, fresh apple cider, posters, records and books, as well as this year's crop of pumpkins will also be available. Proceeds from these sales are used toward the maintenance of the Clearwater. The event will also welcome back "Esmirelda," a 40-foot long, paper-mache sturgeon—a symbol of the return of marine life to the Hudson.
