Today—April 12th
AN EDITORIAL

Today is our day!
It is the day that we have an opportunity to cast aside all lethargy, all party affiliations and sectarianism, to join forces in a nation-wide student strike demonstration against war.
It is the day we voice our denunciation of the insane armaments competition upon which the nations of the world have entered, and which can only result in the destruction of everything that we have come to look upon as civilization.
It is the day we show the war-makers that we are militantly more interested in living, than in dying for the safekeeping of their profits.

We are no longer to be regarded as playboys and playgirls with no thought for the injustices of a world gone mad. Today we will translate our convictions into forceful and courageous action. We will take place on the campuses of high schools, colleges and universities from coast to coast.

As our own college, the Instructors, Staff Association, and Anti-Fascist Association of the Staffs of City College have gone on record as being in sympathy with the strike. Uptown, Dean Gottschall has declared that there will be no extra penalties for students at City College.

The Student Council of the School of Business was the first organization to lend its support to the International student strike. The General Federation of Women's Clubs has also given its support to the International student strike demonstration against war on April 12 at 11 a.m.

At 10 minutes to 11, all students should march to Madison Square Park, rain or shine. Its large, orderly student groups should not loll in the hallways waiting for an order to move to the park, but all should proceed to the park immediately. Tomorrow the Harris students will come out at 11:30.

MADISON SQUARE PARK SCENE OF PROTEST

When more than 1,200 students of the School of Business left their classes at 11 a.m. today and marched to Madison Square Park, they will take part in the broadest, most militant mass unity demonstration against war ever witnessed during peace time.

At the same hour, on the campuses of hundreds of high schools and colleges throughout the country, students will gather in an orderly protest against the war that threatens the world today.

The entire campaign for the strike is being sponsored by organizations representing diverse viewpoints, which have joined forces on a common basis in this attempt to outlaw war. They are the National Council of Methodist Youth, the Inter-Seminary Movement (Middle Atlantic Division), the National Student League, the Student League for Industrial Democracy, the American Student Youth Section of the American League Against War and Fascism.

At the School of Business, the strike will take the form of an unorganized movement at 11 a.m. to gather at Madison Square Park. Company Building speakers will address the meeting.

Mr. Arnold Shukatoff, a member of the downtown English department and faculty advisor to the Student Council, will head the list of speakers. Mr. Shukatoff will address the gathering as a representative of the Anti-Fascist Association of the Staffs of City College. Lawrence Cohen, editor of THE TICKER, and Joe Warren, captain of the wrestling team and president of the Student Council, will present the student viewpoint.

In addition to the undergraduates of the School of Business, students of the Social for Workers, Washington Irving High School, Townsend Harris High School, and the 32nd Street branch of Hunter College, will convene in Madison Square Park.

Throughout New York City, which is the spearhead of the drive for peace, fifty thousand students are expected to leave the classes to participate in the protest. Five thousand students will strike at Columbia University. At Hunter College, Brooklyn College, N. Y. U., L. L. U., and Seth Low similarly successful strikes are predicted.

Tonight several thousand students of the evening session of City College, uptown will strike from 8:25 to 9:25 at the flagpole. Strikes at City College Commerce and Brooklyn College evening will also be held.

The city-wide action was begun Wednesday morning when some fifteen hundred students of George Washington High School and DeWitt Clinton High School left their classes. They had been unable to participate in the nation-wide strike because of conflicting mid-term exams.

According to Main Events, weekly newspaper of City College evening session, uptown, President Robinson, as well as Dean Gottschall, has stated that he is sympathetic toward the ideals and the principles behind the strike. Dean Gottschall has further expressed the hope that "the movement would have the support and co-operation of all student groups and of the members of the teaching staff as well."

When asked for a statement of opinion on the strike, Dean Justin H. Moore had nothing to say.

At 23rd Street the strike is being conducted under the leadership of the Student Rights Committee, which is composed of delegates from the twenty-eight campus organizations which have supported the strike.

The Student Rights Committee has urged all students of the School of Business to strike at 11 a.m. today. They have agreed with the United Parents Association which says it "seems fitting that one hour be granted to our youth in which they may express their desire to avoid future wars, instead of such days as are set aside in memory of those who gave their lives in wars of the past."

Strikes will be held at the following times:

- Today at 11 a.m.
- Friday at 11 a.m.
- Saturday at 11 a.m.
- Sunday and Monday at 11 a.m.
- Tuesday at 11 a.m.
