The property, which is adjacent to the vast, unsold estate of the late Clarence W. Mackay, communications magnate, at East Hills, was acquired and developed by Grenier

Norgate Plans Large

The property is one of the last, unsold estates in the Oyster Bay area and is proceeding with increasing rapidity, waiting only for electrification of the railroad branch to spring into high gear.

Another article on the transformation of the nearby farms into home properties for the lesser incomes will appear in the Brooklyn Eagle tomorrow.

Newspaper Guild Party

Attended by Over 3,500

Mr. Webster Jr., and President Newbolds of the City Council were among a group of public officials and jurists attending the annual ball of the Newspaper Guild of New York last night in the Manhattan Center, Manhattan.

More than 3,500 persons were entertained by stags of the song, screen and radio. Proceeds were allocated to the New York Newspaper Guild emergency fund.

EARS TO T

By CLIFFORD

Interviewing a Man

Your Explanation

Mrs. Celia Salzman, president of the Brooklyn Week for the Housewife, has been threatened with arrest for the housewife, and one in particular for that until the moment of the finished of the house, nol

"And who does that?" asked the thousand, with that of knives, yarns, sponges, etc.

"Oh, I do that," came the piquay, "while you are sitting there, what are you waiting for?"

Our Brooklyn So Big!

Carlos Cramer, publisher, of the Brooklyn Eagle speaks from the Pawtucket, that there are no better than that way to just do this.

Blackstone River has cut its flow to three days a week, and Brooklyn receives free publicity of the play "Separate Rooms." According to the story, "She glitters like a Park..." The Flatlands Republican Club will hold a call dinner tonight at the club house.

Not a Fry! You Can't Catch V

At the Game Cookoff, a group of chorines had a raging—and absent—pail on pan.

"She does so, k..."