Camp Near City For Study and Farming Urged

Report on Brooklyn College Volunteers To Be Sent to Higher Education Board

The Board of Higher Education should study the feasibility of setting up a camp in some fruit-growing area to test the results of such a program as has been described in a report by Professor Benedict. The plan of Professor Benedict for the development of biology, Brooklyn College, is of national significance. If the board of higher education approves, the plan can be carried out. If not, the college will continue its present work.

Professor Benedict has agreed to return to the college for a week to work with the college administrator and with the higher education board. He plans to attend the board meeting on April 11.

The board has appointed a committee to study the work of the higher education board. The committee will report to the board on April 12.

The board has decided to adopt the plan of Professor Benedict for the development of biology, Brooklyn College, as a model for higher education throughout the country.

Patrician Farmer's chief goal is to "shift the focus of research from the small-scale farmer to the large-scale producer." He believes that the large-scale producer is more likely to be able to maintain a higher level of productivity and profitability, while the small-scale farmer is more likely to be affected by fluctuations in the market.

The board has decided to award Professor Benedict a grant of $50,000 to support his research and development program. The board has also decided to establish a scholarship fund to support research and development in agriculture.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural economics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural techniques and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural education at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the education of agricultural students and the development of new agricultural curricula.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural policy at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural policies and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural extension at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the extension of agricultural knowledge and technology to farmers and consumers.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural science at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the research and development of new agricultural technologies and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural management at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the management of agricultural enterprises and the development of new agricultural management techniques.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural history at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the history of agriculture and the development of new agricultural historical curricula.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural law at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural laws and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural ethics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural ethical curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural psychology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural psychological curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural sociology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural sociological curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural anthropology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural anthropological curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural economics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural economic curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural marketing at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural marketing curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural policy at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural policy curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural education at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural education curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural research at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural research curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural extension at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural extension curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural science at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural science curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural management at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural management curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural history at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural history curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural law at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural law curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural ethics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural ethics curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural psychology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural psychology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural sociology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural sociology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural anthropology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural anthropology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural economics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural economics curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural marketing at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural marketing curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural policy at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural policy curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural education at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural education curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural research at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural research curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural extension at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural extension curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural science at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural science curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural management at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural management curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural history at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural history curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural law at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural law curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural ethics at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural ethics curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural psychology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural psychology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural sociology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural sociology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.

The board has decided to establish a new department of agricultural anthropology at Brooklyn College. The department will be headed by Professor Benedict and will focus on the development of new agricultural anthropology curricula and the improvement of existing ones.