Alumni Make
'44 Farm Plans

Professor Ralph D. Benedict, Chairman of the Committee on the Morrisville Farm Project, presented plans for the project this summer, at the meeting last Wednesday, of the "alumni" of the summer of '43.

Professor Benedict stressed the need of additional food production, and the educational adventure Morrisville provides. He stated that he was fairly certain students could count on state subsidies during the first weeks. Dr. Frederick W. Maroney said that he would do all he could in his capacity as Dean of Students to secure college credit for the field work in such a subject as Hygiene.

Dr. Malcolm Galbreath, President of the Morrisville Agricultural and Technological Institute lauded the group as the most successful of the thirty Farm Cadet Victory Corps units in the State.

Movies of the work and play at Morrisville this summer were also shown to the students.

One of the most successful farm projects conducted last summer, Brooklyn college's hundred-odd student-farmers worked and studied for two whole months. They picked peas, beans and carrots, studying a required amount of hours each day to make up the credits for their summer courses.
