ASU Launches Roll Call for Human Rights

By Jane W. Popper
Believing that the progress of American education is indissolubly fused with the fate of American democracy, the American Student Union of the School of Business, at a recent meeting, launched its campaign to add 3,000 names to the Human Rights Roll Call in signatures support of government agencies working to extend democracy.

The national drive to obtain a quarter of a million signatures has already been endorsed by prominent educators, legislators, and civic leaders, calling for a program "to make democracy meet man needs and guarantee human rights." Seven points are set forth:

1. The elimination or illiteracy of the disenfranchisement of students in the United States community.
2. The support of cultural activities accessible to the people.
3. The conservation of human resources through jobs and social insurance.
4. The public provision of medical care for all the people.
5. The universal recognition of the value of educational opportunity.
6. The increased sale of U-books, a large number of which have been sold, and of the Economics department last fall at the SC-TU Forum on curriculum. His suggestion at the meeting was also envisaged a two-year professional School of Business.

For Human Rights

The Freedom and progress of American Education are inseparably linked with American Democracy. Only under democracy can education truly serve the public good. To survive and become the bulwark of a sound economic and social structure, the high schools and universities must have genuine human rights.

The Freedom that makes the universities free is the right to discuss and to decide upon the vital issues of our time. It is the duty of every student and family to participate in the struggle. There is no, and cannot be, a perpetual democracy. It is the task of this generation to enroll this country in the society of the nations.

We are the student council for the M. P. class of 1943, representing the student body of this college. We would like to communicate with the Ticker, which we think is a very good publication, and we would like to answer any questions you might have about the M. P. class.

February 21 was Faster Day, a day where the students of the M. P. class were encouraged to wear black and white. This was done to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the college.

The Student Council, under the leadership of President Walter Abelson, was asked by the administration to keep the college clean. The council is responsible for maintaining the cleanliness of the college and for communicating any suggestions or complaints to the administration.

The council is made up of 15 members, with a president, a vice-president, and 13 regular members. They meet weekly to discuss issues of concern to the students.

The Beaver wrestling squad had a phenomenal season, winning 149 of their 150 matches. They finished the season with a 45-0 record. The team was led by Bill Ryan, who is the only member of the team to have won all four of his matches.

The team's success was due to the hard work and dedication of the players. They practiced every day and were always ready to compete. The team's success also owed much to the support of the fans.
