City Downs Springfield By 4-2 Score
By Dick Goldberg
It wasn't flatter than Frank Tosa, whose number is 30, should win City's fifth baseball game of the season. Last Saturday, Coach Sam Winograd took a chance when he started his highly polished sophomore pitcher, for the second time within a week, but Tosa came through with a beautiful six hit game and paced City to a 4-2 win over Springfield for the title.

The game was excellently played throughout, and was just about the best occasion of baseball seen at Lewishon Stadium for years. The fielding was air-tight, and the pitching beautiful. Tosa struck out seven batters and Schmidt the Springfield hitter, thirteen. Both teams had six hits. There were three extra base blows, two of them by City. Mike O'Rourke came up, with a large hit in the fifth inning when he pulled down a terrific line drive hit which was robbed for a double.

The Beavers will close their successful season this Wednesday when they encounter LIU at Erasmus Field, Brooklyn.

Ticker Request Rejected by SC
Defeating a motion which would have enabled the TICKER to appear in four pages today, the student council of Scopus was defeated a second time, when a motion to fuse to appropriate $25 for the school publication at its meeting was lost.

The Council earmarked $250 for a “student loan” fund. Action on appropriation of the money was postponed until the “loan fund” committee determines whether the use is being made of the income from the $300,000 Wollman estate available for student loans. The councilmen overrode an objection of $350 which would be necessary since the available funds are not being utilized.

A total of $30, payable in 1942, was made to Sigma Alpha and $43 was appropriated for the Student Council. A donation of $25 was made to the student’s committee of “A Midsummer Night’s Dream.”

Altholtz, Tuttle Write In Commercial Teacher
By Al Bader
"Motivation is the most neglected phase of study in the whole field of psychology," states Harold Adalge, instructor of the City College School of Education, in an article, "An Emerging Interpretation of Motive," appearing in the Commercial Teacher, official journal of the Commercial Teacher Society, which came out last week.

Of particular value to all candidates for teaching positions is Nathaniel Altholtz's outline of his address, "Trends in Commercial Teacher Training," which was held before the Education Society, Mr. Altholtz, director of the Commercial Teacher Society, discusses changes in the commercial teacher training program.

Thomas Sees Democracy In Peace

If you can keep America out of war you may save democracy in one country and will build it up. Unless you do this you will not have democracy," said Norman Thomas, speaking before the Youth Committee Against War.

Mr. Thomas attacked the idea that if there is a war it will be a war for democracy and will stop aggression. He went on to state that Britain and France do not function as democracies but rather as empires acting according to national interests. He pointed out, in this respect, Britain's actions in Palestine and the Treaty of Versailles, the injustices of which would only be repeated in the event of another war.

Fascism, said Mr. Thomas, is a form of totalitarianism, and both British and the job for America is to keep out of war and save her domestic problems, he stated.

White Paper Denounced by Speakers at Protest Rally

By Jane W. Popper

Intensification of protest against the British White Paper, a document which it is said will regulate Palestine in a permanent minority basis, was urged by members of the American National Jewish Fund, strongly denounced England's action.

Condemning it as a move to perpetuate Jewish immigration into Palestine, Dean Justin H. Moore, chairman of the White Paper protest meeting held last week in the auditorium, said that the opening speech, traced the history of the Jews, showing how they had always looked upon Palestine as their origin and ultimate homeland. He cited the work of settlers in cultivating the land, in building, and in introducing modern sanitation.

"Let us hope," the dean concluded, "that a great voice of protest will rise all over this great country, which will make Great Britain give back to the Jews in Palestine what anybody with any common sense recognizes as their right."

With only a few minutes to speak, Professor Bernard Ostrog, analyzing a paragraph from the British document to show that there is no economic objection to the admission of Jewish immigrants in Palestine, the grounds upon which Great Britain's paper is based must be political.

In castigating England's action, both Dean Moore and Dr. Goldstein referred to the Munich Pact. Dr. Goldstein said: "There is no gradation in honor: might not be unfair to say that England is more directly England's reponsibility than was Czecho-
