CITY Prepares New Bulletin

In an attempt to form a closer association between the high school and college, students are now at City College. Dean Frank, students receiving a file of the Department of Student Life and Lee Stein, publicity director, have started a bulletin called the "College City College High School Newsm." The bulletin offers many opportunities for student participation, which will be seen by high school students. Students are also encouraged to talk with their former schoolmates who have become well known in their own outstanding achievements.

The bulletin started three months ago, and is edited by the high school students at the Main Center. It is sent to all high schools in the city, and to all students, throughout the city, containing 100,000 students. The high school students are the ones who receive the information in any form that is useful.

To date this service covers only the city students.

Re-Exam Schedule

Names of students scheduled to take re-examinations on March 12, 13, and 14, and also on March 18, 19, and 20, are included in the bulletin. The students are, of course, permitted to retake the examinations at the high schools where they are enrolled.

Birth Of the 'Union'

By Judy Leventhal

This is the story of the birth of "Union," and the people who watched it grow. It begins in 1919 in the heart of Manhattan City College. It is the story of building student government, athletics, and publications. The owners of these pockets complain that they are never free from financial solicitations.

As suggested by Arthur Tafel, Secretary of Student Council, the idea of founding a Student Union was born. And why not the students know the money that their school comes from, and purchase a 'Union' booklet. If they purchase a 'Union' booklet, they will be able to contribute to the fund that supports the school and to help finance the school.

Dupre's Convocation Guest

Introduces First WAC Drive

At the opening convocation of the Spring semester, President Harry N. Wright welcomed the entering and returning students.

Dean Herbert F. Rucke introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Harry N. Wright, Executive Secretary of the WSSF, who described the growth of the Chinese students from the society of China to the interior of the face of the Japanese school, which was based on the idea of organizing "what makes the youth of the nation." The speech was given to the students who were taking a consensus of the student views, the important role of the school, and the role of the school in the future.

Managing Board Elected By Ticker

Boosters Set Dance Date

As part of their membership drive, this semester, the Boosters will hold a Dance next Wednesday from 2 to 6 in 912. Having already elected this term's officers, the group will continue plans which include the purchasing of a novel uniform for the members to be worn at school affairs and games. They will also correspond with City services and utilities to discover their interests. In addition, rallies will be staged and tickets sold to stimulate student interest. The officers this semester are: Eileen Ratner, Vice-President; Dorothy Elliott, Recording Secretary.

Disarmament Movement

The idea is put into effect quickly—and this is the era of student self-government. Dollars pour into the Union at a time, and U-books are here to stay.

What goes up must come down, and this idea of the Union-Cards life is the same. To keep student activity alive and flourishing.

Day session U-Cards made their debut in 1931, by faculty instigation. Since that time, they have been distributed in all other branches of the College. Student activity remains the same, but the Union-Cards life is the same. To keep student activity alive and flourishing.

Continuing its programs of free movies, Student Council will present a motion picture "Target for Tonight" on Thursday, March 12, in the Pauline Edwards Theater.

Also on the program will be three or four Army "Snafu" comedies by WAC plans other campaigns for this semester, the Boosters plan to present a dance in which students will be asked to contribute to the fund that supports the school and to help finance the school.

Future programs will include a dance at the college and a dance at the school. The officers this semester are: Eileen Ratner, Vice-President; Dorothy Elliott, Recording Secretary.

The fiery cross is lit once more on the hills of Virginia, calling all the loyalists; anti-Sagers, and anti-free speech, anti-free press, and anti-president, to gather in a secluded grove, this new group has chosen. America's strongest citadel of democracy, and a haven for all those who love the very things many former students of that college—men and boys are being wounded, but rather its expansion.

Dr. John Pomfret, President of the College of William and Mary, addressed the student body in a typical political speech. The student body, because their editor predicted that this quality would follow as a consequence of two schools. This will be primarily "I miss the students, the personal liberties of which the students would be deprived," he added. The Department of Biology, and the student body. If you can take a hint, students, it will be to "The Class of '49 and the War," and later, "The Class of '50 and the War." These two volumes, which have been long awaited, are anticipated to become bestsellers. Dr. Pomfret's actions, although limited at first to a small group of students, have spread out—and now the student body.

The mountains and deserts of America have been the location of the Flat Hat, but rather it is, explained that the student body.

The only means by which Dr. Pomfret, and the student body, has designed to fill the need of contact with the student body.

To our Dean, we wish to extend our congratulations on the opening of the new college, and we extend our congratulations on the opening of the new college, and we extend our congratulations on the opening of the new college.

Dean Will Celebrate Double Anniversary

By Bevan Cadby

This month, the School of Business has a double barreled celebration on this holiday calendar. Reaching the mid-century mark and the 15th anniversary of his first appearance at this branch of the college, Arthur Edward Ruckes, city manager of the School of Business, modestly reflected on the campus in his special editorial.

"You've been good years," he wrote, "and they've been good years."

The Dean is also the cogent leader of the faculty and the student body. The student body is an integral part of the School of Business. The student body is an integral part of the School of Business.

That's what Ruckes means when he says, "I miss the students, the personal liberties of which the students would be deprived, they, can grow and grow, therefore, although the facts are slightly altered, the opinion as expressed in my editorial remains the same.

Co-op Caters To All Needs

Comfortably propped up on my perch in the Texas office, I finally realized—with a rush of excitement—I could no longer keep the secret any longer. So, I bounded down to the main lobby and proceeded to stand on the usual fire-week line outside the College Store. After a "short wait," I wended my way into the store and found my old friend Mollie busy as a proverbial bee, serving the students in her cheerful, jolly manner. "My ring, come in, Mollie?" "My ring? Oh, dear, no!" "Oh, my ring, Mollie?" "Oh, my ring?"

And then, in the mad rush, hurry, pushing and bustling, Mollie went on her usual way, always in good spirits, helping Frosh and Senior alike, professors and instructors, her shred of partiality in her manner. Servicemen, former City Students back from the war, are always popping in to say "Hello" to the smiling countenance they knew so well in their undergrad days. Mollie is as familiar a landmark in the life of Washington himself. And for the benefit of you, gentlemen, B. B. Beiser won't hesitate to introduce you to Mollie Grossman, a few feet of grins, good humor, helpful service and a winning personality. Mollie's the lady you tell your boy friends about. And when a secret is to be told, Molly's the Valentine of the "boys"—the Hydraulic Department.

U-Cards Buy Life For City

If U-Card sales are unsuccessful, The Tickler will no longer be published. Intramural contests will no longer be held, Friday afternoon dances will be curtailed, and Student Council will no longer have a voice in the college government. These and many other such student activities are supported by the funds raised by the sale of U-Cards.

Rita Spiegel, Chairman of the U-Card Committee, explains that the 30 cent price increase was insisted upon in anticipation of expanding the scope of student activities in the future. For example, an additional allocation of funds would enable The Tickler to appear weekly, a variety of clubs would be added to the extra-curricular activities, and the Intramural Board would schedule contests in every sport. The term's agenda would also include the customary boat ride, an assortment of free movies, and perhaps Saturday night dances.

The proportionate distribution of the money raised as a result of U-Card sales will be the same as in previous semesters. Fifty per cent of the funds are to be allocated to the Tickler, thirty per cent to Student Council activities and twenty per cent to the Intramural Board.

Despite the rise in the price of U-Cards, it is expected that the volume of sales will exceed the mark of last term. In this way the extra-curricular activity fund will be increased, the ambition of Student Council to create new activities, and to enlarge the older institutions.
