Freshman Registration Increases Downtown

By Lillian Abadi

Registration at the Business Center is back to normal. With the departure of the ASTP, engineering and science students of the class of '48 have returned to the Main Center. Even with the wholesale migration uptown, registration figures remain reassuringly good, according to the Registrar's office.

However, the total number of students attending the Business Center, 1200, are old students, and 600 are freshmen. This is an increase of about 100 freshmen from last year. These statistics, 250 men, 370 are women.

The greatest change is the increase in the number of education students. About 100 of the 1500 added in Education, a 40% increase over last year's registration figures, are enrolled in the School of Business and Civic Administration. This is an increase of about 25% over last year's figures.

As the upperclassmen, the same trend can be seen. About 4000 students are registered in R.I. this year. This is an increase of about 1000 students over last year and an indication that this semester alone, there are 4000 students registered in R.I.

Hillel Greets New Students

As the Hillel Foundation at downtown College starts its second term, Hillelites are confident of an enthusiastic student membership. The Hillel Foundation is non-denominational, and aims to support the Jewish student, a knowledge of his traditions, and in providing fellowship among students of the Jewish faith.

The newly elected president, Leo F. M. S. Moore, announced that the organization is planning to increase its membership, and that it will be recruiting members throughout the fall.

To New Freshmen

As you now enter upon your college career as freshmen you are beginning the second twenty-five year period of your life. The students of 1949, four years hence, the City College will be starting on the second century of its existence.

Yours, therefore, is no ordinary class, but one of especial historical significance. We are proud to welcome you, the product of the ‘49 class, into the second twenty-five year period of our history. As freshmen, you are entering a period of your life that will be one of the most outstanding that has ever attended our beloved institution.

By coming to the City College you are, in reality, asking for the privilege of receiving knowledge. You have departed from those halls of learning, indebted inscribed their names on the rolls of history. You are about to take up the challenge, whatever future your make of your educational training will be determined by your self-discipline, perseverance, and expenditure of energy. The College will give you the opportunity of making a stepping stone into life's adventures.

We can only caution you, at this time, that the standard of excellence which you yourselves have attained is exceptionally high, and that understanding of this goal is long and tedious and beset with many pitfalls.

That year you spend will pass too quickly. During that time you will not find too many devoirs to divert you from your path, that you are in-structured to make the College to everything it hoped it would be. The best of luck to all of you.

Cordially,

Herbert Rosens, Chairman
National Life Assurance
Harry L. Kutchesman

Historical Report Celebrates School's Silver Anniversary

A challenge to the people of New York to keep the City College in pace with the great strides of progress was presented recently by Dr. Herbert Rosens, Chairman of the Administrative Committee at the School of Business, in a speech during the emergence of the School of Business a separate entity a quarter-century ago.

Opening with an inclusive history of the School, the report follows the development of the curriculum, concluding in the problem of the future. Below, for the benefit of the new freshman class, we are printing portions of the history of the School, along with the conclusion of the report.

Assembly Will Welcome New City Students

Following the custom set in past terms, Dr. Herbert Rosens, Chairman of the Committee on Admissions, will be the feature speaker.

In order to allow adequate time for the convocation, class periods have been shortened for part of the day. The schedule is as follows:

- 9 o'clock class: 8:30 to 9:30
- 10 o'clock class: 9:45 to 10:30
- 11 o'clock class: 10:15 to 11:00
- 12 o'clock class: 11:20 to 12:05

After two o'clock, classes will remain on a normal schedule.

Dr. Rosens Rosens has requested that all freshmen sit in the special sections reserved for them, in the School of Business Center.

School Activities Depend Upon 'U'

City College faces a drastic curtailment of student activities unless U-Card sales exceed the quota set by the U-Card committee. However, Dr. Hillel, chairman of the committee.

The Ticker, Student Council, Intramural Board, the SC Friday Office, student activities, and intramural games, it means electing a Ticker every week, it means electing a school, it means reading. The mind of each Professor whirls this type of student activity.

Set Aside Oct. 7 For HP Special

Politics, buying, the chinning of Night Plans invite all students to the Rocker's "coincidental dance" on October 7. Those who do not want to go, and look for chinning, ping-pong, pool, and lunch-room facilities as well as a sparsely decorated, famous as one of the most beautiful rooms of its kind in the College.

Plants, already being made for the term's highlight events, include the Rocker's, the Rockefeller Park of Greenwich Village, a swimming pool, and the School of Business light aleaghrfide. Mrs. Beatrice Kips, Director of House Plan, is planning the Rocker's activity for this year. She feels, however, that the Rocker's will be important, and that is to help each student develop the competence and poise acquired only by participation in such varied functions.

At 25 E 22 St Hoase Plan opens September 20 and welcomes visitors. Membership fee is one dollar per semester.

Tisk! Tisk!

Tune: A Tisket, A Tasket

To College, to College

The mind of each Professor whirls

Each lad and lass, to form the class

Of Forty-eight, At College, At College

This freshman class—Oh, these are high things

And the mind of each Professor whirls

As he beholds such pretty girls;

Drums go along with beauty, too

At College, at College

The School of Business welcomes this

At good old City College,

The Class of Forty-eight.

... And The Truth Shall Make You Free!

By Judy Lovenst

There are things that are too much for words to express. The mind, the heart, the soul, the body, the spirit, all are in harmony. The truth is there. The love is there. The beauty is there. The peace is there. And the silence... the silence is there.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.

The world is a stage, and we are all players. The truth is the light of the world. The truth is the sun. The truth is the fire. The truth is the love. The truth is the peace. The truth is the silence.
School's Future Bright

an inadequate physical plant. There is a crying need for a new building which will be much more spacious than our present one and which will be intelligently planned by the staff of the professional departments that are to work in it. In this new building there will be no shortage of proper laboratory space and equipment for courses in cost accounting, auditing, management, merchandising, office practice, business machines, advertising, industrial art, etc., besides accommodations for the sciences, and instruction in these subjects will be conducted on the laboratory basis. Dark rooms, film libraries, collections of lantern slides and photographs will provide for the proper growth of our visual aids program. Small as well as large lecture rooms will permit the school to offer its facilities to outside business houses for purposes of conferences, consultations, and conventions.

In association with the already planned Institute, proposed by the State Board of Regents, the School of Business will be prepared to conduct its professional educational program all the way from a Junior College stage to that of graduate level. Students graduating from the Institute will probably receive a certificate or diploma of proficiency in the semi-professional business field. Undoubtedly, some of these graduates will be satisfied and interested to proceed with two years of study to achieve the baccalaureate degree; a few, indeed may find it possible to continue for post graduate work...

...In the meantime, our own school will probably continue for a time its regular four year pattern of instruction, while our sister institutions will undoubtedly furnish us with a continually greater supply of students to take up professional business training at the beginning of their Junior year. We can envisage greater attention being paid to graduate study and toward that end plans for perfection of our graduate course will soon be undereway.

While adult education has come into some prominence during the past four or five years a much greater expansion in this area will ensue within the next decade, as will also instruction in dictative education.

As we look to the future we present a challenge to the people of the City of New York, much as the founders did a century ago. We of the School of Business and Civic Administration feel that the unique values of our role in free higher education is yet to manifest itself. How important a part we are to play in the development of business and industry and in civic service of this city is not alone to be determined. The city government and the business community are equally involved in determining our life, growth and well being. It is they, primarily, who will point out the paths we are to take, to guide us when we are wrong and to acclaim us for our future achievements.
