New Registration Plan Eliminates Confusion, Delay

To alleviate the registration problem and to eliminate confusion, a new plan will be formulated to extend the registration period from five to ten days. This innovation, however, would necessitate the extension of the upperclassmen's seminar in order to account for the days lost from the Fall and Spring terms.

Students may submit their qualifications on this basis in a letter to the Student Council. Some arguments against this plan include the shortening of the summer vacation, the possibility of losing a position because of an extended semester and the employment competition for students of other colleges. Therefore, it is decided that whether the advantages derived from this plan would overcome the disadvantages.

To avoid confusion in the schedule of recitations, classes meeting the same hour in a series of semesters will be listed directly under the initial class, e.g., Accounting II, but may be found under the B section of the schedule.

The possibility of having a preliminary registration in the student association's office is an idea that was presented by the Student Council Registration Committee. This committee has decided to submit this proposal for consideration by the entire student body.

It's important that you understand that I am not going to enlighten you. I think I'll be nice about it and let you know what happened during this interview that I had with your beautiful Canadian Elkstein Holker, who is almost as pretty as BW.

She is a model who came down from the beautiful city of Toronto, to meet with the Press to talk about the potential of the Canadian fashion industry. She mentioned that one of the challenges faced by Canadian fashion designers is the limited access to international markets. However, she expressed optimism about the future, saying that the industry is growing and there are more opportunities for Canadian designers to showcase their talents.

Holker also spoke about her personal experiences as a model, mentioning that she started her career in Canada and only later moved to the United States. She emphasized the importance of networking and building relationships in the fashion industry. She shared some tips on how to succeed as a model, including the importance of maintaining a healthy lifestyle and having good people skills.

When I asked her about her favorite fashion trends, she said that she is particularly interested in sustainable fashion and ethical practices in the industry. She expressed concern about fast fashion and the environmental impact of the industry, and she encouraged her followers to support brands that prioritize sustainability.

Overall, Holker was very approachable and enthusiastic about her work, and she left the audience with some valuable insights into the world of fashion. I hope that this interview will inspire more Canadians to pursue careers in fashion and support the local industry.
Workshop Players Present Pageant; Rhythm, Drama, Orations Featured

City College, home of the progressive and ingenious, is now turning out some extraordinary human guinea pigs. In the only Language Workshop of its kind, the City College workshop is replete with musical training, a leavening of drama, orations and a patient practice of Spanish pronunciation. The result is the product of a true education.

This progressive and almost revolutionary method of education has been initiated at City by Senior Oresto Voltan, who has at his base the profound philosophy and singular interest in students work that develops in many of the college courses taught throughout the country. The Spanish classes of Senior Voltan cover a much larger area of knowledge of Spanish. The prime interest of the Workshop is to get its participants the cultural background of the language and to make it an asset, to be able to achieve the highest levels in language learning, using Spanish as a medium. The Workshop Players for this semester are a group, which while learning and understanding, are also playing. The Workshop Players are a combination of writers, producers, directors and actors, and as such they give more than just a social function. The Workshop Players are a medium through which students can experience achievement in any other language course, by being a Spanish speaker on a matter of international importance. This term's Workshop Players is a unique opportunity not only to be beneficial to the student community, but also to the invaluable experience of adult life.

Registration Plan
This registration plan would permit students who must take certain courses to have their program approved in the Spring, and would eliminate formal registration for them.

Veterans are now striving to initiate a policy which would permit them to register before their respective classes. Arguments on this issue are as follows:

1. Veterans are urged to have Army credits evaluated prior to registration to permit these credits to be used at any time they wish to take these courses.

2. Veterans are urged to have their complete college program evaluated and approved by the registrar.

3. Veterans are urged to have their complete college program evaluated and approved by the registrar. This evaluation shall be done with the assistance of the Registrar, personally, for such students.

4. Veterans are urged to have their complete college program evaluated and approved by the registrar. The evaluation shall be done with the assistance of the Registrar, personally, for such students.

Vets are urged to have their Army credits evaluated prior to registration to permit these credits to be used at any time they wish to take these courses.
