Dispute Over Council Elections Issue
Leads to Temporary Ticker Banning

At the Student Council meeting, the question of whether the Ticker members of the 1962-63 Societies Committee were entitled to additional time at the Council to discuss the new interpretation of the rules was debated at length. The Council, after a long session Friday morning, decided to temper its decision by a vote of 17 to 9. This decision followed a procedure that started Thursday afternoon when the problem of strict adherence to the election rules tempered with mercy was discussed. It was then decided that a meeting of the Committee would be held at 8 Friday afternoon to decide whether the candidates already disqualified were considered under a heads of suspicion rule from campaigning rather than under the previous ruling of outright disqualification. At the meeting the recommendation was made that the new interpretation be passed, and the candidates, prevailing, virtually drafting a new ballot but prohibited from further campaigning.

In a surprising turn of events, a limited protest to the automobile hazard on Convent Avenue by the Uptown Students Council, directed into a 90-minute session Thursday at the 35th floor council room, failed to produce anything of substance. A 90-minute session was requested by the members of the Student Association to bring a special bill to the Assembly, but the action did not produce anything of use to the members of the class who will cast their votes on the ballot.

Those students who do not have a class during the election hour will be permitted to cast one vote as a special bonus on the ninth floor. To prevent persons from voting more than once, those casting their ballots at the ninth floor booth will be required to show proper identification.

The candidates for the office of President of Student Council are Norman Darer, ex-Gatekeeper, candidate for Upper '55 and Jesse Weiss, is the opposing candidate.

There will be no contest for the position of Recording Secretary as Sue Ardizzone is running unopposed, and there will be a hard-fought battle for Corresponding Secretary with Jerry D'Antonio and George Moskowitz vying.

The majority of elections for class officers and Student Council representatives are hotly contested. This term, a total of 90 people are running for office, but despite this large field, no applications have been received for Secretary and Treasurer of Upper '55. There also haven't been any applications received for Graduate representative.

Laertes to the eunuch, "There was no such thing as printer's tolerance, in 'STZ, but printer's tolerance'—what they called a certain error in the type, at times a 'square inch. However, they weren't non-entities 'big-shots.' They figured that .0755 wasn't too small. 'The point was,' they said, "It was a question of order, allowing Darer and Giordano to continue selling posters to no more than 15x22. These rules were brought up later in the evening that SC should be allowed to run for the Student Council and Giordano supporters seated on it, managed to fall for the Committee's bluff and upheld it. Council approved, this compromised isolation and allowed Darer and Giordano to continue campaigning only and not from the election. That there should be disqualifications from campaigning for a member of the Committee campaigning for a particular candidate. The only thing that can be said is that a motion to myself—what will the cold, cruel world be like? One of the things about being a student leader is the necessity of working with people, and that the office—be it in a student council or a political party—exists to serve the people."

Giving another exhibition of disorganized play, the City College lacrosse team again went down to defeat at the hands of the Army Cadets 18-3 at West Point, Saturday. The Beavers finished with an .667 mark, while the Cadets won all five of their matches.

For the first period of the game, City made it a battle. Leo Gotthi began the scoring after nine minutes with a goal for the Lavender. However, two quick Army goals, one in the second quarter, made it a 2-1 game. In the second half, the West Pointers scored six times to take every semblance of a contest that might have existed. Arnie Levinson scored four times through City's backfire late in the quarter to make the score 8-2 at haltime.

In the second half, the Cadets continued to pour it on, opening with two quick goals. Leon Reig then continued with the Lavender's last score of the day, to make it 18-3. In the final quarter, a Cadet substitute, Gene Wirth, notched three goals in a row, which widened base ball attack on the Lavender nets.
