Labor Leader to Talk On Workers' Prospects At Economics Meeting

The Economics Society will feature noted labor leader Solomon Barkin at its meeting, Thursday at 12:30 in 1014. He will speak on "Prospects for Labor in a Republican Era." Barkin became assistant director of research for the New York State Commission on Old Age Security in 1929.

Enoch Light Signed
As Prom Performer

The Enoch Light Brigade, an eight piece band featuring a male vocalist, has been signed to provide the dance music for the second School-Wide Prom, to be held at the Carnival Room of the Hotel Capital, Saturday, April 18. Tickets for the prom, a semi-formal affair, will cost $3 per couple. Pledge cards are now on sale at the Student Center, and students will have the chance to purchase Enoch Light’s album, which has been heard at the Hotel Taft and various College affairs in the past, performed at last year’s prom.

The highlight of the evening, a "Queen of the Prom," and six attendants will be named. Pledges are necessary for all the ladies will be given away at the Prom.

The Hornstrings were suspended two weeks ago because they lacked insurance for accidents which might occur on their trips. The FCMA may remove their charter, reissue the group, or continue the suspension pending further investigation. At the SC meeting, Friday, it was announced that this week's film would be "On the Riviera," starring Danny Kaye. It will be shown Thursday, from 12:45, in 485.

The SC Curricula and Registration Committee presented its suggested schedule for the semester. The following investigations were proposed: To study the possibility of starting final examinations at 9 in the morning; to hold ref. examinations earlier in the semester, to install a home economics course in the curriculum.

Gallagher Heads List
At Hoop Rally Today

All star-studded and elevators will lead to PET at 1 this afternoon where President Buell Gallagher will highlight a gala program of sports celebrities at the annual "Beat NYU Rally." A mob of Lavender-blooded rooters is expected to view the proceedings with the express purpose of spurring the eager Beaver eagers on to a routing victory over the force.

In addition to President Gallagher, who will be attending his first "Beat NYU" Rally, other well-known figures of the sporting world will add to the festivities. These include Bud Palmer, former captain of the New York Knickerbockers and now one of the top sportscasters in the business; Max Zaslowfky, one of the present stars of the media; and the "Allegator Kid himself—Sid Freedlander, the New York Post's outstanding sports writers.

The walls of PET are expected to wrack and tremble to their varied renditions in Walt Nachtigal’s song. Theisted leaders lead aroused Cityites in bolsterous support of this great event—victory over NYU.

Dean Thomas L. Norton will naturally be on hand to lend his talents as comptetator of the protagonist of CCNY athletics events; City-NYU basketball games being a specialty. The Dean is expected to outline in precise detail, the manner in which the triumph will be accomplished.

Music for many of City College’s most popular songs will be provided by J. Bailey Harvey, who along with the all the Rally will be emceed by Bert Galifano of CCSO and chief cheerleader.

The Rally will be dimmed, of course, by the introduction of Beaver mentor Dave Polansky, concluding his first year as coach.

Polansky will then introduce the players of the team that will attempt to cap a thus far successful season with a big victory tomorrow night.

That's the picture. Allegaro!

Retailers' Study Tour Applications Available

Applications for the seven week study tour to Europe, sponsored by the retailing department, will be accepted until March 30. They should be submitted to Mrs. Lillian F. W. Bus, secretary to the chairman of the tour, at 281 Administration.

The itinerary of the trip has been altered to include a visit to Milan's textile mills, Grasse, the perfume center of France, and to spend two days in Nice. This is in addition to stops in London, Lyon, Rome, Florence, Lucerne and ten days in Paris.

The group will be in Paris by July 14, which is Bastille Day, one of the most exciting days of the year in France.

The cost, $1,750 for matriculating students, and $835 for non-matriculating students to graduate students, includes: a $500 accident insurance policy; all transportation, including sightseeing tours, guides, buses, and entrance fees; registration fees; reservations in second class hotels, two in a room; all meals while traveling, and when on all day tours; two meals, breakfast and dinner, at all other times, except when in London and Paris, when only breakfast will be included. All gratuities to hotel servants, service charges, except in Great Britain, and state and local sales taxes are included in the cost.

An all tourist class boat, the Cunard Line's SS Georgica, will leave on June 24 and arrive in Southampton nine days later. Most of the other people aboard will be graduate students from various colleges.

Four subjects credits, equivalent to 717 and 317, will be given to the traveling students. They will be able to study the methods of design houses, textile mills, handcraft centers, buying firms and retail stores.

Camera Club Sets Contest

The Camera Club will hold a Print Contest Thursday, at 12:30 in 1311. Following the contest, instruction in the use of various darkroom equipment will be given.

Models will be present at the club's studio session Friday evening, March 6. The exact room and time will be set at the club's ninth floor bulletin board.

All students interested in joining the club should contact Bob Lavinger, President, or come to the club's meeting, Thursday.

SA to Offer Free Skating

Sigma Alpha is currently working on a program that will affect college skating in Hansen Hall.

Thirty pairs of rubber-wheeled skates will be available for use, free of charge. Purchase of the skates was made possible by a grant from the Regents department and from proceeds of the 1951 Flower-Sale.

Students interested in participating in the program should leave their names in 921 or with the highway department.
Plutonium Isotope Isolated With Aid of Chemistry Prof

With terms like atomic fission, 235 U, psi, tons and the like forming in your head about this atom bomb business, it is apparent that the average man in the street is slow in catching on about what little it costs to purchase and use. One doesn't have to be any more of a chemist than a layman to see how he can be used and where he can be used. Apparently the chemistry of this age has arrived to the point where almost any man in the street can become a scientist by the mere addition of atoms to his knowledge. For example, the so-called atomic bomb is just a matter of chemical reactions. Absolutely true. Absolutely true. Absolutely true. Absolutely true. Absolutely true.

So with little ado here are a few interesting job with it. Remember the following, so I won't have to repeat them:

1. Amazing fission integral wisdom by Dr. Andrew W. Blackwood

Dr. Blackwood specializes in a field of nuclear physics, and he is the author of many articles on this topic. He has been quoted extensively in both scholarly and popular journals, and his insights into the nature of the atomic bomb have been widely influential. His work on the development of the atomic bomb was instrumental in the creation of the Manhattan Project, and he has played a key role in the development of the nuclear energy industry in the United States.

Health Statistics To Address Society

Dr. R. A. Snider, a public-health statistician, will speak on "Statistical Public Health," which will concern the economic and social aspects of public-health matters in the United States.

In addition to serving as an economic and social scientist, Dr. Snider is also a well-known public-health statistician. He has published extensively on the topic of statistical public health, and his work has been influential in the field. His presentation will focus on the economic and social aspects of public-health matters in the United States, and he will discuss the role of public-health statistics in addressing these issues.
Cagers to Meet NYU Tomorrow
Last-Half Surge Tops B'klyn, 61-57

Clash at Heights Gym
Marks 38th in Series

In the comparative oblivion of the NYU gymnasium, one of the most fiercely-contested basketball games in the intercollegiate world sprouted from the moth-balled tomorrow evening at 8:30 for its traditional annual string when City College takes on NYU in the season's finale.

Always an immensely popular contest, the clash may now check the glowing and hallibut of Madison Square Garden, but it still retains its glitter as the most important game on the Beaver slate.

As is typical with intensity encounters, and especially when NYU affairs, season's records can be virtually ignored. The intercollegiate series has been studied with upsets, and the closeness of the rivalry is aptly illustrated by the fact that NYU holds a slim 19-18 edge in the competition.

Other team is of tournament caliber this year. The Violets have had a particularly rough season, sporting a poor 7-5 record to date, while the Beavers, on the other hand, has had a fairly successful campaign with a 10-5 record. NYU, however, has been playing many of the top teams in the nation, while the Beaver has accumulated its record against opposition of a much poorer caliber.

The fray will be highlighted by the duel for scoring honors between two former high school teammates, City's Jerry Domershick and NYU's Burt Nautham-Hur, both of whom are the nation's top scorers. Despite Nautham-Hur's地铁 atop 400 points this season for a new Violet scoring record, he will be the Beavers' main goal.

The contest will also feature an interesting "Battle of the Tanks" between a pair of rugged rebounders, City's "Streamlined Tank," 6-4 Mark Stover, who is the leader in boards, and NYU's "Little Tank," 5-11 Tom DeLeuw, who scored 15 points. The latter trio, particularly proficient in outside (Continued on pape 2)
