A mock meeting of the Board of Higher Education and talk by the Special Programs college presidents served Saturday to introduce "Panorama," a series of 26 educational television programs by City, Brooklyn, Queens and Hunter Colleges, New York City.

City College's first program, dealing with a student's search for an understanding of the meaning and purpose of a free college education, was presented Saturday at 5 over WABD.

"Why Liberal Education?", the title of the telecast, will explore the reasons for feeling among students and parents that a liberal arts education is of little value in today's world of specialization.

Discussing the problem will be Martin Stevens, the student; Professor Arthur Veishner of the history department; Professor Arthur Nelson of the English department; and Professor Mark Zemansky of the physics department.

On the opening program, Joseph B. Cavallaro, chairman of the BHE, stressed that it is the responsibility of the Board of Higher Education and the colleges to educate the student and the public on the educational basis, and that no attempt will be made to give classroom instruction.

President Gallagher then explained the role of City College and said that if the Board of Higher Education should decide to give this program, the colleges will participate, he said. The history department will explain the political background, the economics department.

The trial, hearing charges against Sand and suspended coach Nat Holman, will resume today at noon; as a number of present and former CCNY basketball players took the stand as character witnesses in his behalf.

The induction dinner for the athletes will take place Friday.

Rumors Unheeded, Thornton Testifies

The defense of suspended assistant basketball coach Bobby Sand moved toward a swift climax yesterday afternoon, as a number of present and former CCNY basketball players took the stand as character witnesses in his behalf.

Proposed Athletic Levy For 'Expenses' Rejected

A proposal to assess 10 cents per ticket at all athletic events in order to pay for the student athletic fee for the current semester. The Student Athlete Advisory Committee, at two meetings, had protested the move, claiming that the athletic fee was specifically for athletic use, and that this assessment would place an unfair burden on the student program.

After full discussion by the Review Committee at his request, the Budget Committee agreed that no change from previous practice would be made and that the full amount of funds collected for athletics would be continued in the budget as such. This discussion also led to the decision to continue this safe principle for the student activity fee.

While it is true, he continued, "that interested parties had already been notified that this matter was to be considered, no action had been taken. The item is on the agenda of a meeting already scheduled. This is part of the regular administrative procedure by which College policies are determined."

Student Tax Now Available For Truman's Alumni Talk

Tickets for the speaking program of the Alumni Association's annual dinner, to be held Tuesday evening, November 19, in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Commodore, are available now at Alumni House, 120 Convent Avenue. The program features the Honorable Harry S. Truman, who will deliver a major address on civil rights.

Priced at $1.50 per person, one hundred student tickets have been made available. Dancing will follow the speaking program, scheduled to begin at 8:45.
WUS Information Program Scheduled Here Next Month

The Baruch School will join with the Middle Atlantic unit of World University Service to present here next month a WUS Information program for all College of Business Administration students.

This was decided Thursday at a preliminary gathering of about 20 schools at the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

A Student Council Committee has been formed to organize the program for the co-operation of the various student staff. Three objectives of the Information Program—good news to make WUS a persuasive aid in student undertakings, and the better use of money being done by WUS, and the help of student staff in creating useful fundraising activities—will be met.

Roby R. Grosh of Wisconsin, chairman of the national Student Council Committee, said that it is a "student responsibility to make the WUS a plus instead of a minus in student life as it is in many schools."

A number of $11,000 has been contributed by newspapers to WUS by students. "This money which is contributed is to be used to support projects, and to support educational and research projects, to maintain health, educational equipment, and international operations," Grosh said.

The Baruch Student Council, in charge of the project, will decide how to use the money.

Rochman, Gittelman Named For 'Kiss Me Kate' Leads

Poul Rochman and Phil Gittelman have been named to play the leading roles in the Baruch production of "Kiss Me Kate," which will be presented this month. Rochman, a member of the College of Business Administration, and Gittelman, a member of the College of Liberal Arts, were selected from a field of over 300 who auditioned for parts.

The production, written by Kenyon and Robert Betty, will be directed by Professor Buell G. Gallagher, chairman of the Business Administration Department.

"Kiss Me Kate" is the story of a Broadway musical comedy, "The Dolly," which has been brought back to the stage after a long run in New York. The play centers around the stage rivalries between the two leading ladies in the company, who are both considered to be the world's biggest stars.

The Baruch School is one of the few college productions of "Kiss Me Kate" in the country, and is the only one being produced at a Baruch College.

On the other theatrical front, the Baruch Student Theater will present "The Secret Garden," a play about the adventures of a young girl who discovers a hidden garden in the English countryside.

The play will be directed by Professor Buell G. Gallagher, and will be presented in the Baruch Theater on February 22.
Gold Elected President in Freshman Balloting

Michael Gold has been elected president of the Class of 1958, it was announced today by Student Council.

Gold, a political science major, defeated three other candidates, who included Robert Gordon, a business major, Charles M. Inman, a chemistry major, and William Trotter, a sociology major.

In a previous poll, Gold had won by a narrow margin, but the final vote was close.

Gold, who is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, plans to focus on increasing student involvement in campus activities and improving the quality of student life.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Glad to see that the spirit of the students is being stimulated by the new administration. However, I would like to express some concern about the recent decision to cut back on the number of faculty positions.

Also, I would like to suggest that the administration consider the possibility of hiring more part-time faculty members to help reduce costs.

Sincerely,
[Name]

The position of Arts and Sciences has also been discussed in the recent student council meeting.

The recent vote to eliminate the position of Arts and Sciences has sparked a lot of discussion on campus.

As a member of the Arts and Sciences community, I would like to express my concern about this decision.

I believe that the Arts and Sciences department plays a crucial role in the education of our students.

In addition, I would like to suggest that the administration consider the possibility of hiring more part-time faculty members to help reduce costs.

Sincerely,
[Name]
Lavender Mat Coach Boasts Strong Squad

Despite the fact that his players are faced with one of the most difficult tasks in college football, Dr. H. W. Hargrave, senior member of the Conference, is optimistic regarding his team's ability to cope with the challenges of the upcoming season.

The squad's most notable characteristic is its depth, which is expected to be a deciding factor in the team's success. The coach believes that his team's strength lies in its ability to field a talented squad that is capable of adapting to various situations.

Dr. Hargrave also emphasizes the importance of training and discipline, which he feels are essential for a successful season. He is confident that his team will be able to perform at a high level, and he is optimistic about the prospects for the season.

The coach's optimism is based on the team's strong record in recent years, which has earned it a reputation as one of the strongest in the conference. With the addition of several talented players, the team is expected to continue its winning streak.

The coach's confidence is also bolstered by the team's ability to play well under pressure, which is expected to be a deciding factor in the team's success. With the team's depth and talent, Dr. Hargrave is optimistic about the prospects for the season.
Boots Top Queens; Bow to Brooklyn, 1-0

Coach George "Red" Wolfe's depleted City College soccer forces showed plenty of power as they completely dominated play in Saturday's Queens fray, but lost a 1-0 heartbreaker. I.B.L. Monday, suffering their first loss of the season and their first Conference setback in three years. Both contests were played at Lewisohn Stadium.

Despite the Beavers' fine play in the Queens contest, it took a goal by a seldom-used-university player to deliver the victory, 1-0.

As an aftermath of the rough match, Monday, the Beavers were forced to face the Rainbow attack without two of their top scorers, John Koutsantanou and Bill Saile. The two forwards incurred injuries that will keep them out for the rest of the season.

The Megamen suffered an additional loss Saturday, when the learned that All-State forward Gus Nasterio will be unable to play for the remainder of the season because of personal reasons.

City had several opportunities to dent the twain early in the Queens tilt, but none of them materialized until 1:43 of the second quarter, when Lotter scored his goal on a pass from outside left, Andy Kovacs.

With Captain Lubin Des bourn playing another fine game on defense, Brooklyn was unable to thwart any Queens attempt to score. Meanwhile, the Beavers continually moved the ball toward the visitor's goal. However, they failed to do any further scoring because of the play of Queens goalie Hal Shaeffers.

When a performer incurs an injury during one period, he is ruled out of the game for the rest of the contest. Consequently, the Queens team was down to two forwards below regulation strength during the game.

Rumors Unleashed...

climbing that there was "no legal evidence," and that the move "would not be to the best interest of the College."

The following Saturday, the never-ceasing travelers make their longest jaunt of the year when they travel to Easton, Pennsylvania, to watch the City basketballers tangle with the Lafayette Leopards. Tickets for the Lafayette trip, although admissable at the game, are $4 per person.

Trees or additional information may be obtained by seeing Club president Herb Napier in the TICKER office any afternoon from 1:20-3, or by calling Frank "Doc" Thornton, the 45ers' faculty adviser, at 1 in 1007 A.

In past years, the 45 Club has traveled to such distant points as Boston, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Chicago to watch Beavers' basketball games as well. This year, the organisation made two trips, both to the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York.

Plans are also being formulated for additional trips to be made during the basketball season. Separate trip arrangements are being made for additional junkets in the spring semester.

Mend Those Muscles!

Fund Aids Injured Athletes

When an athlete takes the field there is always the danger that he may suffer an injury of minor or possibly major proportions. When a performer incurs an injury at the majority of schools he receives the best of medical care, expense free. However, do you know how much financial aid a City College athlete is entitled to receive?

To be brutally frank, he isn't entitled to a single penny. Before a man can take part in any sport at City, he must sign waivers releasing the school from any of his employees from any responsibility for his well being. It isn't that for a graduate of the class of '58, the situation would have been a very sad one. Dr. Sidney Stein, the aforementioned alumnus, gave his services gratuitously to all injured athletes right up to the term of his death in 1959. One can say that somewhat, since Dr. Stein died while sitting on the City bench at a football game.

In honor of this very loyal graduate, a fund to benefit injured athletes was founded at the school in 1940. The Stein Fund has been in existence ever since that date and has donea stellar job in following the fine standard set by the benevolent doctor. The function of the fund is to provide financial aid for medical expenses that may arise because of the mishap incurred.

It has become the custom for the receipts obtained from the first basketball game of each season to go to the Fund. This year, the Beaver five takes the court against the Coast on November 15 at 8 p.m. at the Armory at the 5:15 p.m.

Tickets for the tilt will be sold at a dollar apiece. All the receipts from the admission plus the profits from the sale of programs will go directly to the Stein Fund.
