Communism, Apathy Cited by Cavallaro As Prime Dangers

Speaking from the steps of the Sub-Treasury Building on Wall Street, Dr. Joseph B. Cavallaro, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education, said the gathering of the grave dangers confronting our Constitution

The educator, who was presented with a gold medal for his work by the New York Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, spoke of the need for a return to "fundamental ideas . . . which were set forth in the Declaration of Independence and which guided the makers of our Constitution a century ago."

"There are," according to Dr. Cavallaro, "two dangers confronting our Constitution. The first is the towering threat of International Communism; the second is the indifference or apathy of our own citizens to this menace of atheistic Communism."

His audience, which included faculty and student members of the university faculty and the New York City Council said, "We shall conquer the world not with atomic bombs but with our brains, and our doctrine."

Dr. Cavallaro maintained that, "in this storm-tossed world . . . we must know what we stand for and what we oppose. Perhaps more than anything else we need a sense of direction—a chart to prevent us from drifting and refitting in world affairs depends upon the intelligent perception of our citizens."

What the American heritage cannot be protected by armed might, but that it must be safeguarded from the forces of the people of their rights and freedoms.

Armed with the sense of appreciation for service and successfully resist the encroachments of International Communism.

School Officers Need 'C' Marks

Any student now holding office or committee chairman must have maintained his 'C' average in order to remain in his position.

Anyone elected to office last semester who has failed to meet minimum academic standards as determined by the University, or has been expelled for any reason will be removed from office.

The Faculty Committee on Student Services, in determining the eligibility of a candidate for office, will be guided by the standards of the University and the regulations of the International Fraternity,

In order for a student to hold a position as president or secretary of the organization, he must have maintained a 'C' average or better in order to be considered for the position.

A representative democracy such as ours depends for its success upon a continuously informed body of leaders and educated public opinion, which is educated only by the standards of a right and free country.

Student Draft Status Remains Unchanged

By Dr. Arthur Taft, Director of Armed Services

The Selective Service Act will have no appreciable effect on the status of the male student for the current academic year. The Department of Defense has not raised its draft quota and for the next few months it will remain at 25,000 for the entire country.

Student Draft Status Remains Unchanged

By Dr. Arthur Taft, Director of Armed Services

The Selective Service Act will have no appreciable effect on the status of the male student for the current academic year. The Department of Defense has not raised its draft quota and for the next few months it will remain at 25,000 for the entire country. When this is apportioned among the various draft boards the quota will be lower so that the average college student will be able to continue with his studies.

Deferments subsequent to the first statutory one are still discretionary with the board of draft boards and it is incumbent upon each student to apply himself to his studies so that his standing will not be affected by the draft registration.

As a result of the Selective Service Act, students who are scheduled to report for the draft will be able to continue on their studies until their draft status is ascertained.

In as much as the Selective Service Act expires in 1956 much pressure is being placed on the enactment of a bill providing for the extension.

While the details have not been fully made public, the Selective Service Act, as it now exists, is not being considered for the next year and a half and six years in the recharge period of the Selective Service Registration Act.

The C Average

In the Fall of this year a Special Committee on Student Activities received a series of complaints and suggestions from the various student organizations. The most important and controversial of these standards is the city's classification of C Average. The Mayor of New York City, Mayor La Guardia, has announced that the limitation is the responsibility of the individualism to be the determining factor in the enrollment at the Baruch School.

We wholeheartedly endorse the idea of a C Average system, the determination of the responsibility of enforcing
the student's responsibility.

Extra-curricular constitutes a great and important part of the student's life. It is unjust to compare student's grades in the classroom to their activities in the social aspect of education.

Good judgment was exercised by the administrative staff in the formulation of the requirements of the new enrollment system. It should be assumed that a C Average system
would seem to be the best system.

This newsworker decided to publish the information about the new enrollment system, but the amount of the student body
was still unknown.

We would urge that any student who feels himself affected by the ruling to live up to his responsibility and notify the Department of Education at once.

The new rule will be enforced
immediately, no exceptions will be made.

Paper Towels

It was with a great deal of satisfaction
that I found the new paper towels in the College's washrooms. With equal satisfaction I noted the absence of the old paper towels.

All of our aware of the limited amount of paper towels in the various rooms of the building. However, there can be no doubt that this is a welcome change.

The misprints and appearance of the old towels are often there, while the new towels are smooth, clean and free of imprints.

In the study, for instance, a visitor might find himself with no paper towel to dry his hands. He may have to use his coat or his handkerchief, which is not exactly pleasant.

Partially this deplorable state is the effect of returning from the winter vacation and having the old towels replaced with new ones.

Our new paper towels are a welcome change and we should be grateful.

The floor covering in the bathroom is beautiful. It can satisfy everyone that the towels are new and improved.

The towels lack only the finishing touches
required by a few more people looking over the guns of the new system.

The presence of the new system is a welcome change and we should be grateful.

Lavender Booters
Continue Workouts

A strong air of optimism prevails over Lewisohn Stadium as the City soccer squad continues its preparations for opening the defense of its Metropolitan Collegiate Soccer Conference crown. The feeling of optimism is based on the fact that the Beavers will have several members of last year's title-winning squad.

Coach Harry Karlin points out that the team is "very strong, especially on the forward line and on the left side. I can't recall when any City soccer team ever had such a strong forward line."

The coach is also pleased with the conscientious manner in which the squad has been going through its workouts in preparation for the opener against Pratt Institute on Saturday, October 2.

The booters have included a great deal of trackwork in their practice sessions. During the course of the season, they will have to play on several fields that are somewhat wider and have to play the second half of games on the very strong forward line.

Heading the formidable list of returnees are Co-captains Gus Naclerio and Eddie Trunk. The Beavers should be stronger this year if only for the fact that the Beavers will have several members of last year's title-winning squad.

Handball

The intra-Mural Board will hold a handball tournament Thursday, at 12. Participants are urged to meet in front of the IMB office, 610A, and to bring their balls. All those interested should sign up in the IMB office before Thursday.

Frosh, Sophs Await Impending Encounter

Fare thee well ye suffering frosh, for the day of reckoning will soon be upon those cruel and heartless sophomores.

On Thursday, October 14 in Hansen Hall, the long-suffering neophytes will have their chance to wreak vengeance upon their tormentors without the fear of prosecution from the duly appointed law enforcement authorities.

In the past, this legalized mayhem, known as the frosh-soph battles, has produced some of the hottest encounters this side of Indo-China.

If the sophs were not usually so heartless during Hazing Week, one could almost feel sorry for them as it is usually the case that twice as many freshmen show up for the battles as do sophomores.

The battles consist of three events, the tug-of-war, snake dance and a cage ball tilt. Both classes will have ample opportunities to practice all of the events in their hygiene classes.

Injured participants are entitled to draw upon the City College blood bank.

Frosh, Sophs Await Impending Encounter

Frosh and sophomores are gearing up for the annual Frosh-Soph battle on Thursday, October 14 in Hansen Hall. The event promises to be a fierce competition, with the sophomores seeking revenge for the sufferings of Hazing Week.

Injured participants will have the option to receive medical assistance from the City College blood bank.

Harriers Prepare For Opening Meet

Friday marked the first day of organized practice for the Beaver cross-country squad. As usual, the Fordham Encounter looms as the—on to win—on the Harriers' schedule, as reports indicate another powerful Ram team.

The Lavender's initial contest with Upsala, on October 8, also should prove to be a "tough one," due to the fact that it will mark the first time in action for several of the Beavers on the squad.

Co-Captain, and manager Gene Forsythe would like to see a good many more candidates turn out for the team, particularly from the Baruch Center. Cross-country provides an excellent opportunity for those without prior experience to engage in varsity athletics.

"Condition, is much more important than experience," Forsythe said, and Coach Harold Anson Bruse can mold men into the proper shape if only given the chance. Forsythe points out that practically no one on the squad at this time has ever run in competition before.

Those interested can contact either Coach Bruce, Forsythe, or they can inquire at the AA Office. Uptown any school day until first practice.

The Beaver harriers will compete in six dual meets and three championship events during the course of the hill-and-dale season.
