Watson Gives Counsel On Choosing Career

Speaking before an overflow audience in 4N yesterday, Thomas J. Watson, chairman of the board of the International Business Machines Corporation, urged the young people of our society to choose "as their field of endeavor that industry or profession which not only suits their training, but also holds what would be a lifelong interest for them."

"Do not feel discouraged," he stated, "when you try something and discover that it is not to your liking." The elderly executive advanced the philosophy that in order for a person to be truly successful in his undertakings he must have an avid interest in them. He cited his own youth as one characterized by a constant desire to find a profession, to which he could devote his energies, one in which his interest would never flag. "Young people," he believes, "should have sufficient time to make up their minds what they want to do with their lives."

Mr. Watson acquainted his audience belonging to groups deemed subversive, with a principle of secrecy he has found since early youth.

As an officer of a corporation concerned with the development of labor saving devices, Mr. Watson speaks the philosophy that in order for a person to be truly successful in his undertakings he must have an avid interest in them. He cited his own youth as one characterized by a constant desire to find a profession, to which he could devote his energies, one in which his interest would never flag. "Young people," he believes, "should have sufficient time to make up their minds what they want to do with their lives."

As an officer of a corporation concerned with the development of labor saving devices, Mr. Watson gives counsel on choosing a career. Associated with the "Winter Wonderland" theme of the affair, the leaves of the hall will bear sleigh bells and ice skates; in keeping with the "Winter Wonderland" theme of the affair. Tickets for the "Winter Wonderland," first freshman dance, to be held Saturday evening at 8:30 in Hansen Hall, are available at the ninth floor booth. The cost per couple will be $1.50 in advance or $1.75 at the door and will include refreshments and entertainment.

Mr. Watson paralleled the General's views when he assured the audience that no machine could ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electronic device ever take the place of the human intelligence, nor could any electric.

Juniors Schedule Dinner At China D'or Restaurant

Although certain debates may still be raging, the Class of '56 has recognized that the people of the Baruch School should enjoy Chinese food. Thus, they have scheduled a dinner and dance at the China D'or, a popular Chinese restaurant, for Saturday night. Tickets for the affair are set at $20,574,469 yen or $3.50 per couple. The juniors will enjoy both oriental delicacies as well as Chinese noodles and scores of other mouth-watering gourmets' delights.

After the meal, a show of oriental splendor will unfold before the dazzled eyes of the guests. It will be a Chinese banquet, and shall there be dancing, too.

Rules and Campaigns

Electoral rules and electoral campaigns at the College are not an evaporation, but a vigorous growth.

To start with, there is a restriction that ensures only the most dedicated candidates to run for any given position. Yet, if a candidate were to spend the entire campaign period anywhere else in the city, it would be considered a violation of the rules.

Dear Editor:

In your position as president of the Student Council, I feel it is necessary to address the concern regarding the "Activity Fee Vote of No Confidence." The following is a list of the points that I will try to answer the question of concern to the students.

For the last few years, the budget for the College has seen a decrease because of a low enrollment. Yet, the cost of living has been increasing. The Student Council and the administration are working together to find a solution for this issue. The activity fee is a way for the College to provide students with the resources they need to succeed. The Student Activity Fee is a way for the College to provide students with the resources they need to succeed.

During the elimination of the Elimination Committee, the student body has observed several benefits, including the ability to participate in the college's activities. By the elimination of the Elimination Committee, students have received a new opportunity to participate in the college's activities.

Columbia Lions Maul Beaver Five, 66-56

By Dick Rustin

City College's bid for its first basketball victory of the season was thwarted by Columbia scoring 17 points in the last stanza, that the Light Blue went down to a 66-56 defeat at the Lion's Gym Saturday night.

Forte counted 20 of his 29 points during the first half, outscoring the entire City team's scoring for the game. The 29 points were accounting for Columbia's twenty point half-time lead.

It was his big backlog of set shots, one-handers, and driving lay-ups, plus the splendid, last-ditch defensive efforts of Mort Levine, that enabled the Lions to score more than half their second half Beaver rally that cut the Light Blue lead from 23 to eight points.

City had staged a comeback at the intermission trailing by 31-24 in the second half started, the Morningstarers turned up the pressure even more.

Forte's four foul shot and Bob Lehmer's layup up to the lead. Ron Kowalski's field goal and Herb Jacobson's free throw.

It was at this point, five minutes into the last stanza, that the Light Blue suddenly came up with a counter-attack that all but demoralized Columbia and brought the hitherto glum City cheering section screaming to its feet.

The light Blue, Captains Roy Shorr, George Jensen, and Jacobson were half-grabbing madness underneath the boards. Shorr and Dave Simmons were scoring from all angles and Jack McGuire was nudging Forte and spearheading the play that, within nine minutes, cut a 44-21 deficit to 46-48.

The once-confident Lions went seven straight minutes without scoring after falling fouling the Beavers in a desperate attempt to check the surge.

Six minutes from the end, with the Ivy Leaguers' colonnaded gym in an uproar, Columbia coach Lou Rosin gave the order that saved the game for his charges. He sent in Levine, his fastest man and best defender, and Mort responded by stealing the ball three times.

Still Juniors, Saxe '58 Reach Hoop Finals

The Still Juniors and Saxe '58 will compete Thursday, January 6, for the IMB basketball championship.

In the semi-final round the Boro Park Boys, 28-22. In the second game Saxe won over the Globetrotters 29-21.

Mary Schlacter led the Juniors in the victory with the winning point. The Juniors, trailed throughout most of the first half, and the scoring at halftime was Boro Park 15 and the Juniors 14.

In the second half, the combined efforts of Schlacter and Irv Guberman, who tallied five points, were more than enough for the Juniors.

The Juniors, trailing 37-22, scored 15 points in the last stanza, that saved the game for his charges. He sent in Levine, his fastest man and best defender, and Mort responded by stealing the ball three times.

Little Beaver Quint Drops Tilt to Lions

Superior height and excellent shooting enabled the Columbia Freshman basketball team to defeat the City Frosh 76-60 at Columbia Saturday night. Joel Ascher scored twenty points for the winning team, while Rudy Milkey, Columbia center notched 26.

The other men in double figures were Alton Waldon of City who scored 14 and Leon Levy of Columbia who had 18.

Ascher scored the first City points on two foul shots to break the ice. Mary Steinberg tied it up in another one-hander. Gutt fried came right back, scoring a jumper off an out-of-bounds play that Columbia used to advantage several times during the first half. This put the Lions 16 points, making it look like this was going to be an already weak team.

The top Hawk operative is center Bob Milkey, who led the team in scoring last season.
