Kennedy Addresses Convocation Crowd

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said yesterday that "The faculties of both the Baruch School and the Police Academy have combined to offer courses of study which shall give to the members of the Police Department a comprehensive knowledge of the law and a better understanding of the police role in government. Every practitioner of the law and every police officer should have a penetrating knowledge of man and understand why the people they serve accept as they do.

One of its prime objectives will be to see that the public as well as the police have a clearer understanding of the police function in our society. Unless we understand our people, we can never truly serve them." The Commissioner was the featured speaker at the annual Fall Convocation in Pauline Edwards Theatre.

Kennedy pointed out that "while we have fabulous numbers of dollars, words and great deeds into endeavors to convince other peoples of the blessings of American democracy, our crime rate has gone hand in hand, un­der our good works. What do other nations think of us?" he asked.

Referring to the alliance between the Police Academy and the City College, the Commissioner declared, "The administration of criminal laws leaves something to be desired." In our public schools, on the police level, the enforcement of laws through intensive training and professionalization of our police. We have to work for our people, but at the same time criticized the Board of Estimate for not seeing the needs of this School both in relation to the Police Academy and as a separate academic institution.

Elective Cards

Elective cards must be filled out and returned to the Registrar's office prior to the end of the month. Each student should indicate both the prescribed and elective courses he plans to take next semester.

Upper Sophomores and Juniors who have not done so must fill out a special card with his elective cards.

Theatron Picks Musical Show

Theatron, Baruch School drama group, will present a musical comedy "Good News" Friday and Saturday, December 2 and 3 in Pauline Edwards Theatre.

The play, a success on Broadway, concerns college life. Among the hit tunes are "Varsity Drag," "The Best Things in Life are Free," "Jolly in Love," "Just Imagine," and many more.

Neither the price nor the distribution policy concerning tickets have been decided upon.

Gallagher Protests Southern Slaving; NAACP Will Act

President Buell G. Gallagher warned last week that "although the wind has gone out of the McCarthy balloon, thq.ary rumblings of a new savagery" have begun. He protes­ted the "lynching of Emmett Till," said to have been permitted to convince other peoples of the blessings of American democracy, our crime rate has gone hand in hand, under our good works. What do other nations think of us?" he asked.

Referring to the alliance between the Police Academy and the City College, the Commissioner declared, "The administration of criminal laws leaves something to be desired." In our public schools, on the police level, the enforcement of laws through intensive training and professionalization of our police. We have to work for our people, but at the same time criticized the Board of Estimate for not seeing the needs of this School both in relation to the Police Academy and as a separate academic institution.

Select Fund Raising Drive; Fix $200,000 as Goal

The start of a $200,000 fund raising drive for non-curricular and scholarship needs at the City College was announced Saturday by President Buell G. Gallagher.

The campaign will run through the academic year and is under the auspices of the City College Fund, an alumni group. The group hopes to acquire the money through donations by alumni and friends of the College.

The Fund will use part of the receipts to match a $40,000 New York Foundation offer to establish a scholarship fund for CCNY graduates who desire to go into graduate studies.

Dr. Gallagher said the campaign would also be used to provide:

- Operating funds for Lamport House, home of the Baruch School's House Plan Association.
- A fund to operate the John H. Finley Student Center, located at the Uptown Center's South Campus (Manhattanville). Aid in the support of the College's placement service. This service assists both undergraduates and alumni in securing jobs.
- In justifying the need of a tax-supported college to ask for funds from private resources, Dr. Gallagher said, "the nation needs both private and public colleges, and both private and public support are needed by both types of institutions alike. The private colleges ought not to be handicapped by discriminatory gov­ernment action and should enjoy tax exemption and other forms of public support."

Beavers Blank Kings Point
As Wostl’s Score Decides

By Marv Glassberg

The most ardent fishermen ran for cover and even the ducks called it a day, but the City College soccer team had nothing to fear. On Thursday night at 8:30, the Beavers won a hard-boot that was deflected nearly scored when he ripped off a charitable organization, and christened the new baseball diamond for the Community Service Society, in honor of the late David Blanked them. The rest of the Way.

Wostl’s Score Uces

Wostl scored the goal of the third period, when City roared downfield and, when Wostl drove home the mud-and-halfback, bottled up City’s Johnny Koutsantanou, without permitting the shifty All-American to score. Turnbull is a fast and rugged left-halfback who continually broke the Lavender scoring threats. Wally Summers, at right fullback, and Captain Oak, at center halfback, are two more veteran starters who were largely responsible for the Cadets’ 7-2-2 record in 1954.

The Beavers made their first score off of the second stanza had elapsed, John Koutsantanou—

Pohoryles' goal was on City’s otherwise spotless record.

Coach Harry Karlin’s scoring demons also will be trying to be only the second team to defeat the Black Knights on their home ground since 1949. Penn State won up at the Point earlier this season after my’s opening win over Ithaca.

Wally Meisen

The second one hooked to the left of the nets and eluded Meisen’s diving grasp. From there, City roared downfield and, when Wostl drove home the mud-and-halfback, bottled up City’s Johnny Koutsantanou, without permitting the shifty All-American to score. Turnbull is a fast and rugged left-halfback who continually broke the Lavender scoring threats. Wally Summers, at right fullback, and Captain Oak, at center halfback, are two more veteran starters who were largely responsible for the Cadets’ 7-2-2 record in 1954.

Harriers Cop Open Meet Rams Tomorrow

The City College cross country team, competing under Coach Harry deGiroiamo for the first time, eked out a one-point victory in its first contest of the season Saturday in Van Cortlandt Park, the Bronx.

The meet, originally billed as a quadrangular affair, but turned into a three-team race. Brooklyn College was unable to field a full team, so the runners collect 37 points to Queen's 38 and Hunter's 47.

Bill Kowalski of City tore Hunter's Joe Vogel over the last half of the rain-soaked mile course to take second with a time of 28:38. Vogel, who was the first to cross the finish line, was second by 25 meters.

Other finishers for City were Rick Hurford (fifth), John Quinn (seventh), Gene Shear (ninth) and Gene Shear (tenth). There were 15 runners altogether.

Wednesday, October 12, find CCNY's harriers engage in a dual meet with Fordham University at Van Cortlandt Park with Arthur O'Connor, coach of the Maroon team, is highly confident that his experienced squad will oust the Lavender. Last year and this will be his first victory over Fordham, and the Cadets' leading players are Joe Cannon, Ted Grant and Bruce Summers, at right fullback, and Captain Oak, at center halfback, are two more veteran starters who were largely responsible for the Cadets’ 7-2-2 record in 1954.
