Grossman '56 Prexy; Rabbiner, Smith Draw
In special elections held Thursday, to fill Student Council and class council vacancies, Bob Grossman defeated Bernie Cohen for the presidency of the upper senior class. In the same class Joe Harada was elected over Norman Pentecost as vice-president.

Lower seniors did not make a decision concerning its SC vacancy, giving 14 votes each to Hy Smith and Doris Rabbiner. The class council will now have to choose between the two. In unopposed elections in the lower classes, Paul Neurath was named SC representative from Upper '56, while Irwin Ringelbrim was elected as vice-president of Upper 59.

Although the turnout for the elections was sparse, SC approved the results, in the face of strong opposition from certain representatives and candidates.

SC Defeats Move To Curtail Debate
Student Council defeated a move, Friday evening, to refer the December 1 NSA Resolutions to Town Meetings, before taking action on the issues. The motion, brought to the floor by Howie Rubenstein, '56, stated that "SC not discuss any issue taken by the NSA... but that the issues, as determined by the NSA, be relevant to the students as students, be transferred to Town Meetings, open to all students.

Opposing this move, Vice-President Steve Mann stated that he was "opposed to this idea of passing "law" before our eyes."

He pointed out that in the past Town Meetings were unsuccessful, only once attracting more than 30 students. "Town Meetings can be constructive in any way as a true test of public opinion," he said. "All this motion does is provide a rationalization for those who are insensitive about discussing the NSA resolutions. We can discuss these issues without rationalizing our actions—we have an obligation to do so."

SC President Bob Cord, in support of Mann, explained, "If anything must be done to provide a rationalization for those who are insensitive about discussing the NSA resolutions, we can discuss these issues without rationalizing our actions—we have an obligation to do so.

Slate National Conference On Education for Business
In an effort to prepare for an anticipated one hundred percent rise in college enrollments within the next fifteen years, educators and business and foundation executives will participate in "Professional Education for Business" Thursday at Arden House in Harriman, N. Y.

Sponsored by The American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the conference has been financed by a $15,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Thomas L. Norton, former dean of the Baruch School and now dean of New York University School of Commerce, Accountancy and Finance, is chairman of the conference. Professor John E. Orchard of the Columbia University Graduate School of Business is technical director.

The acute problem facing collegiate business schools was outlined in a study released by the American Association early this year which predicted a 45 percent shortage of qualified teachers by 1970.

Among the questions which the conference will consider are:

1. How can more students be attracted to graduate study in business administration?
2. Are current doctoral programs adequately preparing future college teachers?
3. Present sources of qualified teachers cannot meet the expanding need. Where can new sources be found?
4. What will economic developments in the next fifteen years affect collegiate business programs?

City Booters Tied by Queens, 2-2, After 4-0 Triumph Over Adelphians

City College's undefeated soccer team received a rude jolt when they found themselves down by a 2-0 deficit to Queens, a team they had easily routed earlier in the year. However, although Queens scored early on, the game was far from over.

In the second half, City College's offense came alive, scoring four goals in the span of 20 minutes to secure a 4-2 victory over Queens. The game was a thrilling display of soccer, with both teams fighting hard to gain the upper hand.

The victory was a testament to City College's strong defense and offensive capabilities. However, the final result was a 2-2 tie, with both teams sharing the points in a hard-fought match.

Harriers Seek to Rebound Against Panthers Saturday

Seeking to better its 1-1 country team will play Saturday at Van Cortlandt Park, the Bronx. The Panthers currently display a 2-3 record, having lost to New York U. St. John's and Iona. However, the team is on the rise, showing victories over the Long Island Aggies and Brooklyn Poly in its last outings.

All five starters for the Long Islanders saw action in last year's encounter with City. Captain Louis Vgienis and Roy Rickey have sparked the squad so far. Both are averaging 28 minutes for the grueling five-mile run. Rickey has led his team over the finish line three times, and Vgienis has been first the other two times. Barry POLLACK, who has finished third in the last two meets, William Humberg and Alex Almasy are the other Panther starters.

Coach Starks, in his second year at the helm, has been bringing his boys along slowly and is confident. "Our team is getting better with each successive meet and I think that's at its peak now," he said.

On the other hand, City is coming off a crushing defeat by Western Michigan and is anxious to regain the prestige it lost in the meet with the stronger Rams. Co-Captain Bill Kowalski, who missed the Fordham match through illness, is back in good health again.

Serious Injury Deprives Frank Shovlin of Sophomore Year

The City College basketball team suffered a crushing blow when Frank Shovlin, one of the stars of last season's team, was seriously injured while working on a construction job this morning.

A crane accident severely damaged Shovlin's ankle, causing him to be out for the remainder of this season. Shovlin was expected to lead the team next year, and his loss is a great blow to the basketball program.

Basketball coach Nat Ho described Shovlin as "a key player," and expressed his disappointment at the accident. "Frank is a valuable member of our team, and his absence will be felt greatly," he said.

Shovlin's spirits are high, however, as he looks forward to his recovery. "I'll be back next season," he vowed. "I can't wait to get back on the court and help my team win.
