Management Society Sets Automation Fair for-PET

The Society for the Advancement of Management will sponsor an Automation Fair Thursday, May 10, from 12 to 10 and Friday, May 11, from 10 to 4 in Pauline Edwards Theatre. All students are invited.

The purpose of the Fair is to acquaint students with the theme of automation and its practical application in the business world.

Among the participating companies, and their exhibits they will present, are: Remington Rand, Univac: R.M.C. Associates, closed circuit television; Sylvan Electronics Products, atomic display utilizing automation and Freed Transfer Corp., a computer system featuring remote control.

The Society has endeavored to make this Fair a success by mailing thousand invitations to businesses throughout the city, for their participation. The Association of Manufacturers, which is cooperating with the Society in the staging of the Fair, has mailed thirteen hundred letters to its New York members enlisting their attention.

Labor Leader to Speak

Ted F. Silvey, national director of education for the AFL-CIO, will be one of the speakers to address the Fair's audience.

Arrangements are now in progress to have leading speakers of management and labor discuss the pros and cons of Automation.

Three Seek Top Post

In Council Elections

The filing of petitions for the Student Council elections, to be held next Tuesday, indicate an unusual interest in SC office seeking offices and a complete lack of enthusiasm for class council and Student Council representatives for the office being filled.

A three way race for president has developed between David Golovsky '57, SC treasurer; Harvey Issacson '57, SC Blood Bank chairman; and Ida Laucher '56, SC vice-president. Running for vice-presi- dent are SC reps Sheldon Brand '56, Paul Douglas '57 and Bill Lipton '58.

The running for the position of secretary are Skip Easter '57 and Alvin Traum '58, and one for corresponding secretary is Herman Berger '57. Both candidates are unopposed for National Student Association delegate.

In a three-way race for treasurer, candidates are Richard Bourret '59, Joel Issacson '56 and Moi Weiss '57. In the lower senior class, Oscar Fischer and Nat Waldman are running for president and Paul Maina is unopposed for vice president.

Princeton and Alger Hiss

The New York Times's article on Alger Hiss, which appeared in the New York Times, is a moving and well-researched account of the Hiss case. It is a significant event in American history, and the Times does a great service by bringing this story to light. However, I would like to point out some inaccuracies in the article.

Firstly, the Times states that Hiss was a member of the Trilateral Commission. This is incorrect. Hiss was not a member of the Trilateral Commission, but rather a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, which is a similar organization.

Secondly, the Times states that Hiss was a member of the American Communist Party. This is also incorrect. Hiss was not a member of the American Communist Party, but rather a member of the Communist Party of the United States.

Finally, the Times states that Hiss was a member of the American Bar Association. This is also incorrect. Hiss was not a member of the American Bar Association, but rather a member of the American Bar Association's Committee on Legal Education.

I believe that these inaccuracies are important to correct, as they could lead to misunderstandings about Hiss's political affiliations and activities. I hope that the Times will correct these inaccuracies in a future edition.

Sincerely,

Theatre in Review:

"Death of a Salesman"

by Richard Kwortner

Theatre-in-Review is a column written by a staff of theatre critics from the New York Times. This week's article is about the play "Death of a Salesman," which is currently playing at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre.

The critics describe the play as a powerful and emotionally charged depiction of the life of a working-class family in the United States. They praise the performances of the lead actors, particularly Marlon Brando, who plays the role of Willie Loman, a struggling salesman.

The critics also note the play's deep exploration of themes such as the American Dream, the pressures of family life, and the struggle against personal failure.

Overall, the critics recommend the play to anyone interested in the theatre, as it is a well-crafted and thought-provoking piece of work.

Sincerely,

City ‘Nine’ Splits Doubleheader; Tilts Highlighted by Six Homers

In an afternoon highlighted by six home runs and marred by ten errors, nine of them by City College, the Beaver baseball team split two games with Wagner College, winning the first, 3-2, and losing the second, 13-8, Saturday at Babe Ruth Field, the Bronx.

Basil Nacinovich, the College's shortstop, scored the winning run for the Beavers in the seventh inning of the first game when he smashed a homer over the right-center field fence. Nacinovich also scored in the fifth frame when, after doubling, Andy Tel linger knocked him home with a pinch-hit single.

Johnny Ryan accounted for the third Beaver run, slamming a ball 330 feet away, for a homer in the sixth inning.

In the second, but only two of Wagner’s 12 runs were earned. Pete Mareano, the Dutchmen's second baseman, knocked in two runs in the seven-run second inning with a home run and came back even stronger in the second contest, making five miscues.

The Beavers, after making four errors in the first inning, came back even stronger in the second contest, making five miscues. Only this time, the errors proved costly. Wagner scored seven runs in the second, but only two of them were earned. Six of Wagner's 12 runs were unearned.

Pete Mareano, the Dutchmen's second baseman, knocked in two runs in the seven-run second inning with a home run and came back even stronger in the third.

The Beavers came close to tying it up in the fifth when they came up with seven runs, making the score, 9-8, Wagner's favor. Johnny Ryan, the veteran Beaver first baseman, homered with two outs in the seventh, drilled a drive for DeLuca in the seventh.
