Management Society Sets
Automation Fair for-PET

The Society for the Advancement of Management will sponsor an Automation Fair Tuesday, May 10, from 10 to 4 in Pauline Edwards Theatre. All students are invited.

The purpose of the Fair is to acquaint students with the theme of automation and its practical application in the business world.

Among the participating companies, and the exhibits they will present, are: Remington Rand, Univac; R.M.C. Associates, closed circuit television; Sylvanian Electric Products, atomic display utilizing automation and Freed Transit, a system featuring remote control.

The Society has endeavored to make this Fair a success by mailing two thousand invitations to businessmen throughout the city. The exhibitors are the Association of Manufacturers, which is cooperating with the Society in the staging of the Fair, has mailed thirteen hundred letters to its New York members encouraging their attendance.

Labor Leader to Speak

Ted F. Silvey, national director of education for the AFL-CIO, will be one of the speakers to address Labor's audience.

Arrangements are now in progress to have leading speakers of management and labor discuss the pros and cons of Automation.

Four prizes will be awarded Thursday at 2.

Mardi Gras Gala Festivities
To Star Davis and Shepard

By Stew Kampelman

The second annual Mardi Gras will take place Saturday evening at the Baruch School, Sammy Davis, Jr. star of "Wonderful," Dori Anne Gray, Mercury recording star, and Dick Shepard, WNEW disc jockey will perform in Pauline Edwards Theatre to climax an evening of games, entertainment and dancing to the music of Gene Levine and his band in Hansen Hall.

Tickets for the affair are $1.50 and are on sale at the 3rd floor booth.

Three Seek Top Post
In Council Elections

The filing of petitions for the Student Council elections, to be held next Tuesday, indicate an unusual interest in SC executive offices but a complete lack of enthusiasm for class council and Student Council representation.

A three way race for president has developed between Dave Goldsky '57, SC treasurer, Harvey Isaacs '57, SC Blood Bank chairman; and Ida Rauscher '55, SC vice-president. Running for vice-president are SC reps Sheldon Brand '50, Paul Douglas '57 and Bill Lipton '58.

Running for recording secretary are Siggi Eister '57 and Byl Teum '58, and unopposed for corresponding secretary is Herman Berger '57. Ruth Cohen '57 is unopposed for National Student Association delegate.

In a three-way race for treasurer, candidates are Richard Borell '57, Joel Isserman '58 and Mel Weiss '57.

In the lower senior class, Oscar Fischer and Nat Waldman are running for president and Paul Mainman is unopposed for vice-presidential race.

"Queen" chosen from the five contesting women.

In the upper senior class, Arnold Tew is running for president and Ronald McKenzie and Bill Greiger are unopposed for secretary and treasurer. Bernard Medoff and Jerry Patelson are unopposed candidates for the two SC seats.

Elekholder Dinkleberger and Jack Rosenzweig are the only candidates for the two Council seats in the lower sophomore class.

"Freshman" class is the only class where the complete slate of candidates, with two of the candidates, Jacob Rabinovitz and Peter Stein are presidential candidates and Sherman Shik is unopposed for vice-president. Aspirants to the treasurer's office are Barbara Friedman and Leon Zlotnik.

In the upper sophomore class, Arnold Tew is running for president and Ronald McKenzie and Bill Greiger are unopposed candidates for secretary and treasurer. Bernard Medoff and Jerry Patelson are unopposed candidates for the two SC seats.

Elected with highest honors in the upper freshman class is Paul Orsman, a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

In a discussion that lasted seventeen minutes, Student Council elected 33 to CSM, honorary society for students who have excelled in extracurricular activities, at its annual banquet Wednesday evening.

Elected with highest honors were Robert L. Cord, former SC president; George Grant, past House Plan president; Morton Laron, former Intcr-Club Board chairman; William Johnson, President; Doris Rabiner, managing editor of Lexicon, editor-in-chief of Lexicon.

Arthur Miller's play "Death of a Salesman" was performed on stage. The play's main character, Willie Loman, was played by Barnett. The role was challenging for Barnett, who had to portray a character with a strong sense of self-preservation and a tendency to deceive himself and others.

Barnett's performance was well-received by critics, who praised his ability to convey the complexities of the character. However, the role was not without its challenges, as Barnett had to balance the character's strengths with his weaknesses, creating a nuanced and compelling portrayal.

Despite the critical acclaim, Barnett's acting was viewed by some as lacking in depth, and his character was sometimes seen as two-dimensional. Nonetheless, Barnett's performance was considered to be a highlight of the production, and his work was praised for its emotional intensity and authenticity.

In conclusion, Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" is a powerful and thought-provoking play that explores the themes of ambition, self-deception, and the consequences of one's actions. Barnett's performance was a notable contribution to the production, and his portrayal of Willie Loman remains a memorable aspect of the play's legacy.

City ‘Nine’ Splits Doubleheader; Tilts Highlighted by Six Homers

In an afternoon highlighted by six home runs and marred by ten errors, nine of them by City College, the Beaver baseball team split two games with Wagner College, winning the first, 3-2, and losing the second, 13-8, Saturday, at Babe Ruth Field, the Bronx.

Basil Nacovich, the College’s shortstop, scored the winning run for the Beavers in the seventh inning of the first game when he smashed a homer over the right-center field fence. Nacovich also scored in the fifth frame, after doubles. Andy Telling hit a homer in the sixth inning, after singles.

Johnny Ryan accounted for nine of the Dutchmen’s runs, seven of them unearned. Six of Wagner’s runs were scored against Pete Marcano, the Dutchmen’s third baseman, who scored the winning run of the first game when he smashed a homer over the center field fence.

The Beavers came close to tying the game in the eighth inning, but only two of them were scored. Six of Wagner’s 12 runs were unearned. Pete Marcano, the Dutchmen’s second baseman, knocked in two runs in the seven-run second inning with a home run and came back from another home run in the third.

The Beavers came close to tying the game in the fifth inning when they came up with seven runs, making the score, 9-8, Wagner’s favor.

Johnny Ryan, the veteran Beaver third baseman, homered with two outs in the third.

Beaver Netmen Beat NYU For First Time in History

If at first you don’t succeed, try, try again.

And so the Beavers did. For the first time in approximately 15 years, (the records are too hazy) the City College tennis team defeated New York University, 5-4, Saturday, at the Fleet Swim and Tennis Club, the Bronx.

With a record of four wins and no losses, the rest of the season, consisting of four matches, should prove to be easy sailing. The only team which is expected to give City any trouble is Fordham University, which defeated the Beavers last year, 5-4.

The decisive match in the NYU encounter proved to be the second of the three doubles matches. The Beavers, leading 4-3, put up Allan Jong and Mel Drimmer against the Violet’s Alex Sosinsky and Herman Gluck. The Lavender duo promptly trounced their opponents, 7-5 and 6-3.
