City College Graduates Obtain More Doctorates

By A. L. Goldberg

The City College of New York led all other colleges and universities in the metropolitan area in the number of students that have completed their graduate studies and received their doctorates in the sciences, arts, humanities and social sciences during the period from 1936 to 1950.

The fifteen-year record was disclosed in two reports released by the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council on the undergraduate origins of doctorates in the above-mentioned fields. During this five-year period, students that have completed their graduate studies and received their doctorates can now earn approximately $35 per person.

City College President Buell G. Gallagher said that this survey's results "underline the continuing excellence of City College." He claimed that "careful selection of students" and "good training" while at the college were responsible for City's leading the area.

The report on the origin of science doctorates, City College ranked second in the nation from 1946 to 1950 and eighth in the nation from 1936 to 1945 with 229 and 221 doctorates respectively.

The report dealing with the undergraduate origins of doctors in the arts, humanities and social sciences covering the same fifteen-year period showed that City ranked second in the nation with 474 graduate students earning doctorates. Columbia University headed the list with 561.

In the same area, Columbia University placed second to CCNY with 817 doctorates. New York University was third with 765.

Two Needed Changes

By Wallace S. Nathans

Two years ago a girl by the name of Harriet Guber (now Ms. Ecker) enrolled in the University of Haifa, in Israel, as a pre-law student. At the time, she was an American and the daughter of two American parents. However, her parents had been born in Poland and Hungary, her grandparents were Jews, and her great-grandparents were Poles. Her mother was Polish and her father was Hungarian. Her great-grandfather, who had lived in Poland, was a Jew and had been a pioneer in the development of the Jewish community in Poland. Her great-grandmother, who had lived in Hungary, was also a Jew and had been a pioneer in the development of the Jewish community in Hungary.

The university, which was a liberal arts college, had a strong emphasis on the study of Jewish history and culture. It also had a strong emphasis on the study of the Holocaust and the role of the Jews in World War II. Ms. Guber was very interested in these subjects and took many courses on them. She also participated in several student groups that focused on these topics.

Ms. Guber was a very intelligent and dedicated student. She was very committed to her studies and worked very hard. She was very respected by her teachers and classmates.

Ms. Guber graduated with high honors and went on to law school. She became a very successful lawyer and has dedicated her career to helping others.

The faculty can do a great deal in this area by recognizing that students are a group that are often neglected. They are often not given the attention they deserve, and they are often not given the resources they need to succeed.

The students can also do a great deal in this area by demanding that their needs be met. They can demand that their courses be taught by faculty who are experts in their fields, and they can demand that their classrooms be well-equipped.

When it comes to students getting married, the University of Rochester has a policy that all the students who want to get married must be married to each other. This policy is designed to prevent students from getting married for the wrong reasons, such as to have a child, or to avoid the financial obligations of marriage.

Ms. Guber was married to her husband, who was also a lawyer. They have two children, and they are very happy.

Ms. Guber has been very successful in her career, and she has been able to help many people. She has been a very strong woman, and she has been able to overcome many obstacles.

Ms. Guber has been very active in the community, and she has been able to make a difference in many people's lives. She has been a very positive role model for many people, and she has been able to inspire others to do great things.

Beaver Soccer Team Overpowers Adelphi, 7-0; Masanovich Establishes New Met Scoring Mark

Lavender Harriers Finish Season Undefeated

By Mary Glaimberg

Led by Novak Masanovich, who tallied three goals, and Johnny "Buddha" Paranos who scored twice, the Beaver booters overpowered Adelphi 7-0 Saturday to assure them a place in the playoffs, 7-1, at the loser's seat.

The last two games of the season were played at 4:30, with the sweetspotting contest of the afternoon on tap for the Metropolitan Soccer League playoffs. The City College soccer team will put its string of twenty-five victories on the line against New York Maritime Academy Saturday—it's improbable that it will be broken.

Reluctant to talk about his team's chances against the Mariners, head coach Harry de Girolamo said, "All I can hope for is a good game from my boys." Last year, the Academy was rated as a fairly good team and recorded a 4-3-1 record. The Fort Schuyler school has lost, through the season, covered the five-mile course in 29:33 and 29:01, respectively. Jackie Goldstein, who last year beat Crossfield by almost two minutes, was sixth in 29:18. Jim Fillis ran eighth and Dan Healy tenth to account for the rest of the Iona scoring.

Rick Hurford, City co-captain, has been interested in boxing, and since the age of eight, Sirutis has been interested in boxing. His past is full of boxing, and he hopes the sport, on a collegiate level, will come back to the East end of the Metropolitan Golden Gloves championships, scheduled for November 19. "Like anyone would, I feel," he added, "...I'm very, very happy at The Beavers have naturally and very certainly it." Last year, the hill and had a 3-2 record and third in the Collegiate Trylon behind Masanovich. This year, the Mariners' chances look bleak. The team consists of mainly freshmen that have little experience. Its star performer is Jon Schulmeister, a rugged inside left. He is backed by fullback Joe Keller. Keller may not play his usual position in the City game because his defensive opponent, Wolfgang Westel is considered by the Academy coach as "a very crafty fellow." He does not let Keller is fast enough to keep up with the Beaver star.

Giving his views on the state of the Met-League, Recordon feels that "If we can win the league, the competition will be much better. If the College would leave and think that the Academy is winning, it's a bad thing. For City...I'm not sure what the competition will be like." noodds, 14-ounce

IMB Basketball Tournament Swings Into Quarter-Finals

The Intramural Board basketball tournament reached its final qualifying round Thursday, as K. B. S. Lazak '58 and Phil Wiggens, 19-14, to be the first team to reach the quarter-finals. In the second game, the Greeks downed the Turrets, 30-27, in the highest scoring contest of the afternoon. The Greeks outscored theGuiners, 20-18. On the same bill, Alpha Phi Omegas capitalized on the much smaller Iona team, 25-19.

The quarter-finals of the tournament will be played November 15, with K. B. S. Lazak '58 pitted against the Babes, and Adelphi against Jolson '58. Tau Delta Phi and the Greeks drew byes because of their high scoring performances Thursday. A boxing tournament, open to all past students, has been started by IMB, with Professor Yustin Sirutis in charge.

There will be three rounds of one and one-half minutes. A one-minute rest period will be granted to each combatant between rounds. Fourteen ounce gloves will be used.

The last game of the season's agenda was won by Jolson '58 and Tau Delta Phi. Jolson '58 tripped Dean '60, 23-14, and TDP downed the Queensmen, 22-19.

Fort Schuyler Slated To Meet Soccermen

The City College soccer team will put its string of twenty-five victories on the line against New York Maritime Academy Saturday—it's improbable that it will be broken. Reluctant to talk about his team's chances against the Metropolitan League powerhouse, Academy coach "Buzz" Recordon says, "All I can hope for is a good game from my boys." Last year, the Academy was rated as a fairly good team and recorded a 4-3-1 record. The Fort Schuyler school has lost, through graduation, one of Recordon's prized possessions, Phil Wiggens. Wiggens was All-Met goalie for two seasons and was a standout performer throughout his collegiate soccer career.

Outlook Dim

This year, the Mariners' chances look bleak. The team contains mainly freshmen that have little experience. Its star performer is Jon Schulmeister, a rugged inside left. He is backed by fullback Joe Keller. Keller may not play his usual position in the City game because his defensive opponent, Wolfgang Westel is considered by the Academy coach as "a very crafty fellow." Yustin Sirutis

Yustin Sirutis is an excellent boxer, with a past and hope for his future. His past is full of boxing, and he hopes the sport, on a collegiate level, will come back to the East end of the Metropolitan Golden Gloves championships, scheduled for November 19.
