Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of The TICKER: The ejection of the above mentioned party at Dr. Goldberg's recent trial was unwise and unnecessary. The methods by which the President of the student body uses to promote himself through public press releases are not justified. The student body is not a newspaper and it is not their business to try to promote themselves. They should seek their own reputation and not expect it to be given to them.

To the Editor of The TICKER: The recent decision of the faculty of the Baruch School to approve the offer of a small number of proctor posts is a cause for concern. The faculty must be aware of the potential for abuse and should consider the implications of such a decision before making a final decision.

City Defeats Adelphi, 62-58; Beavers Set To Face Strong Rutgers Five

By Mel Winer and Sid Davidoff

Led by sharpshooting Joe Benardo, and the rebounding of Hector Lewis, City College's basketball team defeated a hustling Adelphi, 62-58, before a capacity crowd at Garden City, Long Island, Saturday.

Never falling behind after the opening minutes of the contest the Beavers were conditioning both backboards against the small, but scrappy, Panthers, were able to maintain their lead despite the accurate jump shooting of Adelphi's Mel Jacoby, Art Benito and Bob Popko.

The closest the Panthers came to capturing the lead was midway through the second half, with City ahead, 28-31. Adelphi's Jacoby successfully converted a foul shot, Popko scored on a layup and Jeff and Popko, with successful free throws, narrowed the City lead to one point.

However, the Beavers came back with three straight points on a foul shot by Bob Silver and a three point play by Hector Lewis. After a two-pointer by Benardo, the Lavender scored six straight points to regain their seven-point margin.

Winners for the Beavers in this first half of Saturday night's game were the Lavender, won 62-58.

At half-time, the Beavers led 31-25, down to Benardo's 15 points. The outstanding defensive work of Lewis, who blocked shots, and was a helper under the boards along with Silver, were important factors in the Lavender's 15-point half time margin.

Wednesday, the Beavers gained their second victory of the season and their ninth straight win, over their municipal "co consort," Queens College, 79-57.

Playing on their own court, the Knight's biggest handicap was a lack of height. They had no man taller than 6-2, and only two men over 6-4. The starting Beavers, with the exception of Joe Benardo, were all 6-0 or more.

The Lavender were paced by Joel Ascher and Hector Lewis, who scored 19 and 17 points, respectively. Hanubhan Marty Groveman tallied ten points—all in the first half.

High scorer for the Knights and high individual scorer for the game was 6-3 co-captain Bob Bass, with 24 points.

Bob Silver, City's 6-6 center, didn't play for the Beavers. He had an infected finger.

The coaches announced that the league would return to its former format, with each team playing all the other teams during the season.

This year, the league was split in half to allow the teams to schedule 12 games, as against twelve last season.

At present, a ruling of the Coaches' General Faculty prohibits the Beavers from playing more than nine games a season. The Lavender has nine and-home agreements with College, St. John's, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, which must be fulfilled.

Coach Karlin predicted that the Faculty team in Intramural Athletics would raise the limit to 12 games, as to allow the Beavers to fulfill all present agreements and participate in the league.

A probability is that the annual contest with the United States Military Academy will be dropped, now that only three of the five Navy teams have started to participate in the League.

The women's basketball team, at City College definitely deserves to be recognized, (says this female reporter.) Under the coaching of Professor Laura Han, seventeen sports-minded girls are striving to make their mark in the intercollegiate Women's Basketball Leauge.

This season, the "female" hoopsters will play ten games. They have already defeated the Albam and Brooklyn Colleges.

The team uses the official rules for its games, but some differences do exist. That the present players in this game, (as well as younger students)。（The game requires girls to be "natural" at sports and well-coordinated.）

All-Met League Picks Cancelled by Coaches

There will be no Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer League all-star team this year.

Since very few of the coaches saw all the players in action, the coaches decided that it would be unfair to choose a team, Beaver soccer mentor Harry Karlin said.

Last year, five Cityites were chosen for the first team. All-Met squad. Two players were awarded second team honors, while one Beaver was given honorable mention.
