Council Passes `Lengthening'

Festive Convocation Set For Tomorrow in PET

Well-known folksinger Eddy Stone will be the featured entertainer at tomorrow's Christmas Convocation. She will be part of a holiday program which will include many Baruch School awards.

Edward Sullivan, co-chairman of the Convocation Committee, stated that "this program promises to be just as good as last year's exciting one. Due to the over-enrollment, a concurrence to Professor J. Belknap Harvey at last term's Convocation, he will again lead our community. Professor Harvey is Chief Marshal of City College.

The presentation of Baruch School awards will include: Indigina, Sigma Alpha, Beta Gamma Sigma, Lampport House, Intramural Board, and David H. Putney. There will also be the presentation of the Dean's List for Second Year and First Year Honors.

Schiff

An address will be made by Larry Schiff, President of Student Council, at the Convocation. Schiff was in charge of last year's Christmas Convocation, at which time Thorton Wilt presented an excerpt from Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

During the past few years, there is usually a good turnout for the Christmas Convocations and it is expected that Pauline Edwards Theater will be crowded tomorrow.

Referred To Administration:

SC Votes to Lengthen School Day

With the atmosphere filled with anticipation, Student Council, after hearing four hours of debate and 70 speakers, including non-Council members, unanimously voted 23-0-0 to recommend to the administration that classes be spread throughout the day.

In a dramatic climax to a lengthy discussion, Student Council President Larry Schiff summed up by saying: "The time has come to the pendulum swings. I believe that our school has been moving further and further away from a true higher educational setting unless the movement is reversed, the ballyhooed name of City College will no longer have.

any foundation intact. "If this change is effected, the burden will rest on the administration and those interested students to make the change a constructive and meaningful one. I think we can meet this challenge."

The original motion, proposed by the Executive Board two weeks ago, was amended twice to qualify Council's stand: the Co-op Training Program at the school be continued; those students who must work for financial need should be given special consideration in class programming.

Schiff emphasized at the beginning of the debate that the purpose of the motion was to improve the academic climate of the school.

Nadel, Levison, Orlikoff Win In School Wide Elections

Almost 1,000 Baruch School students elected Bob Nadel Student Council President on Wednesday. Nadel, with 435 votes, defeated Myles Merling, who finished second, with 317 marks after Janet Rosenblum, who had 202 votes.

The vice-presidential race saw Matt Levison, Freshman Orientation Society President, win by a 100-plus vote majority over Carol Groebling, present SC recording secretary.

The most closely contested of the Council elections was for corresponding secretary.

Warren Pacinelli, the only uncontested candidate in the race, was reelected to the treasurerhip. He received over 831 "yes" votes and 115 "no" votes.

Bruce Markoffs defeated Andy Menken by 100 votes for the spot of National Student Association delegate. Both are news editors of THE TICKER.

The new SC president stated: "The foremost project for next term will be more extensive work in the area of curriculum evaluation."

"A great deal of the investigation to date has been of a general nature, and it will be the objective of next term's Council to begin research in some of the more specific areas, namely, the specialization groups, the admissions procedures, and the library and laboratory facilities. Council's ultimate objective is the realization of educational betterment."

Season's Greetings

The season is here when everyone sings every-where else a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We would very much like to be among the multitudes of well-wishers, but we find it very difficult to be anything but honest, "Happy New Year." We look around us and see very little else but human misery. The season is very difficult, the season is a time of rejoicing, but the season is also a time of sorrow. We see the suffering of the world, we see the want of the world, and we feel for the suffering of the world. The season is a time of hope, the season is a time of promise, but the season is also a time of despair.

We think of the new satellite, just launched, but we find it very difficult to select optimistic thoughts. We look around us and see very little else but human misery. By Owen Brandt and Jack Fox
special to THE TICKER

The City College basketball team dropped its third decision of the young season Friday, losing to Brooklyn College, 65-55. The fray was played at the BC-ers home court.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair all the way until the middle of the second half, when the Kingsmen took control of the game.

Morris Osman was high scorer for the Beavers, with 17 points, while Hector Lewis scored 15, Shelly Bender 11, and the Lavalier opened the game with a quick three-point lead.

In the second half, the Brooklyn offense was high-powered, with a 4-3 team and kept the Beavers at bay until the end of the game.

The Kingsmen took the lead with 8 minutes left in the second half, but the Beavers kept close for the season, as against two losses.

Swimmers Drop Techmen
To Garner Second Victory

City’s swimming team took its second meet of the young season Wednesday, as it outscored Brooklyn Poly, 52-37. The swimmers went down to the relay to decide the outcome of the meet.

Brooklyn Poly took the medley—City placing second. The 220-yard freestyle was won by Joe White of City, while Brooklyn Poly took second and third.

Nick West came in first for City in the dive. In the 200-yard butterfly, Mike Hayak came in first for City, as Brooklyn Poly took both second and third.

Carl Ross came in first for City in the 100-yard butterfly. The Baruchians defeated Hunter 63-60, and 19 points in the second half of a game won.

Baruchians Suffer Loss To Lions’ JV, 74-58

The Baruch School basketball team suffered its first loss of the season Wednesday, as it dropped a game to the Columbia junior varsity squad, 33-30.

The “Financial Five” tasted defeat after recording victories over the Hunter Frosh and the Baruch Evening teams.

First half play was neck-and-neck. However, Columbia managed to gain the lead at the end of the half, 31-27. Herb Brandwein led the Baruchians throughout the second half in scoring.

The Lions began to roar in the second half and were victorious.

Taking advantage of fast breaks and hitting with above-average accuracy, the Columbia team showed to be far superior to the Baruch squad.

The next game for the Baruch team will be against the Brooklyn Poly team, Wednesday, January 8. The squad will meet the Long Island team, the Brooklyn College Evening teams, during the next half of the season.

Hoopsters to Oppose LIU at 1959 Outset

By Bob Signer

The first day back in school will mark a game between the Bears and Long Island University. The game will be played 8:30, in Wingate Hall, Uptown.

Nat Holman’s Beavers, off to a mediocre start this year, will be headlined by Hector Lewis, Archie Graveman, and Company. Joel Ascher expressed hope that he will be well enough for the game.

LIU is generally a high scoring team and Bob Schenck, who scored 26 and 21 points in his last two games, is a great second-half scorer. He is expected to be in the second half of a game against Baltimore U., which LIU lost 65-60, and 19 points in the second half of a game against Quinns, which LIU beat, 90-87. Apepni, which beat the Lavender, 65-55, tops the LIU, 80-74.
