Baruch Marchers Protest
Recommended Tuition Fees

Thirty-six Baruchians picketed Governor Rockefeller's New York City office at 22 West 53 Street Friday morning, in protest of the recently submitted Heald report recommending that tuition charges be instituted at the municipal colleges.

Although the governor was vacationing in Puerto Rico at the time of the picket, the news of the protest will probably reach him by means of newspaper publicity. Reporters from The New York Times, The Post, El Diario and La Prensa were there and NBC radio was also present.

The students, who marched from 9:30 a.m., carried signs on their backs and distributed leaflets explaining the reason for the picket: to passersby. The signs on the signs included such sayings as: "Keep Free Colleges Free," "It's the Principle, Not the Price," "Don't Kill Free Higher Education," and "$900 or 11-Matties Not!"

The leaflets, which were distributed under the auspices of the Student Council of the Baruch School, stated: "The three-man Heald Committee, at the request of Governor Rockefeller, has investigated the cost of municipal education in New York State. One part of the report suggests that a $900 a year tuition be charged at the municipal colleges, which, since their inception 113 years ago, have remained tuition-free for matriculated undergraduate students.

We are opposed to the party of the report dealing with tuition at the municipal colleges because of our strong belief in the principle of free higher education. We feel that imposition of any tuition is morally and ethically wrong."

The principles upon which free higher education were founded over 100 years ago in New York City by referendum of the people are in danger here. We strongly oppose, therefore, any measures which would mean their extirpation.

Seminar Keynote to View Human Relations Studies

By Marilyn Karlin

The National Student Association Committee of Student Council will present its first human relations seminar to the Baruch School December 18 in the Student Center.

The program will revolve around discriminatory policies in the North, with discussion groups focusing in detail on problems of housing, employment, college admission, and discriminatory policies of organizations inside and outside of schools and colleges.

The program will feature a keynote address analyzing the study of human relations, the college as a force in democratic living, and the responsibility of higher education in human relations.

The basic tenets of the major faiths will be probed in a panel of clergymen of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths.

Two additional problems, the role of the administration in human relations and the role of agencies in the field of human relations, will be discussed. There will be a full discussion of what the students can do to develop an effective human relations program.

The Seminar will be held in the Lighthouse of the Blind School, by referendum of the people are in danger here. We strongly oppose, therefore, any measures which would mean their extirpation.

APO Carnival Set Next Week

Alpha Phi Omega will sponsor the traditional Charity Carnival December 8. Next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Student Center.

The carnival will consist of booths set up and administered by the various organizations of the Baruch School.

All proceeds will be donated to the Lighthouse of the Blind Scholarship Fund, which is used to help pay tuition, buy braille books and defray other expenses encountered by the blind.

Various firms will contribute merchandise to be given away as prizes to winners at the different booths. All merchandise remaining after the carnival will be auctioned off.
School Elections

Once upon the Baruch School's semiformal school-wide and class elections are near at hand. We had hoped that our entrance into the political arena might be more intrinsically; this has not been the case, and few opportunists are still on the barrows, agitating for votes. We feel that there is a need for political activity at the Baruch School, and would be in a position to bring such a movement to light.

The Student Council executive picture is brighter than most other areas, for with the exceptions of accounting unification (which is sure to bring political issues to the fore), few restrictions have been placed on the Student Council at this time. We also feel that students can play an active role in the political arena. We believe that interest in political affairs should be a vital part of college life. We also feel that students can play a vital role in the political arena.

Student Council and AC-B charters will be carefully scrutinized executive board. In actuality, these restrictions have been lifted and overhauled next semester. In particular, we think that the Student Council presidency should be left open to all students, and if the presidency has no right to request it's use. The atmosphere of the lounge is to be used and off Council. This semester the Council has given us an indication that he intends to run for office. Unfortunately, this has not been the case, and few upperclassmen, other than the candidates for the Student Council presidency, are on the roll. Many of these candidates are well galvanized to become active and overhauled next semester. In particular, we think that the Student Council presidency should be left open to all students.

Letters

To the Editor of THE TICKER:

Dear Sir,

I am writing to express my concern regarding the recent decision to ban speakers at the Baruch School. I believe that this action is not in the best interests of the school and its students. I urge you to consider the following points:

1. The right to freedom of speech is a fundamental right that should be protected. By banning speakers, the school is stifling this right.

2. The presence of speakers on campus can lead to important discussions and debates about important issues. By preventing speakers from coming, the school is preventing these discussions from taking place.

3. The school is also preventing students from hearing different perspectives and viewpoints. By avoiding exposure to diverse opinions, students may become more narrow-minded and less open-minded.

In conclusion, I urge you to reconsider this decision and allow speakers to come to the Baruch School. I believe that this action will be beneficial to the school and its students.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Beavers to Begin Season Against Wagner Thursday

By Lew Lipietz

Stopping big Bob Larsen will be the problem for City College's hoopers when they open their season Thursday against Wagner in the Seabag's gym at 8:15.

The Beavers play Yeshiva in their first Tri-State League game Saturday in Brooklyn College's gym at 8:30.

Last year Wagner's Moise finished the season with a fine 10-8 record, including a 74-59 victory over City.

Four of last year's starters have been graduated, leaving Coach Herb Sutter with the problem of having inexperienced players on his squad, with the lone exception of Larsen. The 6-7 senior was the high scorer for the Staten Islanders in 1959-60, hitting 15.4 points per game. Larsen, although the tallest man on the team, will be playing the corner as he is a deadly shooter and has excellent speed.

The only other big man Sutter has available are 6-4 Van Naher and 6-6 Ken (iraha'm. 5-10 Wally Bender, juniors Tor Nilson, Irwin Cohen and Mike Geirke and sophomore Mel Marshall, Nilson has the potential to develop into an outstanding performer. The Brooklyn Tech grad uses his 6-4 frame to good advantage under the boards, and scores well from the outside with a jump shot.

Bender, at 6-4, is an experienced center. He averaged nine points per game last season.

Both Cohen and Geirke are seniors who experienced a down year.

Marshall, a barely six footer, led the freshman team last season in both rebounding and scoring. He also is a fine ball handler with an accurate jump shot.

This year's City team has more height and speed and a stronger bench than last season's squad.

On defense, behind the starting five are veteran reserves Marty Egel, Ted Hurwitz and Bob Paulson. Hurwitz, a 5-7 senior guard, should see plenty of action because of his good speed and shots.

Sophomores slated for work are Baruchian Jerry Greenburg, Bill Schriebe and Dan Sadat.

Baruchian Mike Winston, a 5-8 guard, is also slated for work in the back court.

Yeshiva, which defeated the Beavers last year 54-31, is paced by 6-2 George Baum,('80's coach) Bernard Saracevich last two good men from last year's squad in Irv Bader and Sta Badani. The Yeshiva attack emphasizes ball control and waiting for the good shots.

In 1959-60 Yeshiva was 3-3 in the league and had an overall 11-9 record.

After these games the Beavers visit Fowling and Bucknell, before playing their first home game against Long Island University in the Nassau-Brooklyn-Fordham contest. The admission charge for this game is $1.50, at all other City home games there will be free admission to college students.

Mermen Capture First In Three-Team Match

By Mel Bernhardt

Hoping to continue where they left off last year, Beaver swimming coach Jack Rider was quite optimistic about his men against this year's Tri-State League practice last week in the uptown pool. Looking into his crystal ball, he stated that City was just too strong in the breaststroke, relay, dive and the 100-yard freestyle events. Trying not to disappoint their coach, the Beaver mermen won seven of the eleven events in the Municipal College Triangular Swimming Meet Saturday at the Queens College pool. City College totaled 86 points as against 64 for Hunter followed by Hunter with 12 points. The 64 points tallied by Queens College was a tremendous surprise since their coach thought that Hunter would give Beaver more difficulty than it did.

While City captured the 400-yard medley relay, 200-yard individual medley, the dive, 200-yard breaststroke, 440-yard freestyle and the breaststroke events, Junior Baruchian Shamy scored a double victory with 2:36.5 and 5:33.2 clockings in the 200-yard individual medley and the 400-yard freestyle events respectively.

Co-captain Danny Goldin, the senior breast stroke star who transferred from Hunter College last year, performed adequately in the butterfly event in place of Mike Bayuk, who is ineligible. Goldin won in a 2:46:8 time.

Diver Nick West, winner of last year's Class of 1915 Prize as City College's "Athlete of the Year" and his understudy, Norah Kaplan, placed first and third respectively in the dives.

The other four events proved extremely exciting as Queen's coach just nipped the Lavender 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle events in a narrow margin. Although the outcome doesn't indicate it, City was abre by a single point after the completion of the first four events.
