SC Recommendations Made Concerning Cottrell Report

The Student Council completed the perfunctory final draft of its recommendations about the Cottrell Report, which will be presented to the ad hoc committee of the Cottrell Report Committee, consisting of Richard Glantz '66 and Seven Eagles '85.

In short, the report recommended that the entrance requirements to the School merge with a new Manhattan Community College and that the School merge with a new Manhattan Community College and that it raise its entrance requirements to the School's comparable "adequate" level. The original version of the report read, "...the entrance requirements... be raised 50%... to the level of the Cottrell Report..." The authors of the report that the entrance requirements to the School merge with a new Manhattan Community College should be open to the students of the City College: that the School merge with a new Manhattan Community College; and that it raise its entrance requirements.

The Council disagreed with the authors of the report that the entrance requirements to the School should be raised. The original version of the report read, "...the entrance requirements... be raised to a level more favorable..." to the other senior colleges.

The authors of the motion contended that higher standards would lead to a better student body and attrac more capable teachers. Furthermore, that the School should not be unfair to those who were excluded in order to raise the education of the students within the School, 50% over the entrance requirements to the School merge with a new Manhattan Community College.

Anti-Tuition Group Gathers Plans to Mobilize Public

The Joint Citizens and Legislators' Committee to Save Free Tuition convened a meeting Wednesday night to "try to preserve free tuition at the City University, said Melvin Siegel, Baruch School leader in the Senate, and member of the Committee. Senator Frederick Ohrenstein from Manhattan who chaired the Committee, referred to the movement as "talking about the future" when we discuss bills in terms of restoring free tuition to the City University, or to rescind the tuition fee that was levied against the state universities.

Mr. Ohrenstein cautioned, however, that this realization could not be enacted without a definite trend. Assemblyman Joseph Kottler added, "the bill has ever been moved out of committee and passed in the memory of man. They both urged vigorous action in the essential local legislative districts.

The three provisions that the Committee believes that the bill not be enacted are the concepts of free tuition at the state universities, and the general belief that Governor Rockefeller and the Rochester Free University, or to rescind the tuition fee that was levied against the state universities.

Dean Saxe "we will miss him sorely, but wish him well as he leaves the "The banker of the Empire State Bank," the former editor of the New York Times, added wryly, "and think of the pride we should be the last to leave."

Alumni Association: Diversified

Baruch Chapter Serves School
By Steve Rago and Beth Sterling
The president of the Alumni Association, in a recent interview, said that the society's membership is around 5,500-5,600. It has its own board of directors which serves those whose ties are Downtown. The Alumni Association has been increasing at an average rate of 2% per year.

The president of the society, Joseph Douglas Rappaport, was interviewed by THE TICKER for his views about alumni. He said, "Although this is an unusual case—seventy-six years old, we have been working on this project."

The association's leadership is not concerned about the number of members, but about the quality of the support. President Gallagher is the principal supporter, "Mr. Weisman asserted."

The Alumni Association has been providing scholarships as well as maintaining a loan fund. Furthermore, association representatives have been working on labor and civil rights issues. Alumni are a part of the Association.

In addition to supporting pending legislation, the Alumni Association has been working on the establishment of a summer camp where they are engaged in assisting students. They comprise a part of City College (its campus and facilities), a C.C.N.Y. Dining Club, and the Jewish Community Center. They are looking into the possibility of a rebate of funds from the Association.

The new decrees must conform to the laws and the way in which we use them. They are engaged in assisting student reserves will be held no longer than until the lower freshman class. The lower freshman class numbers 185, 69 of which are newly entering freshmen. This is the first time that the number of freshmen has been this low.

The atmosphere in the Thesatron has also changed. The show's director is Jerry Aronoff, who also directed the production of "Flower Drum Song" and "House of Flowers." Eisner has appeared twice before in a featured role in a Theatron presentation. Thea Elisner will make her debut at the Astor Theatre, which is the first time that she has appeared in a featured role in a Thesatron production.

An Eye For an Eye

By Florence Crossman

By Larry Capalli

An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. This Biblical injunction, which we have all seen and heard many times, has always been a matter of argument. Many people will argue that this is a perfect outlet for justice, but I would like to give my reasons for why this is not the case. The biblical injunction is often misinterpreted, and many people believe that it is a perfect solution for all justice-related issues. However, I would like to argue that this is not the case.

The biblical injunction is often taken out of context and applied to situations where it does not fit. The intention of the biblical injunction is to prevent the taking of revenge and retaliation, but it is often misconstrued as a permission for any form of justice. This is where the problem lies.

One of the main problems with the biblical injunction is that it can lead to a cycle of violence and retaliation. If an eye is taken, then a tooth is taken as retaliation, and this can continue indefinitely. This cycle of violence can have devastating consequences for society as a whole.

Another problem with the biblical injunction is that it ignores the complexity of justice. Justice is not simply about revenge and retaliation, but also about repairing harm and creating a healing environment. The biblical injunction does not address these aspects of justice.

Therefore, I would argue that the biblical injunction is not a perfect solution for justice-related issues. It is important to consider the context in which the injunction is applied and to think about the broader implications of any form of justice.

The biblical injunction is not a perfect outlet for justice, and it is important to consider the broader implications of any form of justice. The best way to achieve justice is to focus on repairing harm and creating a healing environment.

Cagers Whip Yeshiva, 78-66, For Third Consecutive Win

The Beaver hooperettes won their third straight game by overwhelming Yeshiva, 78-66, Saturday, at the Power Memorial. It was City's highest point total of the season and the Lavender's fourth victory in the last five starts. C.C.N.Y. raised its overall record to 8-7. In the Tri-State League the team has a 4-3 mark, bettering last year's 4-5 finish.

The game was rough, and marred by frequent fouls and a near free-for-all almost resulted. A total of forty-nine fouls were called, twenty-five against Yeshiva. In addition, the shooting on both sides was inconsistent.

The Mighty Mites jumped to an early 11-5 lead on four consecutive jump shots by tricky baby Jacobs. However, Johnny Wyles helped City tie the score. He made a long go, Yeshiva still led 16-15. A jump shot by Wyles followed by a basket by Wyles gave the Beavers a lead they never relinquished. Yeshiva stayed close.

The entire first half, but City led 34-30 at intermission. City did not rebound well in the first period, and Wyles was the only consistent scorer. With four minutes gone in the second half, City led by only 41-36. But shots by Steve Goldstein and Ray Canaan started the Beavers on a 26-11 spurt. Greenberg began to pile up points, and with only seven minutes remaining the lead led 66-47.

At this point Coach Dave Polansky put in the substitutes, but Yeshiva was not through yet. With the game getting rougher. Aaron started to score from the field and the foul line and Yeshiva cut the margin to 69-62.

Wrestlers Slaughter Sutter For Third Straight Victory

Steve Golden, Polansky returned the starters to the court, and a foul shot by Wyles and three point play by Greenberg ended the argument. Aaron tallied seventeen points in the second half to pace all scorers with twenty-five. Jacobson, two. He is the leading Beavers' scorer, averaging 24-9 per game. Wyles had fifteen, Steve Golden hit fourteen and Ira Rudick collected ten.

The stalwart City College forwards made plenty of noise led by cheerleaders and accompanied a trumpet, whistle, and handkerchiefs. White handkerchiefs were waved with frequency at Yeshiva Coach Jack Berg, who often barks at his players.

CITY COLLEGE VERSUS LIU: Still a Basketball Attraction

By Joe Rosenberg

Fifteen years ago a basketball game between the powerhouse teams of Long Island University and City College would have packed Madison Square Garden. Since then both teams have dropped out of the "big time" picture, but Saturday's game at 8 Wingate Hall (Uptown Center) should attract a large crowd, since both teams are battling for a first division finish in the Tri-State League.

L.I.U. compiled a 4-3 league mark whereas the Beavers are 6-2 in loop play.

The Blackbirds are a disappointment this season as evidenced by their 6-14 overall record. But they are in the running in the shooting department. High scorer Charley Hellman, a senior, is averaging 18.0 points per game. The Blackbirds also lack a degree of experience and poor rebounding.

Rico Des Anjos

Coach Roy Robin alternates the other three starters. His four freshmen standouts are Tommy Cline, G. B. A. coach (4-3), Jack Kaminer (6-1), and Stan Kerman (6-4), each averaging approximately nine points per game.

An added attraction will be the

NINMORS FINISH FIFTH

Frank Polka and Fred Gropin paced the Beaver marksmen to a fifth place finish in the United States Coast Guard Invitational Tournament held at the Lewises, Minneapolis, Minnesota. City is now 11-4 in league competition and 13-3 overall. Outstanding performances were turned in by Polka, 284, and Jerry Uretzky, 281, Bernie Abramson, 278, and Fred Rossin. 276 also aided in the victory.

The Beavers' next contest will be an important one. They play the Redmen on Wednesday, January 31, on the Redmen's range.
